Farm Bill Vetoed

Washington (UPI) — President Ford Thursday vetoed legislation to increase farm price supports on grounds that it would boost the federal budget deficit unnecessarily and dry up markets for farm products.

"Although the aim of this bill is laudable, its results would be costly not only to consumers and taxpayers but to American farmers in the long run," Ford said in a veto message to the House.

Ford said the bill "would not be in the public interest" and "is an example of increased nonessential spending" he has pledged to prevent if possible so that the federal budget deficit would not go beyond $60 billion in the 1976 fiscal year starting July 1.

The President said the farm bill could add as much as $1.8 billion to the federal deficit in fiscal 1976 and that it was representative of new spending programs under consideration by the Democratic-controlled Congress that together "could easily raise the federal deficit to an intolerable level of $100 billion."

"This must not happen," Ford said.

The President also said the bill "would undermine the successful market-oriented farm policy" pursued by the administration as well as Congress and that the legislation amounted to "a step backward toward previously discredited policies."

Congress, after a five-month slide in farm prices from last October through March, passed the bill in an attempt to give farmers greater backstop assurance against a further price collapse. It would raise, for this year only, both crop support loans and "target" prices for wheat, feed grains and cotton. It also would raise soybean and dairy supports.

Under the target price system, growers get direct federal income subsidy payments if market prices slip below those targets. Crop support loans, which are set at lower levels, serve to undergird actual market prices.

Ford did not — as aides had indicated he might — move to soften the impact of his veto by permitting a smaller compromise increase in grain supports by administrative action.

The bill would have raised corn support loans from the present $1.10 a bushel to $1.87. The corn support "target" price — which serves as a trigger for direct income subsidy payments to farmers if market prices fall below the target — would go from the existing $1.38 to $2.25.

Wheat loans would have gone from $1.37 a bushel to $2.50 and the wheat target from $2.05 to $3.10. The cotton loan would have risen from 34 cents a pound to 38 cents, and the target from the present 38 cents to 45 cents.

Soybean loans would have been set at $3.94 a bushel and dairy supports raised from $7.24 a hundredweight to $7.31.

Chairman Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., of the House Agriculture Committee said farm leaders probably would seek a House vote late next week in an attempt to override the veto. He said the outcome would be close, and acknowledged "it's going to be a difficult uphill fight" to get the necessary two-thirds margin.

Police Have Last Word

It really bothered Robert Campbell of Des Moines that state authorities were going to take away his driver's license. That, he told police, was the reason he set his car afire at a downtown intersection. His troubles aren't over. Police charged Campbell with obstructing traffic and violating the city ban on open burning.

VC Decree New Policy

By The Associated Press

The Viet Cong announced Thursday they were in complete control of South Vietnam and issued a series of policy decrees stressing revolutionary government and an end to 15 years of U.S. influence. A broadcast warned people against "acting like Americans."

Among the decrees was an order nationalizing virtually all of the country's business and industry, the Cuban news agency reported.

In a dispatch from Saigon, renamed Ho Chi Minh City, the agency said the order covered banks, transportation, factories, farms, U.S.-owned firms and property belonging to officials of the former regime.

North Vietnam demanded that U.S. warships withdraw from areas off the coast and halt what it called "forcible evacuation" of Vietnamese who, according to the Pentagon, have been fleeing in rafts and small boats into the South China Sea.

A North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry statement broadcast by Hanoi said the Navy's presence and the announced U.S. policy of picking up refugees from the sea constituted "criminal" interference in the internal affairs of South Vietnam.

In Washington, Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger said that at most there were one or two ships remaining which might still pick up refugees. The others are now headed eastward away from the waters of Indochina, he said.

A Viet Cong broadcast from Ho Chi Minh City said the conquest of South Vietnam was completed with the disbanding of four divisions of the South Vietnamese army in the Mekong Delta. There was no mention of any fighting.

The Viet Cong dropped the word "provisional" from their official name to become the Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam. Under its new title the regime broadcast a policy manifesto promising equality, religious freedom, full employment, education, public welfare and a "revolutionary government." "Anyone acting like Americans or participating in such American-style activities as opening night clubs, brothels or other places of entertainment will be punished," one decree said.

Newspapers and periodicals were closed for the sake of "public peace."

Other decrees provided for protection of personal property, including that of foreigners who obey government orders, warned against looting and the committing of criminal offenses in the name of the new authorities and disbanded all agencies and organizations of the old government.

Justice System Said 'Cluttered'

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The attorney general of the U.S. said Thursday the "system of civil justice has become cluttered," and "the criminal justice system has fallen into incredible disrepair.

"The burden of increasing crime has put pressures upon the system which it is incapable of supporting," Edward H. Levi told a Law Day banquet audience in Lincoln.

"Criminals have learned to use the inefficiency of the system to their own advantage and the result is grave."

Levi, former law dean and president of the University of Chicago, cited "growing fear" because the FBI report of serious crime showed the highest increase in 42 years — 17% higher than in 1973, excluding unreported crimes.

Problems Difficult

He did not reproach society for not fulfilling "all its aspirations;" rather, Levi said, those have largely been surpassed. Yet "Our society and its law have difficult problems to face today."

That includes unclogging the courts from lawsuits which now are "the only resort" for people "who think they are powerless in the face of impersonal and indifferent institutions."

Moreover, Levi said, "The lawsuit is a method not so much for having a tribunal resolve an issue as for forcing a resolution out of court.

"If the criminal justice system weakens the deterrent force of law, then there is more crime," which Levi said puts its burden back on an already overwhelmed system.

Categories Outgrown

"The law has also outgrown many of its traditional categories as we have called upon it to solve complex, technological problems" such as environmental protection, he said.

Levi said judges "must display a different sort of reasoning to support their judgement" on changing societal principles to deal with problems, and "the lawyer's job is to translate these values into rules."

He applauded Nebraska Sen. Roman Hruska for such efforts in attempting to revise the federal criminal code. Translating "values into law," Levi said, "has been an example of the highest calling of the legal profession."

Earlier Thursday, Levi, 63, received an honorary degree from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln when he dedicated the new $3.25 million college of Law Building on East Campus.

At an afternoon press conference, the attorney general said he has conducted "intensive discussions" since he took office Feb. 7 to form a workable proposal on gun control. Levi's first suggestion to stop the illicit flow and to ban possession of handguns in high-crime urban areas has been tagged unenforceable.

"We may very well fail" in attempting that "social engineering" which he said "state or city authorities can't handle." He hinted that better recording of gun sales may offer part or the answer.

But the key is local enforcement and tougher penalties — not overloading the federal system, he said. "I don't want to advocate anything that won't do any good and is (only) symbolic."

If tighter controls would diminish crimes by 20% in cities that "have turned into jungles" while upholding the right for legitimate gun ownership, Levi said he'd approve.

Sample comments from the Chicago native on other issues:

— The Thursday Omaha appearance by Communist Angela Davis: "There's a place in this country for dissent."

— Today's law students: They "tend to be conformists" and "aren't really so different from when I was a student." He cited the "Levi Formula" on students' goals: "The point where doing social good crosses financial reward."

— The death penalty: "There is evidence it deters crime." He favored it but said appeals must be processed faster. "Ten to 12 years on death row — that's not a death penalty."

— His goal as attorney general: To "make the prosecutorial function work better" with more, better and higher paid justices, better investigative techniques and better knowledge about recidivism. The police are not at fault, he said, the judicial system fails after their efforts.

Teacher Contract Includes 10.5% Pay, Benefits Hike

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

After some uncustomarily hard-nosed stands Thursday, negotiators agreed tentatively to a 1975-76 contract settlement giving Lincoln teachers a 10.5% overall increase in pay and fringe benefits.

The fringe benefit package was called "historic and pace-setting."

The Lincoln Board of Education and the Lincoln Education Association (LEA) teams steamed into some pressure-cooker tactics, first with apparent stand-offs at 10.26% versus 10.8%, then disputing how each side calculated fringe benefit dollar boosts.

But after two caucuses, the teams released the safety valve from the ultimatums by agreeing only to the overall percentage increase in the package.

The sparring abandoned, the teams decided that exact dollar amounts, the new salary schedule structure and some yet unresolved contract language will be worked out for formal agreement at a final negotiations session, possibly next week.

Best estimates, based on the board's last counterproposal, would increase total teacher pay dollars by more than $1.5 million and the fringe benefit package value by about $227,000.

The board offer would raise the base pay for a beginning teacher by $550, to $8,375, with salary increases ranging from 11.1% for teachers at the bottom of the pay scale to about 6.9% for those at the top. Those figures will vary after the teams come to terms on final calculations.

The 10.5% average pay boost compares to 10.32% more salary dollars the board granted teachers a year ago for 1974-75.

The tentative pact capped bargaining talks that began exactly three months ago, with the LEA shaving successive bits off its 14.14% opening demand while the board team moved slowly up from its 7.69% initial offer.

The compromise also hinged on trade-offs bartered earlier. The LEA yielded six demands for nonsalary items that the board wouldn't budge to allow, in exchange for two board concessions — including deviation from the pay schedule — plus putting the early retirement option into effect this year.

Supt. John Prasch, who presided over the seven rounds, said Thursday, "The negotiations were conducted in a very professional style and I think the package is a good one for teachers."

Prasch explained, "We do not know what the (tax) impact of this will be on our next budget, because the amount of state aid (the district will get) is uncertain at this point."

LEA Executive Director Robert F. Peterson said the "concepts in the fringe proposal will be historic and pace-setting."

He referred to three items in the fringe benefit package, which chief board negotiator Terry Workman called "unique in the state." They are the early retirement incentive option, a procedure for forced staff reduction and a system by which teachers may apply school district dollar contributions to income protection or health insurance premiums or to their salaries.

"We're pleased that the board was persuaded by our proposal" for the new fringe benefit concept allowing options, Peterson said, commending board members' willingness to pioneer the program.

Although the foreseeable future shows no staff reduction necessary, Peterson said, "There is wisdom in establishing an orderly procedure (now) should that day come."

The teams Thursday also reached conditional consensus on how to implement the early retirement plan for teachers aged 62 through 64, effective July 1, and on the insurance-pay option ranging from $60 to $360 annually, subject to acceptance of final contract language.

In agreeing to the insurance-pay option, Workman said the board recognized the "real concern" of the LEA to support teachers by allowing a tax shelter, especially for those at the top of the pay scale.

Once the two teams stamp final approval on the pact, it is still subject to ratification by the LEA membership.

Prison Building Plans Upset Again

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

They did it again.

State senators Thursday revised their prison construction proposals, shattering an agreement between Gov. J. James Exon and the Judiciary Committee and prompting the promise of a gubernatorial veto.

Tossing out the proposal for a new 300-inmate prison in Lincoln, previously agreed to by the governor and the committee, the Legislature substituted a plan for construction of two 175-inmate facilities to replace the Men's Reformatory.

The new proposal, sponsored by Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha, gained 26-13 adoption and the bill, LB417, was sent on to second stage floor consideration on a 35-1 vote.

Last year, senators also rewrote the prison proposal on the floor, triggering a gubernatorial veto.

In 1973, Exon vetoed appropriations for two state prisons, located in Lincoln and Omaha.

Until this week, the new agreement, cosponsored by Judiciary Chairman Roland Luedtke of Lincoln and Cavanaugh, appeared to be safe, having attracted no opposition at its public hearing and clearing committee without a dissent.

Luedtke Opposed

Luedtke, who has agonized for three years over delays in prison construction proposals, opposed the Cavanaugh plan and served notice that he may attempt to restore the original proposal in order to head off its death by veto.

Cavanaugh said his proposal represented "the halfway ground" between the single prison plan and Sen. Steve Fowler's proposal to build four smaller institutions to house inmate populations ranging from 75 to 125.

Fowler withdrew his plan in favor of Cavanaugh's.

Legislature stories on Pages 8, 9

The Cavanaugh proposal would:

— Authorize construction of a $4 million, 175-inmate facility in Lincoln over the next two fiscal years, beginning the process with a $450,000 appropriation in 1975-76.

— Authorize construction of additional 175-inmate facilities, launching that process with a $45,000 appropriation to develop preliminary planning and choose sites.

Those facilities would be medium-minimum security prisons replacing the Reformatory.

Original Proposal

LB417 originally proposed construction of a $10 million, 300-inmate facility in Lincoln to replace the Reformatory, providing an initial $637,200 appropriation to commence the job by July 1, 1976.

Cavanaugh's plan would also appropriate $30,000 to develop preliminary plans for future construction of new maximum security facilities for 250 inmates, with the site undetermined. They would modernize or replace the Penitentiary.

Exon has recommended funding for new housing facilities at the present Penitentiary site, beginning in 1976-77.

His plan, Cavanaugh said, actually restores the prison construction proposal to its original 1973 concept of small, community-based facilities.

Luedtke argued that the 300-inmate facility is, in fact, a small institution, which matches the original concept of a medium-minimum facility ranging from 250 to 300 inmates.

That size is needed to house Reformatory inmates who are not placed in community-based facilities and to house some prisoners now held in the overcrowded Penitentiary, he said.

Those institutions now house about 1,000 prisoners.

Is $4 Million Enough?

Luedtke also questioned whether $4 million would be sufficient to construct a facility housing 175 persons.

If enactment of the Cavanaugh plan results in death for the bill, he warned, "we are going to be back where we started from" without any authorization for prison construction.

Fowler said he wants smaller institutions to provide inmates with "more personal attention" and give prisoners more of an opportunity to enter into community-based programs.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said the new plan represented "an eleventh hour proposal . . . which may set us back one year."

"We are likely to come up once again with nothing but yak," Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood warned.

LB417 also authorizes institution of a community-based pilot project for offenders in Omaha, reorganizes the Department of Correctional Services and directs the agency to establish minimum jail standards throughout the state.

Here is the vote to adopt the Cavanaugh plan:

For: Anderson, Bereuter, Burrows, Cavanaugh, Chambers, Dickinson, Duis, Fitzgerald, Fowler, George, Goodrich, Johnson, Kelly, Koch, R. Lewis, Maresh, Marvel, Mills, Moylan, Murphy, Nichol, Rasmussen, Rumery, Skarda, Stoney, Syas.

Against: Barnett, Carsten, Cope, Hasebroock, Kennedy, Keyes, Kremer, Luedtke, Mahoney, Stull, Swigart, Warner, Wiltse.

Absent or Not Voting: Burbach, Clark, DeCamp, Dworak, Kime, F. Lewis, Marsh, Savage, Schmit, Simpson.

College Station, Tex. (UPI) — With the worldwide shortage of fertilizer, agriculture experts at Texas A&M University have recommended its use for lawns and landscaping be limited.

Teacher Contract Includes 10.5% Pay, Benefits Hike

— Authorize construction of a $4 million, 175-inmate facility in Lincoln over the next two fiscal years, beginning the process with a $450,000 appropriation in 1975-76.

— Authorize construction of additional 175-inmate facilities, launching that process with a $45,000 appropriation to develop preliminary planning and choose sites.

Those facilities would be medium-minimum security prisons replacing the Reformatory.

Original Proposal

LB417 originally proposed construction of a $10 million, 300-inmate facility in Lincoln to replace the Reformatory, providing an initial $637,200 appropriation to commence the job by July 1, 1976.

Cavanaugh's plan would also appropriate $30,000 to develop preliminary plans for future construction of new maximum security facilities for 250 inmates, with the site undetermined. They would modernize or replace the Penitentiary.

Exon has recommended funding for new housing facilities at the present Penitentiary site, beginning in 1976-77.

His plan, Cavanaugh said, actually restores the prison construction proposal to its original 1973 concept of small, community-based facilities.

Luedtke argued that the 300-inmate facility is, in fact, a small institution, which matches the original concept of a medium-minimum facility ranging from 250 to 300 inmates.

That size is needed to house Reformatory inmates who are not placed in community-based facilities and to house some prisoners now held in the overcrowded Penitentiary, he said.

Those institutions now house about 1,000 prisoners.

Is $4 Million Enough?

Luedtke also questioned whether $4 million would be sufficient to construct a facility housing 175 persons.

If enactment of the Cavanaugh plan results in death for the bill, he warned, "we are going to be back where we started from" without any authorization for prison construction.

Fowler said he wants smaller institutions to provide inmates with "more personal attention" and give prisoners more of an opportunity to enter into community-based programs.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said the new plan represented "an eleventh hour proposal . . . which may set us back one year."

"We are likely to come up once again with nothing but yak," Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood warned.

LB417 also authorizes institution of a community-based pilot project for offenders in Omaha, reorganizes the Department of Correctional Services and directs the agency to establish minimum jail standards throughout the state.

Here is the vote to adopt the Cavanaugh plan:

For: Anderson, Bereuter, Burrows, Cavanaugh, Chambers, Dickinson, Duis, Fitzgerald, Fowler, George, Goodrich, Johnson, Kelly, Koch, R. Lewis, Maresh, Marvel, Mills, Moylan, Murphy, Nichol, Rasmussen, Rumery, Skarda, Stoney, Syas.

Against: Barnett Carsten, Cope, Hasebroock, Kennedy, Keyes, Kremer, Luedtke, Mahoney, Stull, Swigart, Warner, Wiltse.

Absent or Not Voting: Burbach, Clark, DeCamp, Dworak, Kime, F. Lewis, Marsh, Savage, Schmit, Simpson.

College Station, Tex. (UPI) — With the worldwide shortage of fertilizer, agriculture experts at Texas A&M University have recommended its use for lawns and landscaping be limited.

Officials say many persons use more fertilizer on lawns than is necessary because most grasses need less nitrogen, a common element in fertilizer.

Some Remember U.S. Is Haven For Homeless

By United Press International

Many Americans, remembering their country's heritage as a haven for homeless exiles, Thursday warmed to the plight of thousands of Vietnamese refugees arriving in the land behind "the golden door."

But others asked, "Why are they coming here?"

The flow of refugees into Camp Pendleton, Calif., passed the 5,000 mark Thursday, with another 12,500 expected before nightfall.

More than 1,300 — wives, children and in-laws of Americans — already have been processed through the makeshift camp at the huge Marine Corps base and left for homes across the country.

As the planes arrived at a rate of more than one an hour, the percentage of homeless refugees increased.

Some of them had sponsors in this country but many did not and they formed a semipermanent corps at Pendleton.

Nine volunteer groups under the umbrella of the American Council of Volunteer Agencies were operating at the camp, trying to find sponsors.

All of the expected 60,000 to 70,000 refugees will be routed through the base. After processing, they will be passed on to the two other centers — Ft. Chaffee, Ark., where the first group was scheduled to arrive Friday, and Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., where the first group was to arrive Saturday.

The refugees faced a mixed reception.

In Barling, Ark., near Ft. Chaffee, Mrs. Johnnie Calhoun said she and some of her neighbors will be out with protest signs when the first contingent of refugees arrives.

"They say it's a lot colder here than it is in Vietnam," she said. "With a little luck, maybe they'll take pneumonia and die."

Others, however, extended the hand of welcome.

"There's been a great (community) outpouring of offers of assistance," said a Ft. Chaffee information officer. "My office alone has had dozens of calls with offers of clothing, food, toys and games and offers of peoples' time to assist."

In Little Rock, church leaders issued a statement welcoming the refugees to Arkansas.

"Many of our ancestors came to this continent also as refugees," it said. "Others came as slaves and indentured servants. Yet they found here a home in which to rebuild their shattered lives."

The number of refugees with no friends or relatives in the United States was expected to increase this weekend as the Vietnamese who managed to escape in the last frantic scramble from Saigon begin arriving from packed transit camps on Guam, the Philippines, Wake Island, Thailand and the flotilla of U.S. Navy ships in the South China Sea.

It was becoming increasingly apparent that many of them were the cream of South Vietnam's professional middle and uppper classes.

Waiting in camps across the Pacific are doctors, diplomats, college teachers, lawyers, merchants, civil servants and soldiers — many of whom already are talking about enlisting in the U.S. armed forces.

And then there was also the not-so-sweet young thing who arrived at Clark Air Base, the Philippines, from Saigon with $4,000 in greenbacks pinned inside her panties. Her rescue plane had not been equipped with toilets and in her rush to a bathroom on landing she accidentally flushed away her fortune. Enterprising engineers recovered it.

Despite the reports of refugees carrying large amounts of money or valuables with them, American bankers on hand in the camps to assist with such portable wealth said they saw little of it.

"I think most of these people got their assets out before the end came," one banker said.

Ford Excoriates Rejection Of Aid For Viet Refugees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House rejected President Ford's urgent $327 million aid request for South Vietnamese refugees Thursday because it still bore authority for U.S. military evacuations.

Hours later, Ford issued a statement declaring the House's decision was "not worthy of a people which has lived by the philosophy symbolized in the Statue of Liberty."

He appealed to Congress to draw up new legislation, and House leaders indicated they would draft a new bill containing the money only.

The bill, written before the Saigon government fell, was up for Congress' final approval Thursday. It was rejected 246 to 162 despite an appeal from Ford that its evacuation authority was now useless and the money was "desperately needed."

Opponents cheered and applauded as the electronic counters on each end of the House chamber rolled up the rejection vote.

"The evacuation has been completed," Ford said in a letter to the House. "The Congress may be assured that I do not intend to send the armed forces of the United States back into Vietnamese territory."

Ford said the cost of taking care of refugees is expected to be more than $400 million and that the $327 million was needed for immediate expenses.

But opponents, including House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts, said the House should not set a precedent by authorizing U.S. combat troops abroad who are not needed.

Ford said he was "saddened and disappointed" by the House vote and said it "does not reflect the values we cherish as a nation of immigrants. It is not worthy of a people which has lived by the philosophy symbolized in the Statue of Liberty. It reflects fear and misunderstanding rather than charity and compassion."

The State Department said Thursday that the total of South Vietnamese evacuated by the United States now totals nearly 80,000. Out of this total, spokesman Robert Anderson said, U.S. ships had picked up about 32,000 South Vietnamese refugees on the high seas as of early Thursday.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger said the evacuations by use of U.S. Navy ships had been completed; but the State Department said the American evacuation effort at sea will continue in spite of North Vietnamese protests.

Anderson said he did not have an estimate of the final total of refugees but said the "great, great majority" will come to the United States.

Schlesinger, assessing the end of the Vietnam war, said he expects no new Communist military challenges in Asia as a result of North Vietnam's victory. He also said "it is particularly inopportune to contemplate major changes" in U.S. military deployments because of fears that the confidence in jamerican power and steadfastness might be shaken.

Thone Against Aid

Washington (AP) — Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., and Rep. Virginia Smith, R-Neb., voted Thursday to reject the humanitarian aid bill, while Rep. John McCollister, R-Neb., voted for it.

Mrs. Bowers Has No Word Of Brother

Mrs. Helen Bowers of Lincoln said Thursday she still has not heard whether her brother, Donald Chadd, has gotten out of Vietnam.

Civilian pilot Chadd, 51, was still in Saigon when interviewed for the Los Angeles Times News service earlier this week. He had said he was waiting until he got his two planes out of the country before evacuating.

Members of the Jack Critchfield family have been luckier. While watching the 6 p.m. news Wednesday they saw their son, Don, aboard a helicopter taking him from the fallen city.

Don, a news photographer for National Broadcasting Co. (NBC) and a former Lincoln resident, has been stationed in Saigon since April 2.

According to his mother, Mrs. Loma Critchfield, Don hadn't gotten in touch with the family as of Thursday night, but she thinks he is aboard the U.S.S. Blue Ridge heading for Subic Bay.

Budget Guidelines Approved

Washington (AP) — The House and Senate approved budget guidelines Thursday calling for federal deficits of $7 billion to $10 billion more than President Ford says the country can tolerate.

Ford has drawn the line at $60 billion worth of red ink spending.

The Senate approved, 69 to 22, a resolution including a $67.2 billion deficit. And the House, after stormy debate over amendments, voted 200 to 196 for guidelines with a prospective deficit of $70 billion.

A conference committee of the two chambers will now convene to work out a compromise on which Congress may act next week to provide guidelines for approving programs and spending.

Before approving the measure the House went on record as opposing Ford's proposal to limit increases in Social Security and other government pension benefits to 5%

Without congressional action an 8% increase goes into effect with the July Social Security payments.

The House also approved an amendment increasing estimated revenues by $3 billion and, in effect, directing the Ways and Means Committee to find the money by closing tax loopholes.

The Senate version sets a $365-billion spending target while the House action contemplates spending of $368 2 billion. Ford's original budget called for spending of $349.4 billion, but the House Budget Committee said changes already made by Ford and Congress raise that to $359.6 billion.

The final measure on which both chambers hope to agree by May 15 is not binding on Congress when the two houses come to appropriating funds. It is, however, a major element in the new budget procedures enacted last year with the states purpose of controlling government spending and dealing itself a bigger role in setting priorities. The procedures are being given a trial run this year and go fully into effect in 1976.

Curtis In Minority

Washington (AP) — Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., voted in the minority as the Senate approved 69-22 a resolution setting a $365 billion spending target and a $67.2 billion deficit for fiscal 1976.

'Men On The Make, Fear Not'

New York (UPI) — A judge ruled Thursday that a con is not a conquest as he dismissed rape charges against a man accused of luring a college girl to an apartment and attacking her.

"Bachelors and other men on the make, fear not," said Manhattan Supreme Court Justice Edward J. Greenfield "It is still not illegal to feed a girl a line, to make promises that will not be kept or to indulge in exaggerations and hyperbole, or to assure her as in the fairy tale that the ugly frog is a handsome prince."

Despite dropping the sex charges, however, Greenfield found cable television personality Martin Evans, 37, guilty of criminal trespass for using an apartment without the owner's permission in the seduction of Beth Peterson, 21, last July.

Miss Peterson, at the time a Wellesley College sophomore and now a pre-med student at Dartmouth College, had charged that Evans picked her up at LaGuardia Airport, bought her drinks at a singles bar and then attacked her in a West Side apartment.

However, Greenfield ruled, "The question in this case is whether the sexual conquest by a predatory male of a resisting female constitutes rape or seduction."

While saying cases where overt force is used are clearly criminal, Greenfield ruled, "we recognize there are situations that do not deserve the extreme penalty and in which the male objective was achieved through charm, guile, protestations of love, promises and even deceit."

He said, "This we label seduction and society may condone it even as we despair."

Greenfield, who presided at the non-jury trial, also found Evans guilty of attempting to escape from a detective who was bringing him in for questioning on Miss Peterson's complaint.

In four hours on the witness stand, Miss Peterson testified she had spent the night at the apartment with Evans and had filed the complaint two days later.

The judge pointed out that in the alleged rape "the only restraint on her body was his body weight, which is normal during the sexual act."

He found Miss Peterson "incredibly trusting, gullible and naive."

Money Supply To Grow 5-7.5%, Burns Says

Washington (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board plans to increase the nation's money supply by as much as $21.5 billion in the year ending next March to help prod the nation's economy out of its deep recession, board chairman Arthur F. Burns said Thursday.

"The monetary path we're on is sufficient to insure a strong economic recovery," Burns told the Senate Banking Committee.

He said the board proposes to increase the money supply at between 5 and 7.5 per cent in the year that began in April, up from about 4.7 per cent during 1974, when the increase amounted to about 4.7 per cent during 1974, when the increase amounted to about $12.8 billion.

It was the first time in the 62-year history of the money-managing Federal Reserve Board that its money growth targets had been publicly revealed in advance. The growth figures given by Burns are for the narrowly defined money supply, which includes currency and bank checking accounts.

The size of the nation's money supply is important to the economy because it helps determine how much money is available for lending and borrowing by banks, businesses and consumers. Too little money can drive up interest rates and discourage growth; too much can contribute to inflation.

As of the end of 1974 the nation's money supply was $284.3 billion.

A further increase in unemployment was predicted, meanwhile, by Labor Secretary John T. Dunlop.

President Ford at the same time called for a restoration of confidence in the American free enterprise system as he participated in the swearing-in of Rogers C. B. Morton as secretary of commerce.

Burns had been reluctant to reveal the money growth targets, but was forced to do so by a congressional resolution that was largely the work of Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Banking Committee.

Burns described the 1975-1976 money goals as "a course of moderation in monetary policy" which contrasts to the policy of "moderate restraint" that the board followed during the period of high inflation in 1973 and 1974.

Proxmire said he was satisfied that Burns had complied with the spirit of the congressional resolution, but said he favored a bigger increase in the money supply, possibly in the range of 8 to 10 per cent.

"I personally urge you to follow a more expansionary policy," Proxmire told Burns. "In view of the tremendous unemployment in the country, we have to take some risks, and those risks are not so great at the moment."

But Burns said the money targets already "err on the side of ease," and that while they are appropriate for a recession they "could not be maintained indefinitely without running a serious risk of releasing new inflationary pressures."

The Fed acts to increase or decrease the money supply by buying or selling government securities in financial markets, by changing the levels of money reserves that banks must maintain and by changing its own interest rate to member bank borrowers.

Burns said it is not the increase in the money supply that will be important to the strength of the economic recovery, but the willingness of the people to use the money that is already there.

"Having money lying around idle does our economy no good," he said.

Joan Little Trial Moved To Raleigh

Washington, N.C. (AP) — A state judge Thursday orderd the murder trial of Joan Little moved away from here to Raleigh.

Superior Court Judge Henry McKinnon said, "it is my conclusion that the interest of justice suggest that Wake County is an appropriate place for the trial."

The defense had sought a change of venue for the young black woman charged with murdering a white Beaufort County jailer. The prosecution had agreed to a change, but wanted the trial held within the same judicial district or a neighboring county.

Senate Opposes Oil Price Thaw

Washington (AP) — In another show of opposition to President Ford's program of higher energy prices, the Senate passed a bill Thursday giving Congress authority to block any presidential action removing controls from oil prices.

The bill also would freeze "new" oil prices at a level no higher than that existing on Feb. 1, 1975. This would mean a rollback of $1 to $2 a barrel.

The 47-36 vote on the bill is far short of the two-thirds necessary to override an expected presidential veto.

The vote came 24 hours after Ford repeated his intention to end controls gradually on "old" oil prices, which now are fixed at an average of $5.25 per barrel. Opponents say this action would raise U.S. energy bills by $22 billion a year.

In a victory for the oil industry, the Senate adopted, 49 to 37, an amendment by Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., that would remove price controls from oil produced through enhanced recovery techniques.

The City Council Race

Despite some ambiguous warnings and curious labels attached to a couple of the candidates for Lincoln City Council by outside forces, the contest for four open council seats has been for the most part low-key and issue-oriented. Incumbents running for re-election — Steve Cook, Bob Sikyta and W. Richard Baker — have all run clean, positive campaigns and the same can be said overall for the five challengers — Jim Carson, Bob Jeambey, Mary Rogge, Bill Thierstein and Steve Tiwald.

What Lincoln needs in its council is balance, to be sure, and also members with the wisdom and capacity to entertain a broad, rather than narrow, range of views and the patience to frame their decisions in terms of what is best over the long run and not what is best in terms of immediate gratification.

Looking at the field, we see no candidate who in our opinion espouses a "no-growth," anti-business policy. To do so would be folly, both for the city and the candidate. We don't see any dangerous spenders, either, although there would be little to fear from "spenders" because of the city's sliding mill levy ceiling.

The Star endorses the re-election bids of Councilmen Steve Cook and Bob Sikyta, believing their experience and the continuity they would give to council activity would be of benefit to the city.

This newspaper also recommends that voters take a close look at the promising potential of candidates Jeambey, a minister who has been involved in a wide range of community activities and who as chairman of the Goals and Policies Committee is as well-grounded as any Lincolnite in the city's growth and development options, and Tiwald, a state health planner, who has developed thoughtful, in-depth position papers on the issues as the campaign has progressed.

We hope that voters can unemotionally view the merits of each candidate before casting their ballots on May 6.

Some Shocking Figures

In this credit-crazed society the people whose wants outstrip the means to pay for them lose all sense of proportion: the figures which show how much money costs to use whip by in a blur and the people sometimes are unknowing or uncaring.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly came up with some shocking figures on the amount of interest paid on home loans the other day when the Legislature was debating LB349 which, as amended, would hike Nebraska's usury limit from 9% to 11%. The original bill would have raised the limit to 12%.

Warner said that increased interest payments would make Nebraskans "home renters rather than home owners," and argued that with the current decline in interest rates nationally, a hike in the usury rate ceiling is not needed at this time.

An example of the effect of the proposed increase offered by Warner: At the current 9% limit, he said, the purchaser of a $25,000 home who wishes to make monthly payments of $250 would pay off his home loan in 15 and ½ years with $21,500 in interest payments. At an 11% rate, Warner said, it would take more than 22 years to pay off the loan with monthly payments of $250. And interest payments would almost double from the $21,500 to $42,000. Thus the cost of financing a $25,000 home could jump from $46,500 to $67,000. Had the proposed limit stayed at 12%, Warner said, total interest costs on a $25,000 home could have reached $132,000 if monthly payments remained at $250. It would then have taken 52 and ½ years to pay off the loan, he said.

We're not saying that people who want to buy a home are totally blind when they go in to borrow money, but we doubt whether there are many people who understand the full ramifications of lifting the interest ceiling.

We recognize the problem the lending institutions have when interest rates are lower here than some other places. But we think there is a social problem, too, and that involves tying would-be home owners to endless debt in paying for the use of mortgage money.

LB349 has been advanced toward final reading on a 29-13 vote. It looks almost assured of passage. Perhaps Nebraskans will want to communicate their opinions regarding interest rates on home loans to their senators before the final vote is taken.

ANTHONY LEWIS

Focal Point For The Blame

WASHINGTON — The war is over. Did we think we would ever say those words? They bring relief, pain, exhaustion, an aching desire to forget. But the rest cannot be silence — not if America is to restore her integrity and her vision after the ravaging years.

The Vietnam experience cries out for us to re-examine our premises in the world. Inevitably, the process of re-examination must bring into question the man who has dominated our foreign policy these last six years as few individuals ever have. To focus on him at a moment of his failure may seem unfair; but then he sought the power — and used it in ways that cost hundreds of thousands of lives in Cambodia and Vietnam.

Regardless of one's general view of Henry Kissinger, there is a weighty philosophical reason for him to leave office now. That is the principle of responsibility. When a democracy suffers a disastrous policy failure, resignation of the responsible official helps clear the air. It allows new policies to be developed without the hindrance of personal attachment to the old. It allows public faith in leadership to be restored.

When the French were defeated at Dienbienphu in 1954, their government fell. A man with the courage to face reality, Pierre Mendes-France, came in as premier and liquidated France's long adventure in Indochina with surprisingly little public trauma. France emerged stronger.

We do not have a parliamentary system, but the political and psychological necessities at a time of failure are not so different — as Lyndon Johnson understood in 1968. Moreover, Kissinger has taken a truculent line toward our corrective institution, which is Congress: blaming it for South Vietnam's collapse and drafting for President Ford's State of the World speech a series of ill-timed demands that Congress repeal its restraints on his power.

Of course Kissinger is not the sole author of the American debacle in Indochina. Behind him stretches a long line of failed men. But the principle of responsibility usually attaches to those immediately associated with policy disasters, and that is appropriate in Kissinger's case for a number of reasons.

The early American decisions on Indochina can be regarded as blundering efforts to do good. But by 1969 it was clear to most of the world — and most Americans — that the intervention had been a disastrous mistake. Instead of facing the truth, Kissinger sought to avoid it by widening the war and then pulling American combat forces out under cover of the illusion that "stability" had been achieved.

It was a cynical policy, because Kissinger well knew that the Saigon regime did not have the political base to last a minute without perpetual American intervention on its behalf. The cynicism intensified when he declared "peace" and then allowed Saigon to block the political terms of the Paris agreement — the one chance for peaceful transition.

☆ ☆ ☆

The end was worst of all. As illusion crumbled in Vietnam, Kissinger swung between hysteria and immobility. He pronounced America faithless before the world. He insisted that the country stick to such failed ideas as more arms for

MENDES-FRANCE
... facing reality, he strengthened France ...

Saigon. He tried to arouse recrimination and then piously deplored it.

A month ago there was still a chance for a cease-fire and a negotiated statement — a chance to save lives — but Kissinger clung to Nguyen Van Thieu. He let his ambassador in Saigon delay evacuation until the final shame was inevitable: Americans clubbing the fingers of Vietnamese trying to climb the walls of the embassy compound.

After these last weeks, the extraordinary era of a personalized American foreign policy — with one man making it, executing it, negotiating — must be at an end. Such established outside figures as Clark Clifford are saying out loud that Kissinger should go. Within the executive branch, within his own State Department, there is growing disillusionment with the manner and substance of his performance.

If he should hang on, Kissinger will be operating under new restraints, executive and congressional. Ford may see the advantage, to him, of having a new secretary of state, one not tied to the failures of the past, one who could restore dignity and credibility to that office.

But whatever happens to the person, there will be deeper questions to answer about American policy in the Kissinger years. They are questions about means and ends.

The means with which the world has become familiar are bombs and threats, secret undertakings and tall tales — the diplomacy not of Metternich but of Curtis LeMay and Baron Munchhausen. The stated end has been "stability." In practice that has meant attempts to freeze the status quo, and a concern for power rather than humanity.

Do those means and ends represent the American vision 200 years after we made our revolution? The real question is not for Henry Kissinger but for ourselves.

CHICAGO — People who are out of work can be driven to desperate measures. Some turn to crime. Others even borrow from their in-laws.

And there was the extreme course taken by John Villardito, who is 21, has a pregnant wife, and no job.

Villardito had been waiting more than six weeks for Illinois Gov. Dan Walker's bureaucrats and crazy computer to send him his unemployment compensation check. Then he couldn't take it any more. The tension got to be too much.

He asked his alderman for help. "I figure there are all those city jobs, and I'd be willing to work, so why shouldn't I have a chance at one? They're always talking about putting people to work."

Villardito also thought he had something extra going for him.

"I have an uncle. He works for the city as a something or other in taxes. And he knows the alderman."

So he went to the office of Ald. William Lipinski.

Lipinski is Alderman of the 23rd Ward, which is steeped in a great Chicago political tradition. The previous alderman, Joe Potempa, is doing a year in a federal prison.

When Villardito got to the ward office, he said he wanted to see the Alderman. He was told he had to sign a register, similar to those a person signs when he goes to a funeral home to see a body.

After a three-hour wait, he was waved into the alderman's office. He said the conversation went something like this:

"What are you interested in?" said the alderman.

"Anything. I need a job. I've got responsibilities, a wife and a kid on the way."

"I have some jobs in street and sanitation," said the alderman

"Fine," said Villardito. "I would like to work in the streets and sanitation. I just want any job."

(Actually, streets and sanitation is not just any job. It takes tremendous stamina to stand in one spot for hours, staring at a hole in the street.)

"Come back and see me Monday night," said the alderman.

Villardito went home and told his wife that his prospects were good. Before long, he might have his own shovel to lean upon.

☆ ☆ ☆

On Monday night, he returned to the ward office feeling optimistic. Once again, he signed the register and waited about three hours.

Finally, a ward-heeler told him to go in and, he says, it went something like this:

"Now, specifically what are you interested in?" said the alderman.

"Like I said, I'll be glad to take streets and sanitation."

"I have four or five jobs," the alderman said.

"Fine," Villardito said. "I need only one."

"But not for you," the alderman said.

"For whom?" said Villardito.

"For my people," said the alderman.

"What people?" said Villardito.

"For precinct workers," said the alderman.

Villardito got angry. "There are a lot of guys in the neighborhood who have city jobs. How do they get them?"

"They have clout," said the alderman. "Their fathers, their uncles, somebody. If you don't know anybody, you don't get anything."

"What about my uncle," said Villardito.

"Well, if your uncle can get you a line on a job, I'll write a letter for you," the alderman said.

"If my uncle could get me a job," Villardito said, "I wouldn't be here."

☆ ☆ ☆

A ward-heeler waved him out of the alderman's presence.

"This is some city," the young man said.

Later, we asked Ald. Lipinski about the conversation with Villardito.

"I don't know anything about it," he said.

Did you say the jobs were only for those who had clout?

"I don't know what he is referring to."

And, as he resumed waiting for his unemployment check, Villardito said

"The least they could do is not keep a person waiting for three hours just to brush him off. Why waste all that time sitting there doing nothing?"

It could be good experience in case you ever become an alderman.

Liberation Or Control?

CALIFORNIA — Big government breeds bigger government — especially in times of crisis. That has become a truism. And, the best recent example of this is the so-called energy crisis with which the United States has been beset for the last two years.

Efforts to cope with the "crisis" have bred new agencies at both the state and federal levels. Unfortunately, new agencies mean more than just adding bureaucrats and additional budgets to the cost of government. They also mean new rules, regulations and controls, all part of the self-justification process for continuation of the agencies.

Sadly, long experience shows that these seldom meet expectations and the good they do is not often worth the cost, either in dollars or in loss of freedom.

A few months ago the influential and wealthy Ford Foundation issued the results of a three-year, $4 million study called "A Time To Choose America's Energy Future." It was hailed by various experts, government officials and members of Congress for pointing the way toward a logical, long-range energy policy for the United States.

But does it really?

A closer look and a careful analysis produced by a small, new foundation, the Institute for Contemporary Studies, in San Francisco, takes sharp issue with the Ford study.

Trenchantly titled "No Time To Confuse," the analysis is the work of 10 highly respected economists and political scientists. What it concludes is that the Ford study merely offers us more of the same kind of "solutions" that big government advocates have been handing us all along: controls over production, distribution and prices; mandatory guidelines; and proposals that aim not at finding and developing enough energy sources to allow America to be independent, and to continue to grow and expand, but rather at limiting energy consumption and controlling how each one of us uses it.

☆ ☆ ☆

In fact, "No Time To Confuse" finds that the authors of "A Time To Choose" are more interested in presenting their own views of how they think the world should be than they are in developing an energy policy that will function well within the framework of our free enterprise system. Prof. M. Bruce Johnson, in his segment of "No Time To Confuse," charges bluntly that the Ford study is no more than "a vehicle for the authors' views on income redistribution and environmental action."

But even worse, in the view of Prof. William H. Riker, is the kind of ideology that motivates the authors of the Ford study.

"This kind of ideology is used to justify the existence of a planned society which works, if it works at all, only in the context of a police state. Much of the ordinary workaday life would have to be made illegal to force society to make fuel conservation the highest priority. We could make 'energy conservation a matter of the highest national priority' as the report urges Congress to do, but the kind of life for which we conserved it would not be very attractive."

Like his fellow authors of "No Time To Confuse," Riker is a master of understatement. What the authors of the Ford study seem to be looking toward is a society where everything that isn't prohibited is compulsory.

Isn't it time that Americans began to demand that their government leaders seek solutions that liberate us rather than control us? Apparently, the Ford Foundation "experts" don't think so.

Words Of Gratitude

Lincoln, Neb.

After spending a very busy life, I am comfortably situated in Mahoney Manor. The past winter had me pretty well shut in with arthritis, so I have spent more time than usual just looking out the window.

How wonderful to be able to see! And how wonderful to be able to walk to the window! I watched the city men last week plant trees on the parking and how beautifully they are leafing out. With all this lovely rain, how green the leaves and grass are. We have a few magnolias around and they, too, are beautiful.

Another thing I have been appreciating is how drivers stop their cars and let these old folks walk across the street here and on Havelock Avenue. The news these days on TV and radio makes one sick, but we need only to open our eyes and see much for which to be thankful.

I am thankful for George, our faithful lawn-keeper here. He is "Mr. Wonderful," for sure. I remember all the work it takes and the expense to have a nice lawn, and we really have one here, and George does it all.

I was saddened and dismayed to see in the April 30 paper Mayor Schwartzkopf's latest campaign tactic. It appears that Mr. Schwartzkopf is not secure enough in the knowledge of his past record of service as mayor, but feels the need to play "dirty politics" by publishing false accusations and innuendos, totally unfounded against Mrs. Boosalis, and having them signed by his campaign supporters.

If Mr. Schwartzkopf cannot run on his record of past service as mayor and the positive aspects of his administration, I feel it's time he is replaced by someone who really does listen to the people and thinks positively about city government.

Mrs. Boosalis has conducted her campaign very positively and fairly, and has much to offer the citizens of Lincoln. The mayor's need to attack Mrs. Boosalis tells me he hasn't much of himself to offer us!

The City Council Race

Despite some ambiguous warnings and curious labels attached to a couple of the candidates for Lincoln City Council by outside forces, the contest for four open council seats has been for the most part low-key and issue-oriented. Incumbents running for re-election — Steve Cook, Bob Sikyta and W. Richard Baker — have all run clean, positive campaigns and the same can be said overall for the five challengers — Jim Carson, Bob Jeambey, Mary Rogge, Bill Thierstein and Steve Tiwald.

What Lincoln needs in its council is balance, to be sure, and also members with the wisdom and capacity to entertain a broad, rather than narrow, range of views and the patience to frame their decisions in terms of what is best over the long run and not what is best in terms of immediate gratification.

Looking at the field, we see no candidate who in our opinion espouses a "no-growth," anti-business policy. To do so would be folly, both for the city and the candidate. We don't see any dangerous spenders, either, although there would be little to fear from "spenders" because of the city's sliding mill levy ceiling.

The Star endorses the re-election bids of Councilmen Steve Cook and Bob Sikyta, believing their experience and the continuity they would give to council activity would be of benefit to the city.

This newspaper also recommends that voters take a close look at the promising potential of candidates Jeambey, a minister who has been involved in a wide range of community activities and who as chairman of the Goals and Policies Committee is as well-grounded as any Lincolnite in the city's growth and development options, and Tiwald, a state health planner, who has developed thoughtful, in-depth position papers on the issues as the campaign has progressed.

We hope that voters can unemotionally view the merits of each candidate before casting their ballots on May 6.

Some Shocking Figures

In this credit-crazed society the people whose wants outstrip the means to pay for them lose all sense of proportion: the figures which show how much money costs to use whip by in a blur and the people sometimes are unknowing or uncaring.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly came up with some shocking figures on the amount of interest paid on home loans the other day when the Legislature was debating LB349 which, as amended, would hike Nebraska's usury limit from 9% to 11%. The original bill would have raised the limit to 12%.

Warner said that increased interest payments would make Nebraskans "home renters rather than home owners," and argued that with the current decline in interest rates nationally, a hike in the usury rate ceiling is not needed at this time.

An example of the effect of the proposed increase offered by Warner: At the current 9% limit, he said, the purchaser of a $25,000 home who wishes to make monthly payments of $250 would pay off his home loan in 15 and ½ years with $21,500 in interest payments. At an 11% rate, Warner said, it would take more than 22 years to pay off the loan with monthly payments of $250. And interest payments would almost double from the $21,500 to $42,000. Thus the cost of financing a $25,000 home could jump from $46,500 to $67,000. Had the proposed limit stayed at 12%, Warner said, total interest costs on a $25,000 home could have reached $132,000 if monthly payments remained at $250. It would then have taken 52 and ½ years to pay off the loan, he said.

We're not saying that people who want to buy a home are totally blind when they go in to borrow money, but we doubt whether there are many people who understand the full ramifications of lifting the interest ceiling.

We recognize the problem the lending institutions have when interest rates are lower here than some other places. But we think there is a social problem, too, and that involves tying would-be home owners to endless debt in paying for the use of mortgage money.

LB349 has been advanced toward final reading on a 29-13 vote. It looks almost assured of passage. Perhaps Nebraskans will want to communicate their opinions regarding interest rates on home loans to their senators before the final vote is taken.

Focal Point For The Blame

WASHINGTON — The war is over. Did we think we would ever say those words? They bring relief, pain, exhaustion, an aching desire to forget. But the rest cannot be silence — not if America is to restore her integrity and her vision after the ravaging years.

The Vietnam experience cries out for us to re-examine our premises in the world. Inevitably, the process of re-examination must bring into question the man who has dominated our foreign policy these last six years as few individuals ever have. To focus on him at a moment of his failure may seem unfair; but then he sought the power — and used it in ways that cost hundreds of thousands of lives in Cambodia and Vietnam.

Regardless of one's general view of Henry Kissinger, there is a weighty philosophical reason for him to leave office now. That is the principle of responsibility. When a democracy suffers a disastrous policy failure, resignation of the responsible official helps clear the air. It allows new policies to be developed without the hindrance of personal attachment to the old. It allows public faith in leadership to be restored.

When the French were defeated at Dienbienphu in 1954, their government fell. A man with the courage to face reality, Pierre Mendes-France, came in as premier and liquidated France's long adventure in Indochina with surprisingly little public trauma. France emerged stronger.

We do not have a parliamentary system, but the political and psychological necessities at a time of failure are not so different — as Lyndon Johnson understood in 1968. Moreover, Kissinger has taken a truculent line toward our corrective institution, which is Congress: blaming it for South Vietnam's collapse and drafting for President Ford's State of the World speech a series of ill-timed demands that Congress repeal its restraints on his power.

☆ ☆ ☆

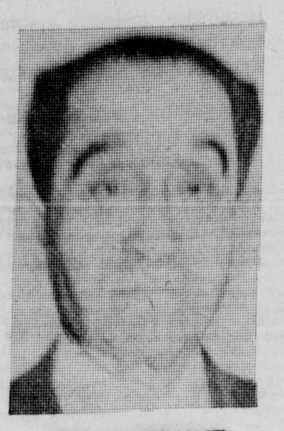
Of course Kissinger is not the sole author of the American debacle in Indochina. Behind him stretches a long line of failed men. But the principle of responsibility usually attaches to those immediately associated with policy disasters, and that is appropriate in Kissinger's case for a number of reasons.

The early American decisions on Indochina can be regarded as blundering efforts to do good. But by 1969 it was clear to most of the world — and most Americans — that the intervention had been a disastrous mistake. Instead of facing the truth, Kissinger sought to avoid it by widening the war and then pulling American combat forces out under cover of the illusion that "stability" had been achieved.

It was a cynical policy, because Kissinger well knew that the Saigon regime did not have the political base to last a minute without perpetual American intervention on its behalf. The cynicism intensified when he declared "peace" and then allowed Saigon to block the political terms of the Paris agreement — the one chance for peaceful transition.

☆ ☆ ☆

The end was worst of all. As illusion crumbled in Vietnam, Kissinger swung between hysteria and immobility. He pronounced America faithless before the world. He insisted that the country stick to such failed ideas as more arms for



MENDES-FRANCE
... facing reality, he strengthened France ...

Saigon. He tried to arouse recrimination and then piously deplored it.

A month ago there was still a chance for a cease-fire and a negotiated statement — a chance to save lives — but Kissinger clung to Nguyen Van Thieu. He let his ambassador in Saigon delay evacuation until the final shame was inevitable: Americans clubbing the fingers of Vietnamese trying to climb the walls of the embassy compound.

After these last weeks, the extraordinary era of a personalized American foreign policy — with one man making it, executing it, negotiating — must be at an end. Such established outside figures as Clark Clifford are saying out loud that Kissinger should go. Within the executive branch, within his own State Department, there is growing disillusionment with the manner and substance of his performance.

If he should hang on, Kissinger will be operating under new restraints, executive and congressional. Ford may see the advantage, to him, of having a new secretary of state, one not tied to the failures of the past, one who could restore dignity and credibility to that office.

But whatever happens to the person, there will be deeper questions to answer about American policy in the Kissinger years. They are questions about means and ends.

The means with which the world has become familiar are bombs and threats, secret undertakings and tall tales — the diplomacy not of Metternich but of Curtis LeMay and Baron Munchhausen. The stated end has been "stability." In practice that has meant attempts to freeze the status quo, and a concern for power rather than humanity.

Do those means and ends represent the American vision 200 years after we made our revolution? The real question is not for Henry Kissinger but for ourselves.

May Day Greetings Sent U.S.

By The Associated Press

Workers in South Vietnam celebrated their first May Day under the new government by taking over and running factories, water works and electric power stations, the government radio station in Saigon, renamed Ho Chi Minh City, reported Thursday.

In Hanoi, Premier Pham Van Dong sent May Day greetings and thanks to "our brothers and friends in all continents who have supported and assisted so wholeheartedly our just and victorious struggle."

He specifically named Americans: "We extend to the people of the United States our greetings of peace and friendship," Dong said.

In Lisbon, the Portuguese capital, Communist guards physically blocked Socialist party leaders from mass May Day celebrations in an incident bound to increase political tension.

Socialist leader Mario Soares and his lieutenants were finally allowed to mount the speakers' platform, but too late to be seen alongside government and Communist party leaders. Relations between the Portuguese Socialists and Communists have been tense since last week's constituent assembly elections, in which Soares was the big winner and the Communists were humiliated.

Workers of other nations, both Communist and non-Communist, used the occasion to demonstrate their support for the victorious jviet Cong.

Thousands of French and Vietnamese marchers wound through the streets of Paris waving Viet Cong and North Vietnamese flags and carrying an immense portrait of Ho Chi Minh.

Labor unions in India, one of the first countries to recognize the new South Vietnamese government, depicted Viet Cong unity and solidarity as a model for Indian labor.

In West Berlin's John F. Kennedy Square, an estimated 30,000 persons gathered, many of them Maoists holding Viet Cong, North Vietnamese and black anarchist flags and chanting, "Ho-Ho-Ho Chi Minh," and, "The First of May and Vietnam is free."

China marked the day with garden parties, sporting events and editorials lauding the Viet Cong victory in South Vietnam and warning of a danger of capitalist restoration in China.

In the Soviet Union, thousands of Moscovites thronged Red Square holding aloft placards proclaiming solidarity with the Vietnamese people. Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev stood atop Lenin's tomb through the 2¼-hour military parade, his longest public appearance since his illness earlier this year.

East Germany paraded its armed forces and a massive display of military hardware, but other Soviet bloc countries substituted massive rallies for the expensive, Soviet-style military parades of previous years. Speakers extolled the Cambodian and Vietnamese developments as evidence that "people determined to defend the liberty and independence of the homeland cannot be defeated by any force in the world."

Ford, Sadat May Meet

By The Associated Press

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt may meet with President Ford early next month, informed sources in Cairo said Thursday.

Egyptian political sources said Sadat plans to announce Friday that he will meet a "major foreign personality" in a European capital on June 2-3. Informed sources said Ford, who goes to Brussels on May 28 for a North Atlantic Treaty Organization summit meeting, may be the foreigner.

Neither the U.S. Embassy in Cairo nor the Egyptian Foreign Ministry would comment. Diplomatic sources said American and Egyptian officials in Cairo are tight-lipped because they don't want to detract from what is expected to be an announcement from both capitals.

Speaking in Asyut, 240 miles south of Cairo, Sadat called on the United States in its current policy review to make clear whether it supports Israel within its 1967 borders or in the occupation of Arab territory conquered that year.

He also asked the Soviet Union to prolong his arms purchase credit, indicating that aid from his oil-rich Arab allies still leaves him short of funds.

May Day Greetings Sent U.S.

By The Associated Press

Workers in South Vietnam celebrated their first May Day under the new government by taking over and running factories, water works and electric power stations, the government radio station in Saigon, renamed Ho Chi Minh City, reported Thursday.

In Hanoi, Premier Pham Van Dong sent May Day greetings and thanks to "our brothers and friends in all continents who have supported and assisted so wholeheartedly our just and victorious struggle."

He specifically named Americans: "We extend to the people of the United States our greetings of peace and friendship," Dong said.

In Lisbon, the Portuguese capital, Communist guards physically blocked Socialist party leaders from mass May Day celebrations in an incident bound to increase political tension.

Socialist leader Mario Soares and his lieutenants were finally allowed to mount the speakers' platform, but too late to be seen alongside government and Communist party leaders. Relations between the Portuguese Socialists and Communists have been tense since last week's constituent assembly elections, in which Soares was the big winner and the Communists were humiliated.

Workers of other nations, both Communist and non-Communist, used the occasion to demonstrate their support for the victorious jviet Cong.

Thousands of French and Vietnamese marchers wound through the streets of Paris waving Viet Cong and North Vietnamese flags and carrying an immense portrait of Ho Chi Minh.

Labor unions in India, one of the first countries to recognize the new South Vietnamese government, depicted Viet Cong unity and solidarity as a model for Indian labor.

In West Berlin's John F. Kennedy Square, an estimated 30,000 persons gathered, many of them Maoists holding Viet Cong, North Vietnamese and black anarchist flags and chanting, "Ho-Ho-Ho Chi Minh," and, "The First of May and Vietnam is free."

China marked the day with garden parties, sporting events and editorials lauding the Viet Cong victory in South Vietnam and warning of a danger of capitalist restoration in China.

In the Soviet Union, thousands of Moscovites thronged Red Square holding aloft placards proclaiming solidarity with the Vietnamese people. Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev stood atop Lenin's tomb through the 2¼-hour military parade, his longest public appearance since his illness earlier this year.

East Germany paraded its armed forces and a massive display of military hardware, but other Soviet bloc countries substituted massive rallies for the expensive, Soviet-style military parades of previous years. Speakers extolled the Cambodian and Vietnamese developments as evidence that "people determined to defend the liberty and independence of the homeland cannot be defeated by any force in the world."

Ford, Sadat May Meet

By The Associated Press

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt may meet with President Ford early next month, informed sources in Cairo said Thursday.

Egyptian political sources said Sadat plans to announce Friday that he will meet a "major foreign personality" in a European capital on June 2-3. Informed sources said Ford, who goes to Brussels on May 28 for a North Atlantic Treaty Organization summit meeting, may be the foreigner.

Neither the U.S. Embassy in Cairo nor the Egyptian Foreign Ministry would comment. Diplomatic sources said American and Egyptian officials in Cairo are tight-lipped because they don't want to detract from what is expected to be an announcement from both capitals.

Speaking in Asyut, 240 miles south of Cairo, Sadat called on the United States in its current policy review to make clear whether it supports Israel within its 1967 borders or in the occupation of Arab territory conquered that year.

He also asked the Soviet Union to prolong his arms purchase credit, indicating that aid from his oil-rich Arab allies still leaves him short of funds.

Fund Transfer Systems Legal

. . . Court OKs TMS at Hinky-Dinky

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Federally-chartered savings and loan associations Thursday won the court approval to offer depositors electronic fund transfer systems, such as First Federal-Lincoln's TMS service at Hinky-Dinky stores.

A unanimous seven-man Nebraska Supreme Court ruled Thursday that such systems do not violate state limitations on branch banking as the State Justice Department had charged.

The landmark ruling, financiers say, puts Nebraska in the forefront of a nationwide trend toward such services. To the depositor, such systems are a convenience, but they also save financial institutions considerable paperwork.

Detractors fear it is the first step towards widespread purchases of groceries on credit, dissolution of the different duties separating savings and loans from banks and the end of large central offices for financial institutions.

Presently, only federally-chartered savings and loans (numbering 22 in Nebraska) and banks (totaling 125 in Nebraska) can offer deposit and withdrawal transactions through computer terminals linking the main office of the financial institution with a distant shopping center.

Legislative Bill

A bill (LB269) before the unicameral would extend that privilege to the 325 banks in Nebraska which have state charters. That bill comes up for final consideration by the Legislature Friday. (An attempt to include the 20 state-chartered savings and loans n the bill failed.)

Sen. John Murphy, the bill's sponsor, said Thursday's ruling "shouldn't have any bearing" on how LB269 fares on final reading.

He noted that Congress is considering a moratorium on all such systems so the impact can be determined.

First Federal's TMS got started in two Lincoln Hinky-Dinky stores in January, 1974 with the approval of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. It has since expanded.

TMS allows a shopper at Hinky-Dinky to make a deposit or withdrawal from an existing special account with First Federal without having to go to a First Federal office.

Ruling Quoted

Judge Hale McCown, writing for the court, said, "A customer in the Hinky-Dinky store cannot open a First Federal account, nor deposit or withdraw from a passbook or certificate account . . . nor make a loan payment . . . Transactions are handled exclusively by (Hinky-Dinky's) employes."

The state argued that this amounts to banking, which a grocery store cannot do, as well as a violation of state limitations on branch banking.

However, to be involved in banking, a debtor-depositor relationship must exist.

The court's ruling affirms a decision by the Lancaster County District Court, which sanctioned TMS.

Guilty Plea Handling Is Upheld

By United Press International

The State Supreme Court Thursday refused to agree with a claim that the Lancaster County District Court was in error in its handling of a guilty plea to a second degree murder charge.

"A review of the record convinces us that this appeal is patently frivolous," the high court said in the case of Leonard Svitak, which arose from the shooting death of his ex-wife.

Svitak contended on appeal the lower court was in error when it refused to allow him to withdraw his waiver to a jury trail and later accepted his plea of guilty in place of his original plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

"At all stages of the proceeding, defendant was adequately represented by competent counsel who took extreme pains to explain his rights and to be sure he understood the proceedings," the court said.

"During the course of their preparation for trial, defendant was examined by three psychiatrists, a psychologist and a neurologist, none of whom found him to be insane," the court added.

Svitak also questioned his life sentence as being excessive. The Supreme Court disagreed.

"The crime involved herein was brutal," the court said. "Defendant shot his ex-wife with a .22 caliber rifle three times, once in the buttocks area and subsequently twice in the head."

On that basis, the Supreme Court said the sentencing court did not abuse its powers and therefore the life term would stand.

High Court Rules:

Playful Dog's Owner Not Liable For Injury

By United Press International

A playful or mischievous dog may well cause injury to a person but the owner can't be held liable for those injuries, the State Supreme Court ruled Thursday.

The question of liability arose in a case on appeal from the Dodge County District Court in which a North Bend woman tried to invoke a 1961 law which liberalized previous common law provisions on liability in favor of the person injured.

Common law before the 1961 legislation, the court noted, did require that the owner had to know his dog had "dangerous propensities" so that he could warn others before he could be sued for damages. The 1961 law changed that and made the owner liable for those propensities whether he knew of them or not.

The court concluded that in the case of Marguerite Donner the law simply did not apply and therefore the owner of the dog which injured her, Donald Plymate, couldn't be held liable for damages.

The reason she can't invoke the law, the court said, is because while it placed responsibility for dangerous animals squarely on the shoulders of the owner, specifically exluded were instances of injuries resulting from "playful or mischievous acts of dogs."

In the case at bar, the court said the woman was playing with the dog, a German Shepherd, and was injured not because the dog was dangerous but apparently because the dog simply got carried away in play.

In other cases the Supreme Court:

— Reversed and dismissed a decision of the Lancaster County District Court to award damages to Mark Starlin for injuries stemming from a car-train accident in a suit against Burlington Northern. The court said contrary to the lower court's finding, the railroad was not negligent and therefore not liable.

— Agreed with the Lancaster District Court that Swift and Co. was not liable for damages resulting from the deaths of Charles Dort and Nellie Doerck in an automobile accident at the intersection of 27th and Old Cheney Road in Lincoln.

— Sent back to the Scotts Bluff County District Court for further proceedings a suit filed by the Gering School District seeking a declaration that the transfer of a tract of land from District 8 to the Gering District is void.

— Upheld the Lancaster District Court's affirmation of a county court conviction of Frank Mendenhall of uttering a no account check.

— Agreed with the Douglas County District Court's rejection of a request for a new trial in the case of Michael Coleman, convicted of selling heroin and sentenced to a prison term of 5-20 years.

— Upheld the Dawes County District Court's conviction of Fred Gallegos of Attempted burglary.

— Affirmed the decision of the Douglas County District Court's handling of an estate dispute filed by the Gretchen-Swanson Family Foundation Inc. against Cecil Johnson.

— Reversed and dismissed a suit filed by John Preisendorf against Harold Jenkins for performance of a contract to sell a bar and restaurant business in Grand Island. The suit was filed in the Hall County District Court and the lower court ruling was in favor of Preisendorf and awarded him $8,000 in damages.

— Upheld the Lancaster District Court's affirmation of a county court conviction of Vastine Erving of misdemeanor assault.

— Affirmed with modifications the divorce decree issued by the Johnson County District Court to Dean and Marilyn Wheeler.

— Reversed the Douglas County District Court's dismisal of a Workmens Compensation suit filed by Marjorie Marlow against Maple Manor Apartments.

Penal Construction Bill Veto Planned

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sharply criticizing Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha, Gov. J. James Exon Thursday said he would veto the prison construction plan written by the Legislature.

"I am very disappointed that Sen. Cavanaugh's efforts may for the second consecutive year scuttle a good program," the governor said.

"His actions will thwart the moving ahead of a thoroughly thought out, well planned capital construction and program improvement plan in penology."

Cavanaugh, Exon charged, "wants money and facilities in Omaha to show what a good job he does.

'Political Aspirations'

"I am told that Sen. Cavanaugh has political aspirations in the Omaha area, and that is okay by me, but I wonder if the taxpayers of the state can afford to finance those efforts."

Exon said he assumes that the second medium-minimum security facility envisioned in the Cavanaugh plan accepted by the Legislature would be located in Omaha.

"Would he please advise the governor at what location in the center of his legislative district would he like the facility to be placed?" Exon said.

Cavanaugh has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Second District congressional seat in 1976.

Both the senator and the governor are Democrats.

Exon: Would Delay Reform

Cavanaugh's proposal would delay correctional reform, Exon said, and provide the state with an inadequate 175-inmate medium-minimum security institution in Lincoln.

"We need at least 300 to 350 beds so we can tear down the Reformatory and transfer some people out of the Penitentiary," the governor said.

"A facility with 175 beds here would not do us any good.

"What do we do with the other people?"

The Legislature ought to consider "following the expert advice of professionals in the penal field who know far more about it than the governor or a state senator," Exon said.

That advice, he said, ws reflected in the original provisions of the prison construction bill.

Would Veto Bill

If the Cavanaugh plan is enacted, he said, he will veto the bill and try to get "workable legislation" approved by the 1976 Legislature.

Cavanaugh said he does not intend to alter his proposal.

Exon Vetoes Measure To Allow Binding Arbitration Negotiation

By United Press International

Gov. J. James Exon Thursday vetoed a bill which would have allowed for the negotiation of binding arbitration between unions and employers.

In striking down LB243, sponsored by Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue, Exon cited as grounds two attorney general's opinions holding such negotiations, at least negotiations involving public employes, to be constitutionally questionable.

In one of those opinions, Gary B. Schneider, special assistant attorney general, said, "in our opinion, the constitutionality of such an authorization of binding arbitration in public labor contracts is questionable and it may be difficult to defend."

The reason it would be hard to defend, the opinions said, was the problem of an illegal delegation of the powers of state officials.

In addition to the opinions, Exon said the attorney general has indicated that if the bill were to become law "he would rule that no such negotiations could or should be instituted by state officials."

But even setting aside validity questions, the governor said, "I do not concur that governmental officials should take even the first step towards binding arbitration with employes."

"While this practice is commonplace and proper in private industry," Exon said, "I feel that elected officials represent a constituency and that the people and taxpayers do not expect legislators or constitutional officers to shirk their duty by passing on such decisions to . . . arbitrators."

Also struck down was a pay increase for judges of the State Court of Industrial Relations, which was contained in the bill.

Vetoes Overridden; Exon Blasts 'Spending Machine'

Gov. J. James Exon said Thursday, "the spending machine on which the Legislature is riding will evidently not be sidetracked."

His comment followed the overriding of his vetoes of LB267 and its companion funding measure.

The bills provide for distribution to county law libraries and to the State Law Library copies of rules and regulations of state agencies. The cost has been estimated at $120,000 for next year.

Exon said the legislative action was "another $120,000 example of irresponsible and unnecessary spending by a legislature bent on satisfying whims, regardless of the effect on Nebraska taxpayers."

He added: "For over 100 years, we have somehow gotten by without this expenditure. Yet, during a time of severe budget crunch, recession and threatened tax increases, the Legislature fails to exhibit any sense of priorities."

Exon Inks Law On Sex Crimes

Gov. J. James Exon signed into law Thursday a bill making the first substantial changes in Nebraska law on sex crimes since 1877.

The measure, LB23, has key provisions aimed at eliminating a system that critics contended put a rape victim, rather than an alleged rapist, on trial.

The new law allows a judge to hold a closed session to determine whether the prior sexual history of a woman who is sexually assaulted should be admitted in evidence.

The law strikes the word "rape" from Nebraska statutes and replaces ti with three degrees of sexual assault, acknowledging that men as well as women can be sexually assaulted.

State Workers' Pay Hike Inked

Gov. J. James Exon Thursday signed legislation that gives state employes a pay raise costing state government $12 million a year.

The bill, LB588, gives state employes an across-the-board increase of $468 a year, plus an additional 5% that is based on each employe's present salary.

The bill was on the legislative floor five times for final reading before it was considered acceptable to the governor.

Liquor License Bill For Lincoln, Omaha Advances

A bill to allow Lincoln and Omaha to own more than two liquor licenses received 27-6 first round approval in the Unicameral Thursday.

Sen. William Skarda of Omaha, the sponsor of LB421, said the primary purpose was to allow the city of Omaha to add a license to serve patrons of the Orpheum Theater.

Skarda added the bill resulted from a request made by the mayor of Omaha.

Sen. James Dickinson of Omaha, however, raised objections, saying it would be a "shame to turn it (the Orpheum Theater) into a bar." He added, "personally, I think this is totally unnecessary."

As originally introduced, the measure would have allowed all cities in the villages to own more than one license. But Skarda agreed to committee amendments to limit its application to the state's two largest cities.

Where I stand:

As the election nears, you deserve to know my thoughts and plans for continued positive action on programs and issues which concern us all.

No. 1 in a series

TAXES:

Our city's operation must be achieved with a balanced budget. I pledge to continue working to provide maximum citizen services under a plan which will: (a) Require only a minimum mill levy, (b) Secure maximum benefit from available federal funds without excessive federal control. I am opposed to state legislation which channels city sales tax funds without local control. I pledge to continue the sound, responsible fiscal planning which has characterized my administration.

STREETS:

My first priority will be to secure from the new city council an agreed-upon plan for long-term street improvement, including new trafficways. I will urge the council to utilize or dispose of land now secured for these purposes. I will continue to advocate maximum use of federal and state funds that are available for street improvement. During the past four years our street improvement program has repaved 105.2 miles of Lincoln streets and added 30.1 miles of new paving.

ZONING:

I will continue to push for completion of the city's updated Comprehensive Plan to provide guidelines for effective zoning. The record clearly shows that I have always advocated zoning policies which put the rights of private citizens first...but which are flexible enough to permit healthy economic growth. We must maintain growth within the kind of healthy social and economic atmosphere which will make Lincoln an attractive place for our sons and daughters to live...while assuring them of a place to work.

CITY-COUNTY CONSOLIDATION:

I will urge the establishment of a definite timetable for consolidation. As a high priority in my administration I will make every effort to insure that all procedural guidelines for consolidation are firmly established during the next four years. City-County consolidation can and should be completed within the next eight years. This is a must for efficient use of tax dollars.

Penal Construction Bill Veto Planned

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sharply criticizing Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha, Gov. J. James Exon Thursday said he would veto the prison construction plan written by the Legislature.

"I am very disappointed that Sen. Cavanaugh's efforts may for the second consecutive year scuttle a good program," the governor said.

"His actions will thwart the moving ahead of a thoroughly thought out, well planned capital construction and program improvement plan in penology."

Cavanaugh, Exon charged, "wants money and facilities in Omaha to show what a good job he does.

'Political Aspirations'

"I am told that Sen. Cavanaugh has political aspirations in the Omaha area, and that is okay by me, but I wonder if the taxpayers of the state can afford to finance those efforts."

Exon said he assumes that the second medium-minimum security facility envisioned in the Cavanaugh plan accepted by the Legislature would be located in Omaha.

"Would he please advise the governor at what location in the center of his legislative district would he like the facility to be placed?" Exon said.

Cavanaugh has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Second District congressional seat in 1976.

Both the senator and the governor are Democrats.

Exon: Would Delay Reform

Cavanaugh's proposal would delay correctional reform, Exon said, and provide the state with an inadequate 175-inmate medium-minimum security institution in Lincoln.

"We need at least 300 to 350 beds so we can tear down the Reformatory and transfer some people out of the Penitentiary," the governor said.

"A facility with 175 beds here would not do us any good.

"What do we do with the other people?"

The Legislature ought to consider "following the expert advice of professionals in the penal field who know far more about it than the governor or a state senator," Exon said.

That advice, he said, ws reflected in the original provisions of the prison construction bill.

Would Veto Bill

If the Cavanaugh plan is enacted, he said, he will veto the bill and try to get "workable legislation" approved by the 1976 Legislature.

Informed of the governor's remarks, Cavanaugh said the charges against him were "totally irresponsible."

Election By District Wins First Round

By The Associated Press

The Legislature voted 25-13 preliminary approval Thursday for a bill to replace at-large election of members of the Omaha School Board with a plan to elect a member from each of 12 districts.

Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln said he would offer an amendment later to provide for district elections in Lincoln.

The Omaha delegation was sharply split on the issue, with Sens. Ernest Chambers, Eugene Mahoney and John Cavanaugh speaking in favor of LB423, and Sens. Gerald Koch, Warren Swigart, Glenn Goodrich and George Syas opposing the bill.

Chambers said the bill would do away with machine politics and slate making.

Koch said the bill was "a way of putting ward politics back in the school board." He said, "Education is a professional enterprise. Don't drag politics into it."

"Is politics so bad in America today that we should be ashamed?" Mahoney said.

Chambers reminded Swigart that he lost an at-large election for the city council, but won a district election for the Legislature.

He also asked Koch and Goodrich if they were corrupt ward healers because they were elected at large. They said they were not.

Chambers also asked Goodrich to name the members of the Omaha School Board. When Goodrich listed the names, Chambers accused him of reading from a "crib sheet."

"The men who spend the most money always win the elections in Omaha," said Cavanaugh.

He said there were black, ethnic, rich and poor areas in Omaha that each deserved their own representative on the school board.

Syas attacked Grand Island Sen. Ralph Kelly for supporting the bill. Syas said, "He's the guy on the white horse. Why doesn't he come forward with his amendment," to provide for district election in Grand Island?

Education Aid Funding Bill Is Advanced

The Legislature gave a second round green light Thursday to a bill calling for a $15 million a year increase in state aid to education.

Senators advanced LB368A to the final floor stage on a 29-13 vote.

The Unicameral's action came one day after a move to have the bill advanced failed on a 20-19 vote.

Gov. J. J. Exon is opposed to the measure and has promised to veto it.

Senators previously approved LB368, which would authorize the $15 million hike in aid to schools. But without the funding of LB368A, the authorization would have no effect.

Bellevue Sen. Frank Lewis, chairman of the Education Committee, said he thought the bill stood a good chance of winning final approval from the Unicameral.

"I think the majority of the members of this Legislature favor state aid; the only problem this year is where the money is going to come from," Lewis said.

Governor Gets Bill To Permit Bid Negotiations

The Legislature passed and sent to the governor Thursday a bill that would allow county boards to negotiate contracts for road materials and improvements if no acceptable bids were received.

Senators gave 42-0 final approval to Waverly Sen. Jerome Warner's LB114.

The bill would allow counties to contract for projects under $5,000 without letting bids. The current limit is $2,000.

The bill also changes publication requirements for bid advertising. It would eliminate a requirement that a bid be advertised for 10 consecutive days, Warner said, and allow the bid to be advertised "three consecutive weeks," in a general circulation newspaper.

The 10-day requirement caused difficulty in rural counties where weekly newspapers were the only vehicles for bid publication.

Archbishop Will Lead Pilgrimage To Ireland

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — A Roman Catholic archbishop will pray for peace in Northern Ireland this summer by staging a three-day, barefoot vigil on an island where St. Patrick prayed 1,500 years ago.

Archbishop Thomas J. Winning of Glasgow said Friday he would lead a pilgrimage in July to the island of St. Patrick's Purgatory, located in a Donegal lake near the Irish republic's border with strife-torn Nothern Ireland.

Land Zoning Bill Callback Attempt Fails

By The Associated Press

Utica Sen. Douglas Bereuter's bill to encourage local land use zoning survived an attempt Thursday to call it back from the governor's office.

The bill, LB317, was left in the governor's office when the motion failed 18-28. It passed last month on a vote of 27-18.

The motion caused Bereuter to tell senators to "get off my back." He accused opponents of the bill of using "dishonorable tactics" in an attempt to kill it.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said the bill did not allow for appeal from decisions of the state Office of Planning and Programming.

It encourages local governments, especially in populated areas, to move ahead with land use zoning. Certain smaller cities would lose their zoning authority to county government if they failed to act.

If local plans were not acceptable to the state Office of Planning and Programming, it could publish notices in local newspapers saying local government was not in compliance with the law.

Riley Plans Decision On Bank Charters

State Banking Director Bill Riley said Thursday he will decide within 90 days whether to grant charters to two banks proposed for Kearney.

Both Mid-Nebraska State Bank and Kearney State Bank, which involves the Dobson family of Lincoln, filed charter applications on the same day.

Hearings have been held where the applications were opposed by two existing banks in Kearney, Platte Valley State Bank and First National Bank of Kearney. Mid-Nebraska Bank officials also protested Kearney State Bank's request.

Kearney State Bank has indicated it will have capital totaling $800,000 if the charter is granted. The Mid-Nebraska State Bank, which involves Byron Jansen of St. Paul, has proposed capital totaling $1.2 million.

Riley said projections offered at the hearings indicated both banks expect deposits totaling $4-$5 million.

Riley said the protestors, both larger than the proposed Kearney State and Mid-Nebraska State Banks, questioned whether either or both could be operated profitably.

To get a charter a bank must prove necessity, advantage and convenience to the public, he said.

Riley said he will look at the charter applications individually and collectively before deciding whether to grant one, both or none of the charter applications.

Bill To Correct Problems Found In Spending Lid

Bellevue Sen. Frank Lewis Thursday introduced a bill for Gov. J. J. Exon to correct some of the constitutional problems created by a spending lid placed on school districts.

The bill, LB608, amends the spending statutes so that no state funds can be withheld from the schools that are required by the state constitution.

However, Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas said the spending limit may be unconstitutional because it is geared to the consumer price index set by federal officials.

Exon's corrective bill did not address that issue, Lewis said.

Heritage Village Funds Reduced

A bill to spend $60,000 rather than the $350,000 originally requested for a Heritage Village on the State Fairgrounds received preliminary approval in the Unicameral Thursday.

The bill, LB526, was prompted by a wish to do something special in observance of the American Revolution Bicentennial, said its sponsor, Sen. E. Thome Johnson of Fremont.

Originally requested was $350,000, but Johnson said he and the Fair Board realized this wasn't the year to ask for that kind of money.

The bill received a 27-3 first round vote.

Story Inside Book Only One Story Of Book

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

One-hundred and ten years ago this month, someone's uncle presented her with a book entitled "The Life Of The Empress Josephine."

Thursday, that very book — complete with inscription and a copyright date of 1860 — was up for grabs at the Lincoln City Library Foundation book sale.

"Presented to (name illegible) by her uncle — May, 1865," the inscription read.

'Love Story'

The book was shelved next to a cellophane-covered copy of Eric Segal's "Love Story."

In progress through Sunday, the Library Foundation sale provides the browser/shopper with a wealth of thumb-through material.

Approximately 6,000 volumes of excess and duplicate gift books are for sale. Each day, a new supply of books will be added to the shelves and tables.

All Sorts Of Treasures

The "collector's items" table holds all sorts of treasures — such as a book entitled "Industry And Idleness" penned by the renowned 19th century preacher, Henry Ward Beecher.

Even before you open the book, you know just about what old Henry had to say on the topic at hand.

"The bread which we solicit of God, He gives us through our own industry . . . gadding, gazing, lounging, mere pleasure-mongering . . . these are as useless as sleeping or dozing," he wrote.

What would he say about the four-day work week?

Did He Read It?

According to the inscription, Herbert Brownell's mother gave him a copy of "Light Of Asia" in 1902. Did he read it? We'll never know. It was on the "collector's items" table Thursday.

On the shelves devoted to sets of books, you might pick up the two-volume collection of the Earl of Chesterfield's letters to his son: "On the Fine Art Of Becoming A Man Of The World And A Gentleman."

No telling what kind of useful information one might find there.

The sale offers two tables of children's books; several sets of encyclopedias; a collection of paperback books; magazines and records.

There's everything from "The Complete Works of James Whitcomb Riley" to "How To Live With A Pampered Pet."

And for those who like their reading material brief, there's a healthy sampling of Reader's Digest Condensed Books.

A little something for everyone, as they say.

Election By District Wins First Round

By The Associated Press

The Legislature voted 25-13 preliminary approval Thursday for a bill to replace at-large election of members of the Omaha School Board with a plan to elect a member from each of 12 districts.

Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln said he would offer an amendment later to provide for district elections in Lincoln.

The Omaha delegation was sharply split on the issue, with Sens. Ernest Chambers, Eugene Mahoney and John Cavanaugh speaking in favor of LB423, and Sens. Gerald Koch, Warren Swigart, Glenn Goodrich and George Syas opposing the bill.

Chambers said the bill would do away with machine politics and slate making.

Koch said the bill was "a way of putting ward politics back in the school board." He said, "Education is a professional enterprise. Don't drag politics into it."

"Is politics so bad in America today that we should be ashamed?" Mahoney said.

Chambers reminded Swigart that he lost an at-large election for the city council, but won a district election for the Legislature.

He also asked Koch and Goodrich if they were corrupt ward healers because they were elected at large. They said they were not.

Chambers also asked Goodrich to name the members of the Omaha School Board. When Goodrich listed the names, Chambers accused him of reading from a "crib sheet."

"The men who spend the most money always win the elections in Omaha," said Cavanaugh.

He said there were black, ethnic, rich and poor areas in Omaha that each deserved their own representative on the school board.

Syas attacked Grand Island Sen. Ralph Kelly for supporting the bill. Syas said, "He's the guy on the white horse. Why doesn't he come forward with his amendment," to provide for district election in Grand Island?

Education Aid Funding Bill Is Advanced

The Legislature gave a second round green light Thursday to a bill calling for a $15 million a year increase in state aid to education.

Senators advanced LB368A to the final floor stage on a 29-13 vote.

The Unicameral's action came one day after a move to have the bill advanced failed on a 20-19 vote.

Gov. J. J. Exon is opposed to the measure and has promised to veto it.

Senators previously approved LB368, which would authorize the $15 million hike in aid to schools. But without the funding of LB368A, the authorization would have no effect.

Bellevue Sen. Frank Lewis, chairman of the Education Committee, said he thought the bill stood a good chance of winning final approval from the Unicameral.

"I think the majority of the members of this Legislature favor state aid: the only problem this year is where the money is going to come from," Lewis said.

Governor Gets Bill To Permit Bid Negotiations

The Legislature passed and sent to the governor Thursday a bill that would allow county boards to negotiate contracts for road materials and improvements if no acceptable bids were received

Senators gave 42-0 final approval to Waverly Sen. Jerome Warner's LB114.

The bill would allow counties to contract for projects under $5,000 without letting bids. The current limit is $2,000.

The bill also changes publication requirements for bid advertising. It would eliminate a requirement that a bid be advertised for 10 consecutive days, Warner said, and allow the bid to be advertised "three consecutive weeks," in a general circulation newspaper.

The 10-day requirement caused difficulty in rural counties where weekly newspapers were the only vehicles for bid publication.

Archbishop Will Lead Pilgrimage To Ireland

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — A Roman Catholic archbishop will pray for peace in Northern Ireland this summer by staging a three-day, barefoot vigil on an island where St. Patrick prayed 1,500 years ago.

Archbishop Thomas J. Winning of Glasgow said Friday he would lead a pilgrimage in July to the island of St. Patrick's Purgatory, located in a Donegal lake near the Irish republic's border with strife-torn Nothern Ireland.

Land Zoning Bill Callback Attempt Fails

By The Associated Press

Utica Sen. Douglas Bereuter's bill to encourage local land use zoning survived an attempt Thursday to call it back from the governor's office.

The bill, LB317, was left in the governor's office when the motion failed 18-28. It passed last month on a vote of 27-18.

The motion caused Bereuter to tell senators to "get off my back." He accused opponents of the bill of using "dishonorable tactics" in an attempt to kill it.

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh said the bill did not allow for appeal from decisions of the state Office of Planning and Programming.

It encourages local governments, especially in populated areas, to move ahead with land use zoning. Certain smaller cities would lose their zoning authority to county government if they failed to act.

If local plans were not acceptable to the state Office of Planning and Programming, it could publish notices in local newspapers saying local government was not in compliance with the law.

Riley Plans Decision On Bank Charters

State Banking Director Bill Riley said Thursday he will decide within 90 days whether to grant charters to two banks proposed for Kearney.

Both Mid-Nebraska State Bank and Kearney State Bank, which involves the Dobson family of Lincoln, filed charter applications on the same day.

Hearings have been held where the applications were opposed by two existing banks in Kearney, Platte Valley State Bank and First National Bank of Kearney. Mid-Nebraska Bank officials also protested Kearney State Bank's request.

Kearney State Bank has indicated it will have capital totaling $800,000 if the charter is granted. The Mid-Nebraska State Bank, which involves Byron Jansen of St. Paul, has proposed capital totaling $1.2 million.

Riley said projections offered at the hearings indicated both banks expect deposits totaling $4-$5 million.

Riley said the protestors, both larger than the proposed Kearney State and Mid-Nebraska State Banks, questioned whether either or both could be operated profitably.

To get a charter a bank must prove necessity, advantage and convenience to the public, he said

Riley said he will look at the charter applications individually and collectively before deciding whether to grant one, both or none of the charter applications.

Bill To Correct Problems Found In Spending Lid

Bellevue Sen. Frank Lewis Thursday introduced a bill for Gov. J. J. Exon to correct some of the constitutional problems created by a spending lid placed on school districts.

The bill, LB608, amends the spending statutes so that no state funds can be withheld from the schools that are required by the state constitution.

However, Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas said the spending limit may be unconstitutional because it is geared to the consumer price index set by federal officials.

Exon's corrective bill did not address that issue, Lewis said.

Heritage Village Funds Reduced

A bill to spend $60,000 rather than the $350,000 originally requested for a Heritage Village on the State Fairgrounds received preliminary approval in the Unicameral Thursday.

The bill, LB526, was prompted by a wish to do something special in observance of the American Revolution Bicentennial, said its sponsor, Sen. E. Thome Johnson of Fremont.

Originally requested was $350,000, but Johnson said he and the Fair Board realized this wasn't the year to ask for that kind of money.

The bill received a 27-3 first round vote.

Story Inside Book Only One Story Of Book

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

One-hundred and ten years ago this month, someone's uncle presented her with a book entitled "The Life Of The Empress Josephine."

Thursday, that very book — complete with inscription and a copyright date of 1860 — was up for grabs at the Lincoln City Library Foundation book sale.

"Presented to (name illegible) by her uncle — May, 1865," the inscription read.

'Love Story'

The book was shelved next to a cellophane-covered copy of Eric Segal's "Love Story."

In progress through Sunday, the Library Foundation sale provides the browser/shopper with a wealth of thumb-through material.

Approximately 6,000 volumes of excess and duplicate gift books are for sale. Each day, a new supply of books will be added to the shelves and tables.

All Sorts Of Treasures

The "collector's items" table holds all sorts of treasures — such as a book entitled "Industry And Idleness" penned by the renowned 19th century preacher, Henry Ward Beecher.

Even before you open the book, you know just about what old Henry had to say on the topic at hand.

"The bread which we solicit of God, He gives us through our own industry . . . gadding, gazing, lounging, mere pleasure-mongering . . . these are as useless as sleeping or dozing," he wrote.

What would he say about the four-day work week?

Did He Read It?

According to the inscription, Herbert Brownell's mother gave him a copy of "Light Of Asia" in 1902. Did he read it? We'll never know. It was on the "collector's items" table Thursday.

On the shelves devoted to sets of books, you might pick up the two-volume collection of the Earl of Chesterfield's letters to his son: "On the Fine Art Of Becoming A Man Of The World And A Gentleman."

No telling what kind of useful information one might find there.

The sale offers two tables of children's books; several sets of encyclopedias; a collection of paperback books; magazines and records.

There's everything from "The Complete Works of James Whitcomb Riley" to "How To Live With A Pampered Pet."

And for those who like their reading material brief, there's a healthy sampling of Reader's Digest Condensed Books.

A little something for everyone, as they say.

America's Deprived Urged To Renew Demonstrations

Omaha (UPI) — Activist Angela Davis said Thursday America's deprived should renew the demonstration protests of the 1960s to bring about "fundamental revoluntionary change" and rid the nation of its capitalistic society.

Ms. Davis, who acknowledged she was a Communist, told newsmen such action could be accomplished without violence, adding that more violence was committed in Southeast Asia and in Watergate than by minority groups to achieve their rights.

"Way over a million Vietnamese lost their lives in the defense of their country and the defense of their right to soverignty in order to achieve the beautiful victory which was achieved a few days ago," Ms. Davis said. "That is, in my opinion where violence lies."

When asked if she advocated violence, Ms. Davis responded, "Why is it everybody talks about violence when they talk about minorities?

"Violence was with Richard Nixon and his crowd," she added. "No one ever said they acted violently and they were acting against the whole country."

The militant black said she advocated the overthrow of the government and said demonstrations, such as those organized by the late Rev. Martin Luther King 10 years ago, only put a "dent in the objective for full minority rights.

"I say we're going to have to go to the streets again," she said. "The big push must now come for blacks, Chicanos and Indians and the other minorities and especially women."

Student enrollment from "working class backgrounds" has declined 16% in the nation's colleges and universities since the 1972-73 school year, Ms Davis said.

"If we are going to bring about any change whatever, not even to speak about fundamental revoluntionary change," Ms. Davis said, "we will have to definitely get back on the streets."

Ms. Davis was in Omaha on a tour sponsored by the National Alliance Against Racism and Political Oppression. Her evening address at Civic Auditorium was sponsored by the International Woman's Year Consortium and the State Programming Organization of the University of Nebraska of Omaha.

Narrated by E. G. Marshall, the Bryan segment is the first of a three-part famous Americans series entitled "American Lifestyle." Subsequent segments will deal with Sam Houston (to be aired June 3 at 7 p.m.); and Woodrow Wilson (June 26 at 7:30 p.m.).

Comco Productions, an independent company which produced the series, filmed most of the Bryan segment at Fairview, the Bryan home in Lincoln.

Court Injunction To Stop Sales At Finney Home

A temporary injunction closing an alleged "after hours club" was issued this week by Lancaster County District Court Judge William Hastings.

The injunction against Charles Finney, 2245 T St., prohibits anyone from selling or dispensing in any way alcoholic beverages at that address.

The county attorney's office had asked for the injunction claiming that the alleged club was violating state liquor laws because liquor was being sold without a license.

Robert E. R. Huntley, the president of Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va., has been elected to the board of directors of Central Telephone and Utilities Corp.

Candidate Says People's Choice Central Issue

City Council candidate Jim Carson said Thursday the central issue of the election is candidates' willingness to support the traditional American freedom of choice.

Carson said candidates must be concerned about peoples' views on matters. However, he claimed there is a national trend toward "collectivist government" which is "knocking at Lincoln's door."

Carson said the city's future is in the balance in Tuesday's election. People want to limit government bureaucracy and keep elected officials accountable to the voters.

Service Station Robber Takes $90 In Bills

A lone armed robber escaped with $90 in bills from the Kerr-McGee Deep Rock service station at 2910 N. 48th Thursday morning after banging the station manager on the head, police said.

Police said station manager Larry Mathine was inside the station filling out his morning report when the robber, wearing a blue ski mask and armed with a .22 to .25 caliber automatic pistol, entered.

After Mathine handed over the cash, the gunman told him to turn around. Mathine was then hit on the head with the robber's gun, police said.

Mathine was treated at and released from a Lincoln hospital.

The suspect was described as 5'7", thin build and about 20 to 25 years old.

One Guilty, One Acquitted In Big Burglary

Chicago (UPI) — A federal jury Thursday found one man guilty of involvement in the biggest cash burglary in U.S. history but acquitted a second man who helped the first carry part of the $4.3 million loot to the British West Indies.

After six hours of deliberations, the nine-man, three-woman jury decided that Pasquale Charles Marzano, 40, a burglar alarm expert from Cicero, Ill., was guilty of conspiracy, burglary, grand theft and transportation of stolen money. He was acquitted of two counts of using explosives.

Fellow defendant Luigi Difonzo, 27, of Fall River, Mass., was found innocent of conspiracy and transporting stolen money. In doing so, the jury declined to accept the testimony of chief government witness Peter J. Gushi, 47, of Oak Lawn, Ill., that Difonze knew in advance of the crime and agreed to "wash" the money.

Gushi, who has pleaded guilty to burglary charges in the theft, was described by Marzano's lawyer, Julius L. Echeles, as a "Judas" and a liar.

Marzano, Difonzo, Gushi and three others were accused of involvement in the theft of the money from the Armored Express Co., a division of Purolator Inc., in Chicago last Oct. 20. The thieves bypassed a sophisticated alarm system, carted away $4.3 million of the more than $20 million inside a vault and then tried to cover their tracks with fire bombs. Lack of oxygen in the vault put out the fire.

Difonzo and Marzano were arrested at the airport on Grand Cayman Island in the Bahamas Oct. 30.

America's Deprived Urged To Renew Demonstrations

Omaha (UPI) — Activist Angela Davis said Thursday America's deprived should renew the demonstration protests of the 1960s to bring about "fundamental revoluntionary change" and rid the nation of its capitalistic society.

Ms. Davis, who acknowledged she was a Communist, told newsmen such action could be accomplished without violence, adding that more violence was committed in Southeast Asia and in Watergate than by minority groups to achieve their rights.

"Way over a million Vietnamese lost their lives in the defense of their country and the defense of their right to soverignty in order to achieve the beautiful victory which was achieved a few days ago," Ms. Davis said. "That is, in my opinion where violence lies."

When asked if she advocated violence, Ms. Davis responded, "Why is it everybody talks about violence when they talk about minorities?

"Violence was with Richard Nixon and his crowd," she added. "No one ever said they acted violently and they were acting against the whole country."

The militant black said she advocated the overthrow of the government and said demonstrations, such as those organized by the late Rev. Martin Luther King 10 years ago, only put a "dent in the objective for full minority rights.

"I say we're going to have to go to the streets again," she said. "The big push must now come for blacks, Chicanos and Indians and the other minorities and especially women."

Student enrollment from "working class backgrounds" has declined 16% in the nation's colleges and universities since the 1972-73 school year, Ms Davis said.

"If we are going to bring about any change whatever, not even to speak about fundamental revoluntionary change," Ms. Davis said, "we will have to definitely get back on the streets."

Ms. Davis was in Omaha on a tour sponsored by the National Alliance Against Racism and Political Oppression. Her evening address at Civic Auditorium was sponsored by the International Woman's Year Consortium and the State Programming Organization of the University of Nebraska of Omaha.

The program, which deals with the life of William Jennings Bryan, can be seen on KMTV (channel 3), beginning at 9:30 p m

Narrated by E. G. Marshall, the Bryan segment is the first of a three-part famous Americans series entitled "American Lifestyle." Subsequent segments will deal with Sam Houston (to be aired June 3 at 7 p.m.); and Woodrow Wilson (June 26 at 7 30 p m).

Comco Productions, an independent company which produced the series, filmed most of the Bryan segment at Fairview, the Bryan home in Lincoln

Court Injunction To Stop Sales At Finney Home

A temporary injunction closing an alleged "after hours club" was issued this week by Lancaster County District Court Judge William Hastings.

The injunction against Charles Finney, 2245 T St., prohibits anyone from selling or dispensing in any way alcoholic beverages at that address.

The county attorney's office had asked for the injunction claiming that the alleged club was violating state liquor laws because liquor was being sold without a license.

Huntley Named To CTU Board

Robert E. R. Huntley, the president of Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va., has been elected to the board of directors of Central Telephone a..d Utilities Corp.

Thursday morning's Star carried a story which correctly reported Huntley's election to the board but the headline on the story incorrectly stated Huntley had been named CTU president. Robert P Reuss is president of CTU.

6 Students Top Grads In Business

Six Lincoln high school students are to be honored as outstanding graduating seniors in business at the Lincoln Chapter's Administrative Management Society's annual education night Tuesday. The event is at 7 p.m. at the Legionnaire Club.

The seniors are Barbara Dobberstein, Lincoln High; Debbie Lea Churda, Northeast; Teresa Myers, East; Carol Pogue, College View Academy; Lory Nutt, Southeast, and Gail Walkington, Pius X.

Candidate Says People's Choice Central Issue

City Council candidate Jim Carson said Thursday the central issue of the election is candidates' willingness to support the traditional American freedom of choice.

Carson said candidates must be concerned about peoples' views on matters. However, he claimed there is a national trend toward "collectivist government" which is "knocking at Lincoln's door."

Carson said the city's future is in the balance in Tuesday's election. People want to limit government bureaucracy and keep elected officials accountable to the voters.

Service Station Robber Takes $90 In Bills

A lone armed robber escaped with $90 in bills from the Kerr-McGee Deep Rock service station at 2910 N. 48th Thursday morning after banging the station manager on the head, police said.

Police said station manager Larry Mathine was inside the station filling out his morning report when the robber, wearing a blue ski mask and armed with a .22 to .25 caliber automatic pistol, entered.

After Mathine handed over the cash, the gunman told him to turn around. Mathine was then hit on the head with the robber's gun, police said.

Mathine was treated at and released from a Lincoln hospital.

The suspect was described as 5'7", thin build and about 20 to 25 years old.

One Guilty, One Acquitted In Big Burglary

Chicago (UPI) — A federal jury Thursday found one man guilty of involvement in the biggest cash burglary in U.S. history but acquitted a second man who helped the first carry part of the $4.3 million loot to the British West Indies.

After six hours of deliberations, the nine-man, three-woman jury decided that Pasquale Charles Marzano, 40, a burglar alarm expert from Cicero, Ill., was guilty of conspiracy, burglary, grand theft and transportation of stolen money. He was acquitted of two counts of using explosives.

Fellow defendant Luigi Difonzo, 27, of Fall River, Mass., was found innocent of conspiracy and transporting stolen money. In doing so, the jury declined to accept the testimony of chief government witness Peter J. Gushi, 47, of Oak Lawn, Ill., that Difonze knew in advance of the crime and agreed to "wash" the money.

Gushi, who has pleaded guilty to burglary charges in the theft, was described by Marzano's lawyer, Julius L. Echeles, as a "Judas" and a liar.

Marzano, Difonzo, Gushi and three others were accused of involvement in the theft of the money from the Armored Express Co., a division of Purolator Inc., in Chicago last Oct. 20. The thieves bypassed a sophisticated alarm system, carted away $4.3 million of the more than $20 million inside a vault and then tried to cover their tracks with fire bombs. Lack of oxygen in the vault put out the fire.

Difonzo and Marzano were arrested at the airport on Grand Cayman Island in the Bahamas Oct. 30.

Children Introduced To Pioneer Ways

K St. Power Plant Decision Likely Soon

The fate of the K St. Power Plant and the downtown steam heating system for the next year will be decided by the State Department of Environmental Control, probably within the next two weeks, according to Dr. Gary L. Walsh, supervisor of the City-County Health Department's air pollution control section.

A recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling gave states the authority to grant variances beyond a July 31, 1975, compliance deadline set by federal pollution regulations, Walsh told the Air Pollution Control Advisory Board Thursday.

Previously only the federal government had authority to extend the deadline.

Lincoln Electric System (LES) whose K St. smokestacks contribute to downtown Lincoln's dust pollution, has asked permission to continue burning some coal at the power plant for another year — until July 31, 1976.

If the extension is denied, LES will have to install expensive oil handling equipment, which would be used for only one heating season since the plant will be closed in 1976, according to LES officials.

The plant supplies steam heat to many downtown businesses.

The County-City Building air monitor continued to show elevated levels of dust due to the K St. smoke stacks during the first quarter of 1975, Walsh said.

A carbon monoxide monitor along O St., continues to show some elevated levels in excess of federal carbon monoxide standards. The air pollution section plans to buy a second, portable carbon monoxide monitor to determine if other areas in the city are also experiencing these high levels.

Walsh also reported that the Waverly, Walton and Firth Coop elevators are making satisfactory progress toward installation of dust control equipment.

IBM To Market Hospital System

When IBM took a look at the computerized health care support/accounting system operative at Lincoln General Hospital, they liked what they saw.

In fact, they like it so well that they approached hospital officials about copyrighting and marketing the system, which is used to facilitate patient accounting.

"I think it's quite an honor. We're really proud," said hospital administrator Robert Brungard Thursday night, after announcing to the Lincoln General Hospital board that the venture has been okayed.

According to Brungard, IBM will market the system nationally and internationally.

And Lincoln General — for its efforts in developing the system — will receive a $45 per month royalty for each program sold.

During the Thursday meeting, Brungard also announced that the hospital will stand to lose $2,400 per month due to a decision made recently by the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

"The secretary of HEW, in his infinite wisdom — or lack of it" has decided to eliminate the Medicare nursing differential previously paid to hospitals, Brungard said.

The nursing differential allowed hospitals an additional reimbursement — above and beyond the normal Medicare payment — for elderly patients only.

This additional reimbursement was allowed because elderly patients "require more care," Brungard said.

Someone will have to pay for that lost funding, Brungard said. And that someone will be the patient.

TO THE PEOPLE OF LINCOLN:

You have heard many times in the past and, I am sure, during the present campaign in Lincoln - "Exercise your right to vote." There is no more important thing you will do on May 6th than to enter the voting booth and cast an informed vote. It takes much less time than the average coffee break, but the value of your vote is overwhelming.

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce asks the people of Lincoln to consider two things when they go to the polls to vote; first, who, in your judgment, is the most experienced and qualified to hold the high public office the candidates are seeking, and secondly, who, because of their experience and native abilities can best represent you, the citizen, in keeping Lincoln a progressive community with a strong economy in which everyone enjoys living and working.

The Lincoln Chamber is the first to recognize there are many needs, including social needs, that must be met. We also recognize that it is you, the taxpayer, that must pay for these needs. Your ability to pay - in other words a good sound economic base in Lincoln depends on how some, if not all, of these needs will be met.

We urge you to vote and to vote for those whom you feel will not only promise the fulfillment of these needs, but who will enhance the abilities of the community to pay for them.

The most important right you have is the right to vote. Know the candidates and their stand and be sure to vote!

Wheat Exports May Be Good

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Wheat, the golden grain that makes cash registers jingle throughout Nebraska, should have an excellent year in the world export markets in the next 12 months. The forecast was made in a report issued by the Foreign Agricultural Service in Washington.

Nebraska is particularly fortunate in that most of its wheat crop is hard red winter wheat of a fairly high protein level, thanks to new varieties and protein research at the University of Nebraska.

The report indicates that world wheat imports during the 1975-76 marketing year, which begins July 1, will exceed 70.1 million tons in spite of increasing production in many of the importing nations.

Soft Wheat

European countries are expected to have large quantities of wheat on hand during the marketing year. However, it will be soft wheat, which must be blended with hard red wheat, to make satisfactory flour.

Europe is also expected to continue to import large amounts of durum wheat used in making spaghetti and similar foods.

Rainy fall weather in much of Western Europe delayed sowings of winter wheat, indicating that total acreage of winter wheat in Italy, West Germany and France are all below a year ago. Only France has an increased acreage.

India has a slight improvement over its 1974 wheat crop and its wheat storehouses are nearly empty, indicating a need of two to three million tons of wheat of all kinds.

Poor Crop In Morocco

Morocco has had a very poor crop this year. Other Middle Eastern nations have much more hard cash available to purchase food with due to higher oil prices, which should permit them to increase their importation of wheat.

Turkey and the People's Republic of China have good crop prospects, reducing the likelihood of U.S. wheat sales there, but officials suggest that these nations have a valid concern about the need to build a reserve stock as protection against future shortages.

The big unknown at this point is Russia, which is being closely watched for indications of any wheat needs. Reports of poor snow cover and a dry spring are possible indications of wheat needs in the U.S.S.R. Whether these needs will be translated into purchases are impossible to predict, ag experts say.

Russia is known to have greatly expanded its livestock production in an effort to improve the diet of its people. Unless they slaughter large numbers of livestock they almost certainly are going to need to buy some feed grains or low quality wheat for livestock feed.

U.S. competitors for these markets are primarily Argentina, Australia and Canada.

Increase Planned

These nations have all planned for increased acreage, but available planting intentions reports indicate their farmers didn't fully follow planners' suggestions.

Australia asked for a 10% increase and Canada for a 15% increase in acreage. However, it is apparent that neither nation will be able to meet these goals. Current stocks of wheat are below normal for both nations.

Argentina has already harvested its crop, which appears to have been hurt some by drought allowing for a crop better than last year, but still below its normal share of the world's wheat export market.

Big red may mean football to most Nebraskans but it is hard red wheat that plays a major role in feeding the world. The 1975 crop marketing year appears to be a good one for hard red wheat from Nebraska, crop officials say.

$500,000 Allocated For Water Project

Washington (AP) — Three members of the Nebraska congressional delegation said Thursday that $500,000 has been allocated for the North Loup irrigation project for 1976. The project involves water and flood control of the North and South Loup and Calemus rivers. The announcement came from Rep. Virginia Smith and Sens. Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska.

Dakota City Jail Escapee Captured

Sioux City, Iowa (UPI) — A Sioux City youth, who escaped Monday from the Dakota County Jail at Dakota City, Neb., was apprehended here Wednesday night and was shot in the leg while being chased by police. Officers said David McGill, 19, after being treated and dismissed from a Sioux City hospital was being held in the Woodbury County Jail for a possible extradition hearing. Officers related they were pursuing McGill in an auto chase on Sioux City's eastside when he "bailed out of the car and took off running. Several warning shots were fired, a detective said, and McGill was shot in the leg when he failed to halt.

Mid-State Signup Will Continue

Grand Island (UPI) — Don Shriner, district manager of the Mid-State Reclamation District, said the controversial irrigation project has gone above its acreage signup requirement for federal support, but he indicated the signup effort would continue. Shriner said the district had 151,200 acres signed, which was 11,000 acres higher than the goal of 140,000. However, he said he felt the district needed 160,000 acres signed in case any of the acres under agreement would be classified in the future as non-irrigable and non-serviceable.

NRD Cancels Burning Plants On Salt Creek

The Lower Platte South Natural Resources District (NRD) has canceled a scheduled burning of plant residues along Salt Creek until fall.

According to the NRD office in Lincoln, Thursday was too wet for burning in the morning and too windy by afternoon. There is also green plant growth that could be harmed, the NRD said.

The controlled burning was planned for the west side of the creek from Van Dorn to Calvert to aid erosion and flood control and reduce fire hazards.

UNL Faculty May Choose Union

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The padlock the University of Nebraska Board of Regents snapped temporarily shut to suspend granting of tenure has caused a quiet uprising among Lincoln campus faculty members.

The possibility of lawsuits looms.

After the UNL Faculty Senate lodged formal protests against the regents action, the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) chapter launched a campaign to get faculty to call for an election to establish collective bargaining.

"I'm optimistic" about getting signatures from more than 30% of the 1,000-member faculty, the minimum by law, said campaign chairman Donald C. Haack, engineering mechanics professor. The cards will be collected late Friday.

May Have Majority

History Prof. Nels Forde, AAUP local president-elect, said the national group suggests a majority of faculty signatures is necessary to stand a chance of winning an election held by the Court of Industrial Relations.

"The way it's going, we'll easily achieve" the 60% mark, Forde said Wednesday. "The percentage of people signing (throughout the Lincoln campus) is unbelievably high."

Prof. James Kimberly, sociology department chairman and AAUP secretary, said Wednesday 100% of the sociology faculty have signed the cards, and Forde reported 95% support in the history department.

Forde attributed that "obvious swell of sentiment" to the regents' "arbitrary action" to restrict tenure without prior faculty consultation.

Kimberly said, "I think there may be grounds for legal action" against the regents by the 90 faculty whose recommendations for tenure this month were deferred, and by faculty who were told they could meet tenure standards but now might not ultimately be considered for it.

'Violation' Possible

The Faculty Senate committee on academic freedom and tenure, which Kimberly chairs, passed a resolution saying the proposed tenure quota "raises a most serious question of the violation of agreements and understandings entered into in good faith by some faculty" when they accepted employment with UNL.

The resolution states further that a quota used "to deny tenure arbitrarily and capriciously to any of those faculty recommended for it this year" violates the agreement they'd be granted tenure after they've met specified standards, which they have.

The NU Federation of Teachers also chastised the regents' resolutions on tenure.

If the election is called, the UNL collective bargaining agent named could be AAUP, the American Federation of Teachers or any other group, which would then negotiate faculty contracts.

All faculty must not be members of AAUP, for example, for such a group to be the recognized bargaining agent.

Forde said, "When we have communicated with UNO, they have expressed a willingness to go along with what we have achieved" but the Omaha faculty have taken no formal action.

While the tenure issue "is crucially important," the need for collective bargaining is also "all bound up with the issue of governance," Kimberly said.

Need Participation

"One of the things that collective bargaining could assure is full faculty participation" in UNL governance, he said, citing less than complete faculty input in drafting the NU five-year plan and campus bylaws.

Part of any bargain, Kimberly said, could state exactly any faculty rights and administrators' procedures to guarantee them. That would be binding, which "a large number" of faculty members desire.

Moreover, he said, "If tenure is a way of attracting highly able people" to UNL, "and if it is a way of guaranteeing that researchers and teachers shall be free of . . . conventional pressures in searching for the truth, then it seems to me that is fundamentally an area in which faculty have primary concern," through collective bargaining.

Festering Issue

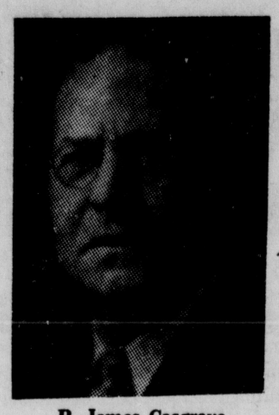
Prof. Haack said contract negotiations could also reverse faculty salary trends, an issue which has "been festering for a long time" — with the tenure action a relapse — to "acute inflammation."

"This is the seventh year out of seven that full professors at the university will have their real incomes reduced because of increases in the cost of living," which "salary increments will not match," Haack said. Faculty in the other professorial ranks have also lost purchasing power "in six of the last seven years," he said.

Despite that "pretty bad record," faculty salaries are "due to deteriorate again next year," Haack said.

While faculty members are coming on strong to sign cards, Haack said he's not hearing from "those people who are unalterably opposed to collective bargaining" and might be getting a misleading impression of staff sentiment.

But the campaign will go to a "second effort" if necessary to obtain sufficient signatures for an election, Haack said.



P. James Cosgrave

Cosgrave Grant To Be Given By Creighton

Omaha (UPI) — A scholarship fund will be established at the Creighton University School of Law in memory of a Lincoln attorney and judge.

Steven P. Frankino, law school dean, said Thursday the funds for the scholarships were given by Joan Cosgrave of Omaha, the daughter of the late P. James Cosgrave.

The contribution, the size of which was undisclosed, was made through Creighton's Centennial Thrust-Phase II development campaign.

Cosgrave practiced law in Lincoln from 1892 until shortly before his death in 1960. He served as a police judge in 1902, moved up to county judge, and from 1912 to 1918 served as a district judge.

Cosgrave received a bachelor of laws degree in 1891 and a master of laws degree in 1892 from the University of Michigan Law School before his 21st birthday. There were no law schools in Nebraska when he studied.

Miss Cosgrave made the announcement of the gift during Creighton's Law Day observance.

Volunteer Unit Elects Officers

The Nebraska Association for Retarded Citizens, a volunteer group with 4,000 member across the state, has elected officers for 1975.

Nebraska Realty Agents Censured By Commission

Two real estate agents have been censured by the Nebraska Real Estate Commission and a third has had his license suspended for 60 days.

John A. Stucklik and Wesley A. Baehr, both of Aurora, were censured for failing to properly maintain a trust account.

Controversy Helps Fill Theater

Scottsbluff (AP) — About 200 persons turned out here Wednesday night to view a film the mayor and three city councilmen had asked not to be shown in the downtown Bluffs Theater.

Mayor Don Overman and Councilmen Jack Chain, Tom Haiston and Bryan Salstron wrote a joint letter to Mike Rosencutter, manager of the theater, asking him not to show "Girls in Trouble."

Rosencutter said the attendance at the opening of the film Wednesday had probably doubled or tripled because of the controversy. He described the attendance as "an exceptionally good crowd."

Rosencutter said he plans to show the film for a week.

The city officials said they had seen a preview of the film earlier and thought it should have received an X-rating rather than an R. All said they thought the film was inappropriate for a downtown theater.

Overman said he has had 30 calls protesting the film.

The only Scottsbluff city councilman not to sign the letter was Roger Green. Green said "I certainly would not allow a member of my family to see the movie. But the government does not have a right to dictate to adults what they should and should not see. Who am I to judge?"

Overman said he had asked Scottsbluff County Atty. Robert Hippe to look into the matter.

UNL Faculty May Choose Union

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The padlock the University of Nebraska Board of Regents snapped temporarily shut to suspend granting of tenure has caused a quiet uprising among Lincoln campus faculty members.

The possibility of lawsuits looms.

After the UNL Faculty Senate lodged formal protests against the regents action, the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) chapter launched a campaign to get faculty to call for an election to establish collective bargaining.

"I'm optimistic" about getting signatures from more than 30% of the 1,000-member faculty, the minimum by law, said campaign chairman Donald C. Haack, engineering mechanics professor. The cards will be collected late Friday.

May Have Majority

History Prof. Nels Forde, AAUP local president-elect, said the national group suggests a majority of faculty signatures is necessary to stand a chance of winning an election held by the Court of Industrial Relations.

"The way it's going, we'll easily achieve" the 60% mark, Forde said Wednesday. "The percentage of people signing (throughout the Lincoln campus) is unbelievably high."

Prof. James Kimberly, sociology department chairman and AAUP secretary, said Wednesday 100% of the sociology faculty have signed the cards, and Forde reported 95% support in the history department.

Forde attributed that "obvious swell of sentiment" to the regents' "arbitrary action" to restrict tenure without prior faculty consultation.

Kimberly said, "I think there may be grounds for legal action" against the regents by the 90 faculty whose recommendations for tenure this month were deferred, and by faculty who were told they could meet tenure standards but now might not ultimately be considered for it.

'Violation' Possible

The Faculty Senate committee on academic freedom and tenure, which Kimberly chairs, passed a resolution saying the proposed tenure quota "raises a most serious question of the violation of agreements and understandings entered into in good faith by some faculty" when they accepted employment with UNL.

The resolution states further that a quota used "to deny tenure arbitrarily and capriciously to any of those faculty recommended for it this year" violates the agreement they'd be granted tenure after they've met specified standards, which they have.

The NU Federation of Teachers also chastised the regents' resolutions on tenure.

If the election is called, the UNL collective bargaining agent named could be AAUP, the American Federation of Teachers or any other group, which would then negotiate faculty contracts.

All faculty must not be members of AAUP, for example, for such a group to be the recognized bargaining agent.

Forde said, "When we have communicated with UNO, they have expressed a willingness to go along with what we have achieved" but the Omaha faculty have taken no formal action.

While the tenure issue "is crucially important," the need for collective bargaining is also "all bound up with the issue of governance," Kimberly said.

Need Participation

"One of the things that collective bargaining could assure is full faculty participation" in UNL governance, he said, citing less than complete faculty input in drafting the NU five-year plan and campus bylaws.

Part of any bargain, Kimberly said, could state exactly any faculty rights and administrators' procedures to guarantee them. That would be binding, which "a large number" of faculty members desire.

Moreover, he said, "If tenure is a way of attracting highly able people" to UNL, "and if it is a way of guaranteeing that researchers and teachers shall be free of . . . conventional pressures in searching for the truth, then it seems to me that is fundamentally an area in which faculty have primary concern," through collective bargaining.

Festering Issue

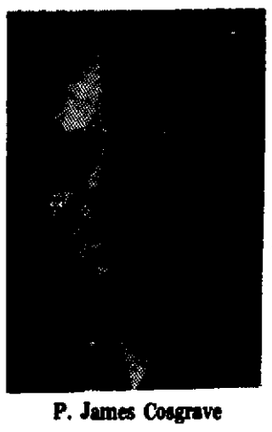
Prof. Haack said contract negotiations could also reverse faculty salary trends, an issue which has "been festering for a long time" — with the tenure action a relapse — to "acute inflammation."

"This is the seventh year out of seven that full professors at the university will have their real incomes reduced because of increases in the cost of living," which "salary increments will not match," Haack said. Faculty in the other professorial ranks have also lost purchasing power "in six of the last seven years," he said.

Despite that "pretty bad record," faculty salaries are "due to deteriorate again next year," Haack said.

While faculty members are coming on strong to sign cards, Haack said he's not hearing from "those people who are unalterably opposed to collective bargaining" and might be getting a misleading impression of staff sentiment.

But the campaign will go to a "second effort" if necessary to obtain sufficient signatures for an election, Haack said.



P. James Cosgrave

Cosgrave Grant To Be Given By Creighton

Omaha (UPI) — A scholarship fund will be established at the Creighton University School of Law in memory of a Lincoln attorney and judge.

Steven P. Frankino, law school dean, said Thursday the funds for the scholarships were given by Joan Cosgrave of Omaha, the daughter of the late P. James Cosgrave.

The contribution, the size of which was undisclosed, was made through Creighton's Centennial Thrust-Phase II development campaign.

Cosgrave practiced law in Lincoln from 1892 until shortly before his death in 1960. He served as a police judge in 1902, moved up to county judge, and from 1912 to 1918 served as a district judge.

Cosgrave received a bachelor of laws degree in 1891 and a master of laws degree in 1892 from the University of Michigan Law School before his 21st birthday. There were no law schools in Nebraska when he studied.

Miss Cosgrave made the announcement of the gift during Creighton's Law Day observance.

Volunteer Unit Elects Officers

The Nebraska Association for Retarded Citizens, a volunteer group with 4,000 member across the state, has elected officers for 1975.

They are Margaret Brink, York, president; Shirley Daugherty, Lincoln, first vice president; Peter Pfeifer, Fremont, second vice president; Luther Schmidt, Hastings, secretary, and William Ragan, Kearney, treasurer. They take office July 1.

Nebraska Realty Agents Censured By Commission

Two real estate agents have been censured by the Nebraska Real Estate Commission and a third has had his license suspended for 60 days.

John A. Stucklik and Wesley A. Baehr, both of Aurora, were censured for failing to properly maintain a trust account.

Controversy Helps Fill Theater

Scottsbluff (AP) — About 200 persons turned out here Wednesday night to view a film the mayor and three city councilmen had asked not to be shown in the downtown Bluffs Theater.

Mayor Don Overman and Councilmen Jack Chain, Tom Haiston and Bryan Salstron wrote a joint letter to Mike Rosencutter, manager of the theater, asking him not to show "Girls in Trouble."

Rosencutter said the attendance at the opening of the film Wednesday had probably doubled or tripled because of the controversy. He described the attendance as "an exceptionally good crowd."

Rosencutter said he plans to show the film for a week.

The city officials said they had seen a preview of the film earlier and thought it should have received an X-rating rather than an R. All said they thought the film was inappropriate for a downtown theater.

Overman said he has had 30 calls protesting the film.

The only Scottsbluff city councilman not to sign the letter was Roger Green. Green said "I certainly would not allow a member of my family to see the movie. But the government does not have a right to dictate to adults what they should and should not see. Who am I to judge?"

Overman said he had asked Scottsbluff County Atty. Robert Hippe to look into the matter.

Hitchcock Film Comes Alive For Youth Attacked By Raven

Omaha (AP) — Kevin Anderson may not have been thinking about the Alfred Hitchcock film of a few years ago, but if he was, he could perhaps be forgiven.

Hitchcock's "The Birds" was a shocker and Anderson got a shock of his own when a raven attacked him in the Westlawn Cemetery here.

And the attack was the second one in three days.

"The raven was the same one that tried to attack me Sunday when I was in the cemetery with a friend visiting a grave," Anderson said.

The Central High School junior was treated by a doctor "for three talon scratches across the left side of his face near the eye, given a tetanus shot and allowed to go home," said his father William Anderson.

Police described the raven as a blue-black bird several times larger than a crow.

Anderson said the bird swept out of the top of a pine tree toward him when he stepped from the family car. Running back toward the car, said Anderson, "the raven stayed right on top of my head." He said the bird seemed to be pacing him and he could feel its wings flapping against his head.

The youth said he fell to the ground and the bird flew past him, allowing an opportunity to jump into the car.

"I don't hold any grudge against the raven. I understand she had a nest in that pine tree and that she must have thought we were intruding on her domain," said Anderson.

Two police officers attempted to capture the raven from the ground with a net, but the bird foiled the attempt by darting through tree tops.

The persistent raven met her match when Larry Barr of the Nebraska Humane Society climbed into the pine tree and captured the bird with a net.

He said he'll remove the raven along with its nest and relocate them where less damage can be expected from the swooping attacks of the bird.

18-Year-Old Omaha Girl Attacked, Beaten In Bed

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha physician's daughter was attacked and beaten in the bedroom of her family's home early Thursday.

Police said Ann Marie Haller, 18, suffered cuts on her forehead and one hand shortly before 3 a.m. She is a student at Duchesne Academy.

Dr. Michael J. Haller told police he heard his daughter screaming and when he went to her bedroom he found a man on top of her, striking her with a metal tennis racket.

Haller grabbed the intruder while his wife called police.

Investigators said the intruder broke into the house through a basement window.

Police said the man later told them he thought his ex-wife was in the house and that the Haller girl was her.

Deputy County Atty. James Jansen said the man will be charged with a felony.

Tax Cut Repeal Sought By Curtis

Washington (AP) — Nebraska Sen. Carl Curtis called Thursday for a repeal of recently-passed tax cut legislation and elimination of federal revenue sharing in an effort to wipe out the federal budget deficit for fiscal 1976.

Curtis presented a 15-point list of suggestions aimed at cutting the $67.2 billion deficit, which also included cutbacks in social, educational, foreign aid and law enforcement spending.

The Nebraska Republican said congressional budget reforms already approved "are already doomed to failure."

Attacking a resolution setting the deficit at $67.2 billion as the Senate began debates on new budget bills, Curtis said the proposal "fails to meet the intentions of the budget reform we enacted in 1974, which was to require the Congress provide for a balanced budget each year."

Curtis said the budget reform bill as passed last year gave Congress the responsibility for the nation's purse strings, and called for each dollar spent to be balanced by a dollar received.

"But we will have already failed if the purpose of the act if we enact a budget with the $67.2 billion deficit," Curtis said.

He called on the Senate to eliminate the "huge deficit" in the measure.

"I think the situation is so serious that we change the existing law," Curtis added.

Curtis said spending for many social and educational programs has grown rapidly over the past few years, and called for cutbacks in some areas to 1974 levels.

The 15 spending cutbacks suggested by Curtis, and savings that could be realized, according to Curtis include:

—Repeal of the recent tax reduction bill, $23 billion.
—Abolish revenue sharing, $6.3 billion.
—Cut foreign economic assistance from $4 billion to $1 billion, $3 billion.
—Cut health spending, $5 billion.
—Cut mass transit programs, $1 billion.
—Cut community development programs to 1974 levels, $1 billion.
—Cut education programs to 1974 levels, $2 billion.
—Cut manpower and social services, $1.2 billion.
—Freeze government wages and retirement benefits for one year, $12.9 billion.
—Cut law enforcement spending, $1 billion.
—Cut space program, $500 million.
—Reduce food stamp spending, $2 billion.
—Reform Welfare programs, $2 billion.
—Enact windfall profits tax on oil to raise $3 billion.
—Balance the budget in fiscal 1976 to save $2 billion in interest costs.

Nebraskan Now In Florida Will Get Journalism Award

A Sidney native now reporting for the Miami Herald will be the 1975 recipient of the Distinguished Journalist Award, presented annually by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Chapter of Kappa Tau Alpha, journalism honor society.

Reporter Mike Baxter will be given the award at a Saturday breakfast honoring 18 NU journalism students newly initiated into Kappa Tau Alpha.

Baxter receives the award for his role in the Miami Herald's investigation of former Florida Sen. Edward J. Gurney's finances. A story by Baxter and another Herald reporter, published in October 1973, quoted sources saying Gurney — then in office — allegedly accepted illegal payoffs from government contractors.

After the reports were published, the Federal Department of Justice opened an investigation that resulted in a grand jury indictment against Gurney. He now awaits trial.

Baxter is a graduate of the NU School of Journalism. He has worked for the Miami Herald since 1968. Before that, he worked at the Lincoln Journal.

To qualify for membership in the honorary, a student must be a junior or senior ranking in the top 10% scholastically of all juniors and seniors in the school.

New Members for 1975:

Kathleen Downs, Lynwood, Wash.; Linda Enterline, Gretna; Mary Beth Grange, Grand Island; Regina Hills, Sugar Grove, Ill.; John Holden, Webster, S.D.; Scott Jones, Lexington; Pat Knapp, Dunlap, Ill.; Dennis Onnen, Omaha; Dale Oorlog, Valley;

Shooting Victim In Omaha Dies

Omaha (AP) — Jeffrey Rhoades, 37, also known as Reuben Taylor, died in an Omaha hospital early Thursday of a gun shot wound police said he suffered in an argument with another man over a woman Sunday.

Police said Rhoades had been living in Omaha off-and-on, but his home was in Kansas City.

They reported that a suspect taken into custody, identified as McArthur Stennis, 20, of Omaha, had been charged with shooting with intent to kill, wound or maim.

Police said the charge probably would be amended with the death of Rhoades.

Tax Cut Repeal Sought By Curtis

"I think the situation is so serious that we change the existing law," Curtis added.

Curtis said spending for many social and educational programs has grown rapidly over the past few years, and called for cutbacks in some areas to 1974 levels.

The 15 spending cutbacks suggested by Curtis, and savings that could be realized, according to Curtis include:

—Repeal of the recent tax reduction bill, $23 billion.
—Abolish revenue sharing, $6 3 billion
—Cut foreign economic assistance from $4 billion to $1 billion, $3 billion.
—Cut health spending, $5 billion.
—Cut mass transit programs, $1 billion.
—Cut community development programs to 1974 levels, $1 billion.
—Cut education programs to 1974 levels, $2 billion.
—Cut manpower and social services, $1 2 billion.
—Freeze government wages and retirement benefits for one year, $12.9 billion.
—Cut law enforcement spending, $1 billion
—Cut space program, $500 million
—Reduce food stamp spending, $2 billion
—Reform Welfare programs, $2 billion
—Enact windfall profits tax on oil to raise $3 billion
—Balance the budget in fiscal 1976 to save $2 billion in interest costs.

Nebraskan Now In Florida Will Get Journalism Award

A Sidney native now reporting for the Miami Herald will be the 1975 recipient of the Distinguished Journalist Award, presented annually by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Chapter of Kappa Tau Alpha, journalism honor society.

Reporter Mike Baxter will be given the award at a Saturday breakfast honoring 18 NU journalism students newly initiated into Kappa Tau Alpha.

Baxter receives the award for his role in the Miami Herald's investigation of former Florida Sen. Edward J. Gurney's finances. A story by Baxter and another Herald reporter, published in October 1973, quoted sources saying Gurney — then in office — allegedly accepted illegal payoffs from government contractors.

After the reports were published, the Federal Department of Justice opened an investigation that resulted in a grand jury indictment against Gurney. He now awaits trial.

Baxter is a graduate of the NU School of Journalism. He has worked for the Miami Herald since 1968. Before that, he worked at the Lincoln Journal.

To qualify for membership in the honorary, a student must be a junior or senior ranking in the top 10% scholastically of all juniors and seniors in the school.

They reported that a suspect taken into custody, identified as McArthur Stennis, 20, of Omaha, had been charged with shooting with intent to kill, wound or maim.

Police said the charge probably would be amended with the death of Rhoades.

Highway Safety Employes Seek Other Posts

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Uncertainty about the future of Nebraska's highway safety program has caused the resignation of three key employes in the program, according to State Motor Vehicles Director John Sullivan.

Highway Safety Administrator James P. McGinn resigned Thursday, effective June 1.

Sullivan also reported that Dennis Seaman, the program's fiscal officer, has left to work for the Lincoln Electric System and that Mrs. Micky Callahan, an analyst, has also resigned.

"They felt they've been yo-yoed back and forth long enough, Sullivan said.

Sullivan was referring to a debate in the Legislature over whether to require motorcycle riders to wear helmets. The federal government for the past several years has said the law must be enacted along with others or else the state will lose $5 million in highway construction funds and $2 million in highway safety funds.

If those funds are lost, it will eliminate the state Highway Safety Program.

Waving the states' rights flag and denouncing "big brother" in Washington, D.C., legislators at one point killed the helmet bill. It has been revived but still faces an uncertain future.

A similar showdown last year had the employes of the highway safety program looking elsewhere for jobs. Sullivan said, "This year they did the same thing.

"They have those darn squawk boxes (telephone speakers for listening to debate on the legislative floor) and hear the stuff that's said.

"They get to feeling, 'Hey, nobody really gives a dang about what we're doing.' I try to tell them that the majority really cares, and that they're just letting the loud ones have their say.

"Our people are really discouraged," he said.

Sullivan said the issue is safety, not state's rights. If the federal government is indeed being unreasonable, he said, then the state should stand up. But Sullivan said the federal officials have been "very reasonable" and have backed up on some proposals in the past.

Legislators now raising questions, he said, are "one dollar short and two days late."

He has asked McGinn to reconsider his resignation, because Sullivan said, "He's the one who made this program happen."

To prove the program's worth, Sullivan pointed a series of highway safety statistics gathered since 1971 when the program began:

— Highway fatalities have dropped annually from 490 in 1971 to 388 in 1974.

— The fatality rate between 1968 and 1974 has dropped from 4.5 to 3.5 victims per million miles travelled.

— The number of fatalities involving vehicle defects has dropped from 6.1% to 3%.

With your help we will win.

"My sincere thanks to all our campaign workers and the thousands of Lincoln voters who helped achieve our primary victory. I'm confident that with your continued support we will win again on May 6."

State Group Questions Fining Of Clerk Kilmer

The Nebraska Association of County Clerks and Registrars of Deeds Thursday told the State Supreme Court that Douglas County Clerk Lloyd Kilmer did nothing wrong in mailing out antiunion information to county employes.

Kilmer was fined $50 on a charge of malfeasance in office for mailing information to county employes in 1974 encouraging them to vote against unionization.

In a third party brief, the association said clarification by the court is definitely needed because from the facts it appears Kilmer would have been guilty of malfeasance only had he failed to mail the information.

Kilmer, the court was told, was acting at the direction of the county commissioners in mailing the information. Had he ignored the directives, the association contended, the case would be different.

"We submit that Mr. Kilmer acted properly and that his failure to act as he did would have been a clearer example of malfeasance," the association attorneys said.

In other words, the association said, the court should address itself to the question of whether county clerks may ignore county boards or not.

"Can he pick and choose which resolutions he wishes to follow?" the association asked.

Inquest Set Into Deaths At Elyria

Ord (UPI) — An inquest into the apparent murder-suicide Tuesday night of a rural Elyria woman and her daughter was scheduled here next week, Valley County authorities said.

Authorities said there was no indication that anyone else was involved in the deaths of Mrs. Lillian Kolar, 48, and her daughter, Dorothy Kolar, but, they said, an inquest would complete the investigation.

The daughter was shot once in the back of the head with a .22 caliber rifle. Authorities said Mrs. Kolar apparently shot herself with the same weapon. Her body was found the following morning on a hillside behind the family farm three miles west of Elyria.

Kolar told authorities that his wife and daughter had been arguing about a new coat for his daughter during dinner Tuesday night. Kolar said he went to the field, and when he returned about 10 p.m., he said he found his daughter's body on the kitchen floor.

Services were scheduled Friday afternoon in Ord.

Omaha Sitter Questioned In Assault On Baby Girl

Omaha (AP) — Omaha police have questioned a 17-year-old Omaha girl in connection with an assault on a 3-month-old baby girl.

Officials said they were summoned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Better Wednesday night.

The Betters told investigators they left their infant daughter, Lea, with the 17-year-old babysitter, and had gone shopping for about two hours.

Sometime after their return, they noticed that the baby had several bruises.

A doctor was called, and the baby was taken to a hospital. The attending physician said the infant has a broken left leg, and bruises on her hands and feet. The bruises were caused by external pressure, the doctor said.

Police said they are continuing their probe of the incident, and that no charges have been filed.

The baby-sitter, who was not identified, was released into the custody of her legal guardian.

Grand Island Civic Leader, Ritchie, 61, Dies

Grand Island (AP) — Forrest A. Ritchie, 61, well known Grand Island civic leader, died Wednesday night in a local hospital following a lengthy illness.

He was the father of former Miss America Sharon K. Ritchie. She won the title in 1955, and now resides in New York City with her husband, Robert Foman.

A native of Omaha, Ritchie, an insurance agent, moved here in 1941.

He is survived by his widow, Genevieve, two daughters, two brothers and four grandchildren.

Funeral services for Ritchie will be at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the First Christian Church in Grand Island.

Grocery Prices Up Again

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

Despite predictions of decline, grocery prices in Lincoln are climbing — again.

The Star's May marketbasket survey of 17 food items showed the average total price ($13.15) was 1.9% greater than last month's ($12.91).

This month's increase more than offset the 1.5% decline between the March and April surveys of three chain stores and one locally-owned supermarket.

Food experts and economists have been forecasting a steady decline in prices, saying farm and wholesale levels are beginning to show up on supermarket shelves.

The Associated Press national grocery price survey found that to be true — in isolated instances only.

This weekend's prices in Lincoln supermarkets represent a 6.5% increase over the average 13 months ago, 5.1% over those stamped on the same items six months ago.

The average price of only one of the 17 surveyed items — canned green beans — dropped over the past month. That decrease is due, in part, to an advertised special. Green beans still are four cents more on the average than they were 13 months ago, but one cent less than six months ago.

The prices of some foodstuffs remained unchanged, but the majority of prices moved upward. The most drastic price change during the month was a 17-cent-per-pound leap in the cost of loin pork chops. That, however, may be a reflection of increasing prices paid farmers.

The most recent ups and downs in food prices are just a continuation of those that have been plaguing the grocery market.

In 1974, for instance, the total cost of surveyed items was $12.65 in January. It dipped to $11.69 in June and rose to a high of $13.06 in September before sliding back to $12.71 in December.

The cost of beet sugar is continuing to inch downwards while cane sugar is holding its own in price.

Make 'Em Eat Turkey

Chicago (AP) — Bo Ock Lum, a University of Chicago clinical nutritionist, suggests that Americans eat turkey or chicken all year long, not just at holidays.

Turkey has less fat than steak — if you peel off the turkey skin — and it's cheaper, says Mrs. Lum, who is associated with the graduate program in clinical nutrition of the university's Pritzker School of Medicine.

So-called "top" grades of steak are heavily larded with fat. That's what makes them so tender, says Mrs. Lum.

Chicken — also without the skin — is a good steak substitute, too.

Among steaks, porterhouse and T-bone are the most loaded with fat. If you are addicted to steaks, she suggest flank steak — but be sure to remove the fat on the edge of it.

Mrs. Lum said her suggestions are mainly for people who desire to control their weight or whom physicians have advised to modify their fat intake.

Grocery Prices Up Again

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

Despite predictions of decline, grocery prices in Lincoln are climbing — again.

The Star's May marketbasket survey of 17 food items showed the average total price ($13.15) was 1.9% greater than last month's ($12.91).

This month's increase more than offset the 1.5% decline between the March and April surveys of three chain stores and one locally-owned supermarket.

Food experts and economists have been forecasting a steady decline in prices, saying farm and wholesale levels are beginning to show up on supermarket shelves.

The Associated Press national grocery price survey found that to be true — in isolated instances only.

This weekend's prices in Lincoln supermarkets represent a 6.5% increase over the average 13 months ago, 5.1% over those stamped on the same items six months ago.

The average price of only one of the 17 surveyed items — canned green beans — dropped over the past month. That decrease is due, in part, to an advertised special. Green beans still are four cents more on the average than they were 13 months ago, but one cent less than six months ago.

The prices of some foodstuffs remained unchanged, but the majority of prices moved upward. The most drastic price change during the month was a 17-cent-per-pound leap in the cost of loin pork chops. That, however, may be a reflection of increasing prices paid farmers.

The most recent ups and downs in food prices are just a continuation of those that have been plaguing the grocery market.

In 1974, for instance, the total cost of surveyed items was $12.65 in January. It dipped to $11.69 in June and rose to a high of $13.06 in September before sliding back to $12.71 in December.

Kids' Governor Bit Absentminded

By IVAN TRAVNICEK
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska's "Governor" decided to sign a bill into law early this week when he forgot why he wanted to veto it.

The "bill" was LB445, a measure aimed at stopping "all the polluting in the world", and the governor was Mike Roux, a student at Prescott Elementary.

Students in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades at the school are divided up into "units" of about 130 students, and one unit, headed by teacher Robert Bussmann, has been studying state government.

After a trip to the Unicameral the students set up their own legislature. One of the students asked after the Statehouse trip: "In our Unicameral will the clerk have to mumble read the bills too?"

Students were divided up into two parties, the Stars and the Stripes. Mike was elected governor and Jill Smith, Lieutenant governor.

Twelve others were elected state senators and seven were chosen to be Supreme Court justices. Also elected were the secretary of state and the attorney general.

The closest election was for governor and lieutenant governor, with only four votes separating the two teams. Both teams had used posters, buttons and an ample selection of promises.

The mock Unicameral was the culmination of governmental activities for the youngsters, and the budding lawmakers made their decisions before a crowd of about 100 parents, brothers sisters.

State Sen. Steve Fowler of Lincoln attended the session and said the kids were "fantastic." He said they worked a lot faster than the real senators.

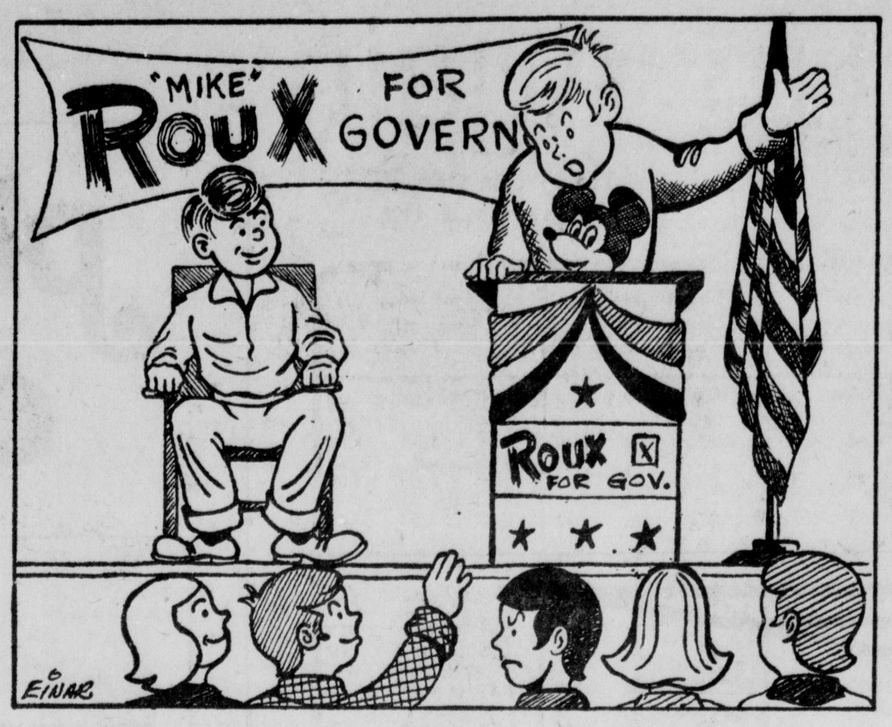
The students' LB445 was the bill to stop pollution worldwide. The aim of the bill may have been unrealistic, but the penalty was down to earth.

"Anybody caught polluting" will be required to put in seven to eight hours of work" to help clean up the city parks, government grounds, and highway areas."

The 12 pint-sized senators passed the measure on a 6-5 vote with one abstention. Gov. Roux then had his fatal lapse of memory and signed the bill into law.

Others bills were:

—LB995 to establish snack bars in elementary schools. This bill was defeated 5-7.



—LB996 to have each school in Nebraska go on an all-day field trip to a park in their area and clean up litter. This bill was passed by unanimous vote of the 12 senators.

LB391 to establish bicycle lanes on streets with a speed limit of 35 miles an hour or over or if the street is noted as a busy street. The measure was passed 10-0 with two abstentions, But Gov. Roux vetoed the bill. He said "if they put lanes in they would run into property ownership difficulties" because the streets would have to be widened.

Bridge

No North Strength

By B. JAY BECKER

You are South, neither side vulnerable. The bidding has been:

East	South	West	North
1♣	Dble	Pass	1♥
Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠ AKQ62 ♥ J74 ♦ AJ6 ♣ K8
2. ♠ AJ93 ♥ QJ86 ♦ AKJ2 ♣ 10
3. ♠ AJ6 ♥ KQ932 ♦ AQ5 ♣ 74
4. ♠ AQ62 ♥ J5 ♦ KQJ3 ♣ AJ8

1. One spade. This may seem to be an enormous underbid, but that is not actually the case. You may very well be leaning on a broken reed, for partner's heart response is simply a reply to your takeout double and does not show any strength at all. It is best to bid only one spade at this point, hoping to hear from partner again. If he passes, the odds strongly favor no game in the hand.

The fact is that by doubling a club and bidding a spade over the heart response, you portray a very good hand. You have told North you were too strong for a one spade bid directly over one club, and that game is possible if he has something worthwhile to contribute.

2. Three hearts. This time you have a good trump fit and you don't require too much from North to have a reasonable shot for game. Actually, partner needs little more than K-10-x-x-x of hearts. Two hearts would be too pessimistic and four hearts too optimistic. Three is just about right.

3. Two hearts. Again there are 16 high-card points, but they are not nearly as well set up as in the previous hand. There is no singleton club here, and that makes a world of difference. Moreover, the raise to two hearts is in any case a very positive move; it tells partner you had more than a minimum double, as well as a trump fit, and that is really all you have. To jump to three would be exaggerating your values unnecessarily — and if you are a devout reader of this column you should never intentionally do that.

4. One notrump. This may seem unduly conservative, but you have practically no values beyond those shown by your two bids. If you were to jump to two notrump instead, you would be contracting single-handedly for 62 per cent of the tricks in the deck with only 45 per cent of the points in the deck, and you would thus be exposing yourself to the charge of biting off more than you can chew.

Dear Mrs. Boosalis:

You were in charge of the city council hearing on cable television. I was shocked that you would let a liberal agitator defile the council chamber with vulgar four-letter words...that were televised. I was surprised when you let this same person go beyond the time limit that had been set for others testifying at this meeting. Is this the kind of leadership we can expect from you? I want somebody who will stand up for decency and order. You didn't show me much of an example.

Kids' Governor Bit Absentminded

By IVAN TRAVNICEK
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska's "Governor" decided to sign a bill into law early this week when he forgot why he wanted to veto it.

The "bill" was LB445, a measure aimed at stopping "all the polluting in the world", and the governor was Mike Roux, a student at Prescott Elementary.

Students in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades at the school are divided up into "units" of about 130 students, and one unit, headed by teacher Robert Bussmann, has been studying state government.

After a trip to the Unicameral the students set up their own legislature. One of the students asked after the Statehouse trip: "In our Unicameral will the clerk have to mumble read the bills too?"

Students were divided up into two parties, the Stars and the Stripes. Mike was elected governor and Jill Smith, Lieutenant governor.

Twelve others were elected state senators and seven were chosen to be Supreme Court justices. Also elected were the secretary of state and the attorney general.

The closest election was for governor and lieutenant governor, with only four votes separating the two teams. Both teams had used posters, buttons and an ample selection of promises.

The mock Unicameral was the culmination of governmental activities for the youngsters, and the budding lawmakers made their decisions before a crowd of about 100 parents, brothers sisters.

State Sen. Steve Fowler of Lincoln attended the session and said the kids were "fantastic." He said they worked a lot faster than the real senators.

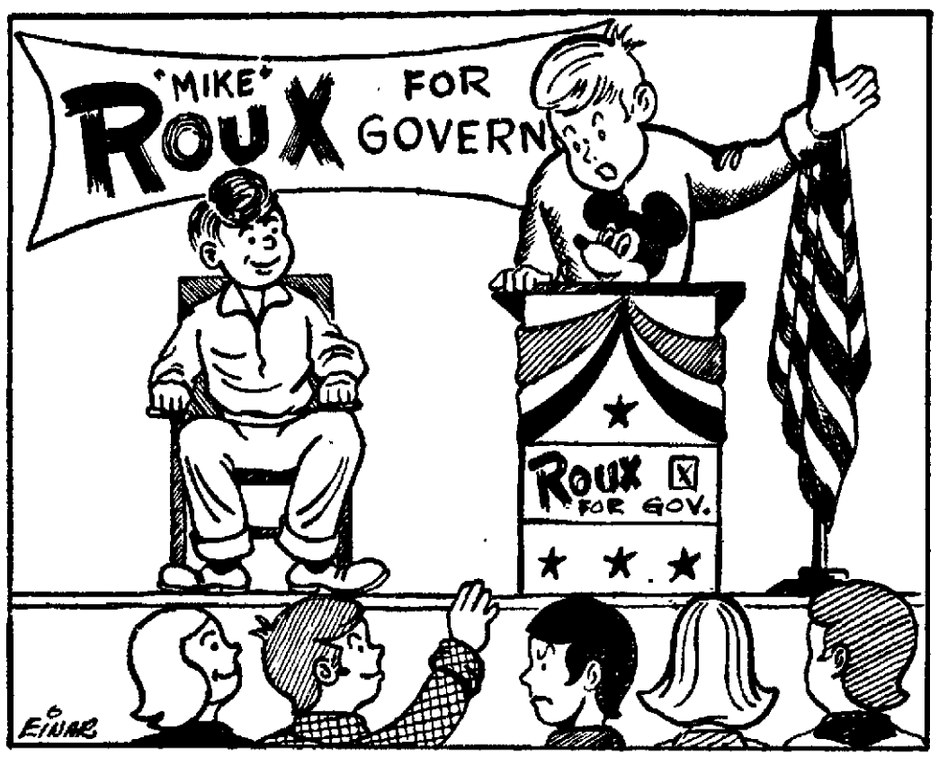
The students' LB445 was the bill to stop pollution worldwide. The aim of the bill may have been unrealistic, but the penalty was down to earth.

"Anybody caught polluting" will be required to put in seven to eight hours of work" to help clean up the city parks, government grounds, and highway areas."

The 12 pint-sized senators passed the measure on a 6-5 vote with one abstention. Gov. Roux then had his fatal lapse of memory and signed the bill into law.

Others bills were:

—LB995 to establish snack bars in elementary schools. This bill was defeated 5-7.



—LB996 to have each school in Nebraska go on an all-day field trip to a park in their area and clean up litter. This bill was passed by unanimous vote of the 12 senators.

LB391 to establish bicycle lanes on streets with a speed limit of 35 miles an hour or over or if the street is noted as a busy street. The measure was passed 10-0 with two abstentions, But Gov. Roux vetoed the bill. He said "if they put lanes in they would run into property ownership difficulties" because the streets would have to be widened.

Bridge
No North Strength

By B. JAY BECKER

You are South, neither side vulnerable. The bidding has been:

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	Dble	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠ AKQ62 ♥ J74 ♦ AJ6 ♣ K8
2. ♠ AJ93 ♥ QJ86 ♦ AKJ2 ♣ 10
3. ♠ AJ6 ♥ KQ932 ♦ AQ5 ♣ 74
4. ♠ AQ62 ♥ J5 ♦ KQJ3 ♣ AJ8

1. One spade. This may seem to be an enormous underbid, but that is not actually the case. You may very well be leaning on a broken reed, for partner's heart response is simply a reply to your takeout double and does not show any strength at all. It is best to bid only one spade at this point, hoping to hear from partner again. If he passes, the odds strongly favor no game in the hand.

The fact is that by doubling a club and bidding a spade over the heart response, you portray a very good hand. You have told North you were too strong for a one spade bid directly over one club, and that game is possible if he has something worthwhile to contribute.

2. Three hearts. This time you have a good trump fit and you don't require too much from North to have a reasonable shot for game. Actually, partner needs little more than K-10-x-x-x of hearts. Two hearts would be too pessimistic and four hearts too optimistic. Three is just about right.

3. Two hearts. Again there are 16 high-card points, but they are not nearly as well set up as in the previous hand. There is no singleton club here, and that makes a world of difference. Moreover, the raise to two hearts is in any case a very positive move; it tells partner you had more than a minimum double, as well as a trump fit, and that is really all you have. To jump to three would be exaggerating your values unnecessarily — and if you are a devout reader of this column you should never intentionally do that.

4. One notrump. This may seem unduly conservative, but you have practically no values beyond those shown by your two bids. If you were to jump to two notrump instead, you would be contracting single-handedly for 62 per cent of the tricks in the deck with only 45 per cent of the points in the deck, and you would thus be exposing yourself to the charge of biting off more than you can chew.

She Wants Pop's Bump

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old unmarried woman. My father is Jewish, and my mother is Irish. I have always looked more like my father because I have the same little bump on my nose that he has. I never minded the bump because I love my father very much, and I never did get along with my mother.

Well, I got into an automobile accident, and they called in a plastic surgeon to sew up my face. Since my nose was in pretty bad shape, this doctor took the bump off, and now I look like my mother instead of my father.

Even though people remark on what an improvement it is, I became very depressed. I even went to a psychiatrist, and he said I should have the plastic surgeon restore my nose the way it was. That's what I want to do.

My problem is everybody I talk to. They tell me I should have my head examined. What do you say?

LOVES DADDY

DEAR LOVES: You DID have your head examined and were advised to do what you want to do about your nose. So do it.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I weighed 400 pounds. My life was hardly worth living. In fact, I planned to commit suicide after reaching the age of 21. (I was going to take heroin.)

I am now 22 and weigh 200 pounds, and I haven't touched drugs of any kind — and that includes alcohol and cigarettes — for two years.

I owe it all to a wonderful doctor at the University Hospital in Iowa City, Iowa, who performed a gastric bypass on me. Now I can eat as much as I want (which isn't very much anymore) and never worry about putting on a pound.

I wish you would print this for others who have found that dieting didn't work for them.

ONE HAPPY FELLOW

DEAR HAPPY: You make it sound so simple. After considerable research, I learned that gastric-bypass surgery, which proved so successful for you, is not for everyone. There are risks involved. Those who are interested should discuss it with their physicians.

DEAR ABBY: As a police officer, may I say something to the man who objected to women wearing pants suits?

Not one victim of the rape cases I have handled was wearing a tailored pants suit. One was wearing a slinky pajama sort of thing; the others were wearing either skirts or shorts.

A COP

DEAR ABBY: I have a question to ask that has been bothering both my husband and me for a long time.

We have two little girls. Our third daughter was stillborn. When people ask us how many children we have, what is the best answer?

WISCONSIN MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The best answer is your own: "We have two little girls. Our third daughter was stillborn."

DEAR ABBY: As a divorced woman I often was asked, "How's your sex life?" To which I politely replied, "Private!"

It never failed.

Devaney: You Can't Regulate Finances At National Level

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska athletic director Bob Devaney thinks the NCAA should stay out of the area of financial problems among member schools.

"I don't believe you can regulate finances at the national level," he said in response to a question about recent proposals the NCAA plans to consider at a special convention in Chicago Aug. 14-15.

The NCAA Council will prepare a list of recommendations for money-saving in college athletics and present them to that convention for a vote of the 815-member institutions.

Among the proposals is that football grants in Division I (larger) schools be trimmed from 105 to 90, that basketball be limited to 16 scholarships and that there be only 80 scholarships for all sports other than football and basketball.

Other proposals call for trimming coaching staffs to eight in football and varsity basketball to two while also eliminating full-time recruiters.

THE LINCOLN STAR
Sports
Friday, May 2, 1975 21

"There are 136 members of Division I and that takes in an awful range," Devaney said. "It goes all the way from schools like Texas, Nebraska, Notre Dame and Alabama to schools with 10,000 to 15,000-seat stadiums."

The NU chief believes regulations should be left to the various conferences, whose members usually have the same basic problems, and that independents should make rules that fit their particular situation.

One thing Devaney fears most about the football tender cut is the possibility of a return to one-platoon football.

"They're going to drag college football down to one-platoon again and people will stay away in droves," he warned. "That's what drove them to pro football in the early 1960s."

He feels the minimum number of players needed for two platoons is a figure somewhere over 100. "We'd like to have 120, but there should be at least 100 or so," he said.

The NCAA's recent cut from 45 tenders a year, which the Big Eight had been giving, to 30 a year and a 105 overall limit might have saved some money on tuition, books, room and board, but it increased recruiting costs.

"We spent more recruiting to 30 than we did for 45," Devaney reported. "We had to be more selective and it almost amounted to putting a coach to a player in trying to be sure to get the good ones. So, cutting back was not really a saving."

The NCAA could be leaning toward elimination of spring football practice, which in Nebraska's case would deprive the Husker athletic department of some money.

The spring games here usually draw good crowds with tickets priced at $2 for adults and $1 for students. When over 21,000 people shell out that kind of money, loss of it certainly would add to the projected NU deficit.

One midwestern coach at a major institution has been against spring football all along, but not as a money saving device.

This coach, Lee Corso, who will bring his Indiana team to Lincoln to meet the Huskers next Sept. 20, has an ingenious idea that would, in effect, add a 12th game to the schedule.

His idea is to bring the squads back to campus a week earlier than at present in the fall. Then, two weeks before the scheduled opener play a "practice" game against a team close enough that there would be very little travel expense. This would give coaches insight on problem areas to work on in the final preparations for the opener.

In Nebraska, for example, the Huskers might "practice" against UN-Omaha in a game which would not be counted in either team's records.

Money Idea: Fall Baseball

Nebraska baseball coach Tony Sharpe has an idea he will discuss with his boss, athletic director Bob Devaney, to help the baseball program produce more revenue.

He would like to see the Big Eight Conference play its 21-game round-robin schedule in the fall while maintaining a program in the spring with a schedule that would limit travel.

"We should be able to really draw here in the fall on weekends when there are 76,000 football fans in Lincoln with nothing to do until 1:30 p.m. on Saturdays," Sharpe said.

The downtown area and the campus begins to fill with fans around 9 a.m. and if there were a baseball game, say at 10 or 10:30 a.m., they just might drop in for some of the action, Sharpe reasons.

Although there are some things that would have to be thought out as far as the Big Eight is concerned, Sharpe is certain of one thing: The conference teams wouldn't have to cope with the traditional poor spring weather.

One drawback might be the automatic qualification of the conference champion for the College World Series. That's why Tony proposes a mid or late-May league tournament for the purposes of qualifying a team for the Series, which is NCAA-sponsored.

Fall Weather Usually Good

Sharpe and assistant Bob Gates recall that the Huskers worked out eight weeks in the fall and didn't miss a single practice. "Two years ago, there were only a few days when we couldn't workout," Gates said.

Spring games would be scheduled against nearby colleges and universities such as UN-Omaha, Creighton and perhaps even Kansas State. The spring trip, which is costly, would be eliminated.

There are a couple of disadvantages of a fall schedule. For one thing, it would take football players out of the baseball program because of the obvious conflict.

Another problem would be working freshmen into the lineup because they would lose the advantage they now have of the regular fall practice period.

On the other hand, most baseball players would report in tip-top shape after a summer of amateur competition in their hometowns.

Catching Up On Sports

Nebraska's baseball team is an erudite group. The top 28 players on the Huskers roster have a combined 3.13 grade-point average in the classroom.

Speaking of grades, a survey among Pacific-8 Conference schools shows that Stanford graduated 86.3 per cent of athletes recruited in 1966 for the five major sports in four years. The average for non-athletes was 85 per cent. At Southern California, the figure is 85 per cent of all players recruited since John McKay arrived as head coach in 1960.

The NCAA has sanctioned 13 college football bowl games and no new ones gained approval. The dates of three of them fall in the time period when the proposed national championship playoff would be in progress.

The dates: Dec. 12, Gate City Bowl, Atlanta; Dec. 20, Tangerine Bowl, Orlando, Fla.; Dec. 22, Liberty Bowl, Memphis; Dec. 26, Sun Bowl, El Paso, Tex.; Dec. 26, Fiesta Bowl, Tempe, Ariz.; Dec. 27, Pelican Bowl, New Orleans; Dec. 27, Astro-Blue Bonnet Bowl, Houston; Dec. 29, Gator Bowl, Jacksonville, Fla.; Dec. 31, Peach Bowl, Atlanta; Dec. 31, Sugar Bowl, New Orleans; Jan. 1, Orange Bowl, Miami, Cotton Bowl, Dallas, and Rose Bowl, Pasadena, Calif.

Milwaukee's Hank Aaron singles in Sixto Lezcano to break Babe Ruth's record for RBIs.

Aaron Breaks Career Mark

By The Associated Press

Hank Aaron has replaced Babe Ruth in the record books once again.

Aaron, who broke Ruth's record for career home runs last season, surpassed the Babe's career mark of 2,209 runs batted in with a third-inning single Thursday, helping the Milwaukee Brewers to a 173 rout of the Detroit Tigers.

Aaron, the Brewers' 41-year-old designated hitter, rapped his historic single off Detroit starter Vern Ruhle, driving in Sixto Lezcano and giving the Brewers a 3-2 lead. Aaron then keyed a pair of five-run innings in the Milwaukee romp.

For the day, Aaron went 4for-4 and raised his batting average 60 points—to .218.

The Brewers also got a three-run homer from 19-year-old shortstop Robin Yount and a two-run shot by Darrell Porter.

In other day games, Bernie Carbo's leadoff double triggered a three-run first inning and he added a two-run homer in the second to help the Boston Red Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 7-6. That snapped a fourgame Boston losing streak.

Red Sox starter Bill Lee was coasting with a 7-2 lead until John Ellis' three-run homer in the eighth and Rico Carty's pinch-hit RBI single in the ninth. Reliever Diego Segui came on to get the last out.

The Chicago Cubs posted their sixth victory in seven games by beating the New York Mets 5-2 as Rick Monday drove in two runs for the Cubs. Steve Stone, 4-0, got the victory.

Bob Watson and Doug Rader drove in two runs apiece to help the Houston Astros defeat the San Diego Padres 6-3.

The only National League night game on the schedule, St. Louis at Pittsburgh, was rained out.

Cookie Rojas slapped a two-out run-scoring double in the 13th inning to tie the score, then scored the winning run on Buck Martinez' single, lifting the Kansas City Royals to an 11-10 victory over the California Angels.

California starter Ed Figueroa, catcher Ellie Rodriquez and manager Dick Williams were ejected from the game after disputing a call at home plate when Hal McRae scored.

In other American League night games, the New York Yankees blanked Baltimore, 5-0 behind Catfish Hunter and Texas stopped Chicago 2-1.

Top Thinclad Inks Letter For Huskers

Richard Degnan, sprint standout from Holy Trinity High School in Long Island, N.Y., has signed a national letter of intent to attend the University of Nebraska, Husker track coach Frank Sevigne announced Thursday.

As a junior, Degnan was the New York City Catholic High School 880 champion with a time of 1:52.8. This winter, he ran the 600-yard run in 1:12.9, which is the third best 600 high school time in the nation.

Newspaper: Big 8 Using Polygraph

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Big Eight Conference is using polygraph tests in its investigations of recruiting infractions, The Daily Oklahoman said Thursday in a story for its Friday morning editions.

In a story by Walt Jayroe, The Oklahoman said at least one lie detector test was taken by a University of Oklahoma athlete during the conference's recent probe into the Oklahoma State athletic program. The investigation led to the Stillwater school being penalized last March 1.

Jay Pfau, a sophomore and heavyweight wrestler at Oklahoma from Sidney, Mont., said he took the polygraph examination in February in Oklahoma City.

The paper quoted sources as saying that Pfau voluntarily took the test under Big Eight supervision and made charges against Oklahoma State in connection with that school's recruiting of him.

The charges were not substantiated by the Big Eight and did not appear as any part of the 11 official violations listed aginst the Cowboy football and wrestling teams.

Pfau was quoted as saying that Richard D. "Dick" Martin of the Big Eight office supervised the polygraph test which was conducted by a private investigative agency in Oklahoma City. Pfau also said the Big Eight paid his expenses from Norman.

Jayroe's story also disclosed that several Sooner athletes had been asked to take polygraph tests this winter, including freshmen football players Jeff Ward and Harvey Johnson.

Johnson, a 6-foot-5 lineman from Tulsa, said Big Eight Commissioner Chuck Neinas "came down here and talked to me about taking a lie detector test and I said I would."

Johnson said the situation arose "last semester, I think, sometime before going on Christmas vacation." However, he said he has not heard from the Big Eight since.

Ward, a 6-foot-5, 225-pound offensive tackle, said he presented some typewritten charges to a Big Eight official and that Sooner officials informed him he was to take a polygraph test in mid-February but the meeting was postponed.

The Oklahoman said that Ward's charges were against two Oklahoma State alums who tried to recruit him a year ago. The charges included alleged offers of a new car for only $600 and that his game tickets would be purchased for $600.

The charges apparently were not substantiated by the Big Eight because they were not listed among the violations in March.

Neinas would not confirm or deny Thursday that the polygraphs are used by the conference.

He said the conference "has no firm policy on the use of polygraph exams. We have had polygraph test available to us in investigations."

Wesleyan Wins Conference Title

Seward — The Nebraska Wesleyan baseball team made it 10 straight wins as the Plainsmen clipped Concordia, 7-4 and 8-1 in a doubleheader here Thursday to win the NIAC baseball title for the third year in a row.

Freshman Jim Hammersky's grand slam blast in the fifth inning of the opener helped the Plainsmen take a 6-4 lead while Larry Abel shackled the Bulldogs, allowing only three and striking out 10 to earn the win in the nightcap.

NWU, now 14-8 overall and 8-0 in the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, opened the first game with two runs in the first inning.

Concordia answered with four in the second on four hits, sending NWU starter Mike Ginn to the showers.

Wesleyan coach Ron Bachman put in Jack Ball, who allowed only two hits in six innings of relief to get the win. Ball is now 3-1.

In the second game, back-to-back home runs by Curt Lewis and Chuck Biggs helped the Plainsmen roll to their eighth NIAC conference win in a row.

Larry Abel, now 4-2, picked up the win in the nightcap going the distance, striking out 10 and allowing only 3 hits, all by Concordia's Kurt Fuqua, who went 5 for 6 for the two games.

Hammersky and Jay Hancock each collected three hits in three at-bats in the second game for NWU.

Nebraska Wesleyan will host Doane College in a twin bill Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Sherman Field.

Two Share Houston Top

HOUSTON (UPI) — Texan Lee Trevino and Australian David Graham each ran in six birdie putts Thursday on a soggy Woodlands golf course which Trevino said would get tougher and both grabbed a share of the first round lead in the $150,000 Houston Open with six-under par 66s.

Lanky Dale Douglass one-putted the first five holes he played after blasting out of the sand on each to fire a 67 and join rookie Alan Tapie, consistent Jerry McGee and Eddie Pearce in second place.

Up to a third of the field had subpar scores in the first competitive round ever on the 6,929-yard course, with its narrow traplined fairways.

"The reasons the scores were so low," Trevino said, "is because of the rain they've had. You could stop the ball on the green when hitting out of the rough. It won't be that way if things dry up."

Arnold Palmer, 45, was the crowd favorite. He said his two-over par 74 was not the result of the course.

"Generally, my putting was gross," he said after three putting two greens.

Arizona Aide Joins K-State

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI) — Kansas State University Basketball Coach Jack Hartman Thursday appointed Jerry Holmes, an assistant at the University of Arizona, to a similar position on his staff.

Apke Hails State Cage 'Sweep'

Omaha (UPI) — Creighton University announced the signing of a third Nebraska prep basketball standout in what was called an "unprecedented sweep" of the state high school basketball market.

Athletic director and basketball coach Tom Apke said he signed Dave Wesely, a 6-7 all-stater from Omaha Creighton Prep, Wednesday night at Wesely's home.

Earlier, Apke signed two other all-staters, 6-8 Bruce Kucera of North Platte and 6-3 John C. Johnson of Omaha Central.

Apke indicated recruiting efforts will now turn to various center prospects outside Nebraska.

Wesely was a three-year regular on the Creighton Prep squad where he led his team to a 21-1 record his junior year and a 23-3 record the past season. Wesely led Prep in scoring with a 14.1 average and a 10 rebound average per game.

In addition to his basketball talents, Wesely is one of the leading baseball pitchers in the metropolitan Omaha area.

In announcing Wesely's national letter of intent signing, Creighton said the move "completes an unprecented Creighton sweep of three Nebraska all-staters."

Apke added, "we are extremely happy because we have signed a young man who is so fundamentally sound in all facets of the game that he can help us immediately."

Big 8 Rowing Championships Set Saturday

Manhattan — The first annual Big Eight rowing championships will be held Saturday afternoon at Shawnee Mission Lake with all three Big Eight schools now supporting rowing competing.

Kansas State, Nebraska and Oklahoma State will all compete in the first even, frosh "fours," beginning at 1 p.m.

The schedule and entrants are:

1:20 p.m. — Frosh "eights" (KSU, NU); 1:40 p.m. — Open singles with Tad Thompson of KSU and Jim Glass, OSU coach, entered; 2 p.m. — Junior Varsity "eights" (KSU, two NU crews); 2:30 p.m. — Women Varsity "eights" (KSU, NU); 3 p.m. — Men's Varsity "eights" (KSU, NU, OSU).

Nebraskans Ink Husker Letters

Two of the state's top 155-pound high school wrestlers, Dan Kling from Gordon, and Dan Halstead from Millard have signed national letters of intent to attend Nebraska, Husker wrestling coach Orval Borgialli announced Thursday.

Kling is a two-time Class B champion and Halstead is a two-time Class A champ.

'Donnybrook' Hurdle Race On Tap?

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

The dictionary definition of donnybrook is "an annual Irish event known for its brawls."

Lincoln Southeast track coach Roy Churchill supplies a more contemporary definition — the expected heated hurdle battle between Southeast's Rich Brandfas and North Platte's Dave Weiss.

The two will compete Friday in the 11th annual Trans-Nebraska Conference track meet at East's Stuart Stadium. The meet will be run in conjunction with the first Eastern I-80 Conference girls championships.

"I expect the hurdles to be a real donnybrook," offers Southeast's Churchill. "They're really up for grabs. Whoever grabs with the greatest amount of authority and the greatest amount of desire will win."

Rich Brandfas
Southeast Standout

Weiss and Brandfas were record-setting Trans-Nebraska hurdlers last year as juniors. Weiss whisked the 180 lows in :20.0 while Brandfas tied the 120 highs mark of :14.5.

Each ranks among the state's best in both hurdle events this spring. Brandfas is tied for third with teammate Scott Tallman at :14.6 in the highs and Weiss is tied for fifth with three others at :14.7.

Weiss is the state leader in the lows with a season's best of :19.3. His brother, Dan, is second at :19.5. Brandfas is tied for fifth at :20.0.

Although the hurdle standouts could provide the best rivalry, Hastings' Doug Phelps should be the prime individual drawing card for Capital City track fans.

The twice state high jump champion and state record-holder had April jumps of 6-9, 6-8½, 6-8 and 6-8.

Competition Friday starts at noon with preliminaries scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. With the exception of a couple events, running finals in both the boys and girls meets start at 5 p.m.

Devaney: You Can't Regulate Finances At National Level

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska athletic director Bob Devaney thinks the NCAA should stay out of the area of financial problems among member schools.

"I don't believe you can regulate finances at the national level," he said in response to a question about recent proposals the NCAA plans to consider at a special convention in Chicago Aug. 14-15.

The NCAA Council will prepare a list of recommendations for money-saving in college athletics and present them to that convention for a vote of the 815-member institutions.

Among the proposals is that football grants in Division I (larger) schools be trimmed from 105 to 90, that basketball be limited to 16 scholarships and that there be only 80 scholarships for all sports other than football and basketball.

Other proposals call for trimming coaching staffs to eight in football and varsity basketball to two while also eliminating full-time recruiters.

THE LINCOLN STAR
Sports
Friday, May 2, 1975 21

"There are 136 members of Division I and that takes in an awful range," Devaney said. "It goes all the way from schools like Texas, Nebraska, Notre Dame and Alabama to schools with 10,000 to 15,000-seat stadiums."

The NU chief believes regulations should be left to the various conferences, whose members usually have the same basic problems, and that independents should make rules that fit their particular situation.

One thing Devaney fears most about the football tender cut is the possibility of a return to one-platoon football.

"They're going to drag college football down to one-platoon again and people will stay away in droves," he warned. "That's what drove them to pro football in the early 1960s."

He feels the minimum number of players needed for two platoons is a figure somewhere over 100. "We'd like to have 120, but there should be at least 100 or so," he said.

The NCAA's recent cut from 45 tenders a year, which the Big Eight had been giving, to 30 a year and a 105 overall limit might have saved some money on tuition, books, room and board, but it increased recruiting costs.

"We spent more recruiting to 30 than we did for 45," Devaney reported. "We had to be more selective and it almost amounted to putting a coach to a player in trying to be sure to get the good ones. So, cutting back was not really a saving."

The NCAA could be leaning toward elimination of spring football practice, which in Nebraska's case would deprive the Husker athletic department of some money.

The spring games here usually draw good crowds with tickets priced at $2 for adults and $1 for students. When over 21,000 people shell out that kind of money, loss of it certainly would add to the projected NU deficit.

One midwestern coach at a major institution has been against spring football all along, but not as a money saving device.

This coach, Lee Corso, who will bring his Indiana team to Lincoln to meet the Huskers next Sept. 20, has an ingenious idea that would, in effect, add a 12th game to the schedule.

His idea is to bring the squads back to campus a week earlier than at present in the fall. Then, two weeks before the scheduled opener play a "practice" game against a team close enough that there would be very little travel expense. This would give coaches insight on problem areas to work on in the final preparations for the opener.

In Nebraska, for example, the Huskers might "practice" against UN-Omaha in a game which would not be counted in either team's records.

Money Idea: Fall Baseball

Nebraska baseball coach Tony Sharpe has an idea he will discuss with his boss, athletic director Bob Devaney, to help the baseball program produce more revenue.

He would like to see the Big Eight Conference play its 21-game round-robin schedule in the fall while maintaining a program in the spring with a schedule that would limit travel.

"We should be able to really draw here in the fall on weekends when there are 76,000 football fans in Lincoln with nothing to do until 1:30 p.m. on Saturdays," Sharpe said.

The downtown area and the campus begins to fill with fans around 9 a.m. and if there were a baseball game, say at 10 or 10.30 a.m., they just might drop in for some of the action, Sharpe reasons.

Although there are some things that would have to be thought out as far as the Big Eight is concerned, Sharpe is certain of one thing: The conference teams wouldn't have to cope with the traditional poor spring weather.

One drawback might be the automatic qualification of the conference champion for the College World Series. That's why Tony proposes a mid or late-May league tournament for the purposes of qualifying a team for the Series, which is NCAA-sponsored

Sharpe and assistant Bob Gates recall that the Huskers worked out eight weeks in the fall and didn't miss a single practice. "Two years ago, there were only a few days when we couldn't workout," Gates said.

Spring games would be scheduled against nearby colleges and universities such as UN-Omaha, Creighton and perhaps even Kansas State. The spring trip, which is costly, would be eliminated.

There are a couple of disadvantages of a fall schedule. For one thing, it would take football players out of the baseball program because of the obvious conflict.

Another problem would be working freshmen into the lineup because they would lose the advantage they now have of the regular fall practice period.

On the other hand, most baseball players would report in tip-top shape after a summer of amateur competition in their hometowns.

Catching Up On Sports

Nebraska's baseball team is an erudite group. The top 28 players on the Huskers roster have a combined 3.13 grade-point average in the classroom

Speaking of grades, a survey among Pacific-8 Conference schools shows that Stanford graduated 86.3 per cent of athletes recruited in 1966 for the five major sports in four years. The average for non-athletes was 85 per cent. At Southern California, the figure is 85 per cent of all players recruited since John McKay arrived as head coach in 1960.

The NCAA has sanctioned 13 college football bowl games and no new ones gained approval. The dates of three of them fall in the time period when the proposed national championship playoff would be in progress.

Hank Aaron has replaced Babe Ruth in the record books once again.

Aaron, who broke Ruth's record for career home runs last season, surpassed the Babe's career mark of 2,209 runs batted in with a third-inning single Thursday, helping the Milwaukee Brewers to a 173 rout of the Detroit Tigers.

Aaron, the Brewers' 41-year-old designated hitter, rapped his historic single off Detroit starter Vern Ruhle, driving in Sixto Lezcano and giving the Brewers a 3-2 lead. Aaron then keyed a pair of five-run innings in the Milwaukee romp.

For the day, Aaron went 4for-4 and raised his batting average 60 points—to 218

The Brewers also got a three-run homer from 19-year-old shortstop Robin Yount and a two-run shot by Darrell Porter.

In other day games, Bernie Carbo's leadoff double triggered a three-run first inning and he added a two-run homer in the second to help the Boston Red Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 7-6. That snapped a fourgame Boston losing streak.

Red Sox starter Bill Lee was coasting with a 7-2 lead until John Ellis' three-run homer in the eighth and Rico Carty's pinch-hit RBI single in the ninth. Reliever Diego Segui came on to get the last out.

The Chicago Cubs posted their sixth victory in seven games by beating the New York Mets 5-2 as Rick Monday drove in two runs for the Cubs. Steve Stone, 4-0, got the victory.

Bob Watson and Doug Rader drove in two runs apiece to help the Houston Astros defeat the San Diego Padres 6-3.

The only National League night game on the schedule, St. Louis at Pittsburgh, was rained out.

Cookie Rojas slapped a two-out run-scoring double in the 13th inning to tie the score, then scored the winning run on Buck Martinez' single, lifting the Kansas City Royals to an 11-10 victory over the California Angels.

California starter Ed Figueroa, catcher Ellie Rodriquez and manager Dick Williams were ejected from the game after disputing a call at home plate when Hal McRae scored.

In other American League night games, the New York Yankees blanked Baltimore, 5-0 behind Catfish Hunter and Texas stopped Chicago 2-1.

Top Thinclad Inks Letter For Huskers

Richard Degnan, sprint standout from Holy Trinity High School in Long Island, N.Y., has signed a national letter of intent to attend the University of Nebraska, Husker track coach Frank Sevigne announced Thursday.

As a junior, Degnan was the New York City Catholic High School 880 champion with a time of 1:52.8. This winter, he ran the 600-yard run in 1:12.9, which is the third best 600 high school time in the nation.

Newspaper: Big 8 Using Polygraph

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Big Eight Conference is using polygraph tests in its investigations of recruiting infractions, The Daily Oklahoman said Thursday in a story for its Friday morning editions.

In a story by Walt Jayroe, The Oklahoman said at least one lie detector test was taken by a University of Oklahoma athlete during the conference's recent probe into the Oklahoma State athletic program. The investigation led to the Stillwater school being penalized last March 1.

Jay Pfau, a sophomore and heavyweight wrestler at Oklahoma from Sidney, Mont., said he took the polygraph examination in February in Oklahoma City.

The paper quoted sources as saying that Pfau voluntarily took the test under Big Eight supervision and made charges against Oklahoma State in connection with that school's recruiting of him

The charges were not substantiated by the Big Eight and did not appear as any part of the 11 official violations listed aginst the Cowboy football and wrestling teams.

Pfau was quoted as saying that Richard D. "Dick" Martin of the Big Eight office supervised the polygraph test which was conducted by a private investigative agency in Oklahoma City. Pfau also said the Big Eight paid his expenses from Norman.

Jayroe's story also disclosed that several Sooner athletes had been asked to take polygraph tests this winter, including freshmen football players Jeff Ward and Harvey Johnson.

Johnson, a 6-foot-5 lineman from Tulsa, said Big Eight Commissioner Chuck Neinas "came down here and talked to me about taking a lie detector test and I said I would."

Johnson said the situation arose "last semester, I think, sometime before going on Christmas vacation." However, he said he has not heard from the Big Eight since.

Ward, a 6-foot-5, 225-pound offensive tackle, said he presented some typewritten charges to a Big Eight official and that Sooner officials informed him he was to take a polygraph test in mid-February but the meeting was postponed.

The Oklahoman said that Ward's charges were against two Oklahoma State alums who tried to recruit him a year ago. The charges included alleged offers of a new car for only $600 and that his game tickets would be purchased for $600.

The charges apparently were not substantiated by the Big Eight because they were not listed among the violations in March.

Neinas would not confirm or deny Thursday that the polygraphs are used by the conference.

He said the conference "has no firm policy on the use of polygraph exams. We have had polygraph test available to us in investigations."

'Happy Mex' Ready

Two Share Houston Top

HOUSTON (UPI) — Texan Lee Trevino and Australian David Graham each ran in six birdie putts Thursday on a soggy Woodlands golf course which Trevino said would get tougher and both grabbed a share of the first round lead in the $150,000 Houston Open with six-under par 66s.

Lanky Dale Douglass one-putted the first five holes he played after blasting out of the sand on each to fire a 67 and join rookie 'Alan Tapie, consistent Jerry McGee and Eddie Pearce in second place.

Up to a third of the field had subpar scores in the first competitive round ever on the 6,929-yard course, with its narrow traplined fairways.

"The reasons the scores were so low," Trevino said, "is because of the rain they've had. You could stop the ball on the green when hitting out of the rough. It won't be that way if things dry up."

Arnold Palmer, 45, was the crowd favorite He said his two-over par 74 was not the result of the course

"Generally, my putting was gross," he said after three putting two greens.

Arizona Aide Joins K-State

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI) — Kansas State University Basketball Coach Jack Hartman Thursday appointed Jerry Holmes, an assistant at the University of Arizona to a similar position on his staff.

Apke Hails State Cage 'Sweep'

Omaha (UPI) — Creighton University announced the signing of a third Nebraska prep basketball standout in what was called an "unprecedented sweep" of the state high school basketball market.

Athletic director and basketball coach Tom Apke said he signed Dave Wesely, a 6-7 all-stater from Omaha Creighton Prep, Wednesday night at Wesely's home.

Earlier, Apke signed two other all-staters, 6-8 Bruce Kucera of North Platte and 6-3 John C. Johnson of Omaha Central.

Apke indicated recruiting efforts will now turn to various center prospects outside Nebraska.

Wesely was a three-year regular on the Creighton Prep squad where he led his team to a 21-1 record his junior year and a 23-3 record the past season. Wesely led Prep in scoring with a 14.1 average and a 10 rebound average per game.

In addition to his basketball talents, Wesely is one of the leading baseball pitchers in the metropolitan Omaha area.

In announcing Wesely's national letter of intent signing, Creighton said the move "completes an unprecented Creighton sweep of three Nebraska all-staters."

Apke added, "we are extremely happy because we have signed a young man who is so fundamentally sound in all facets of the game that he can help us immediately."

Two of the state's top 155-pound high school wrestlers, Dan Kling from Gordon, and Dan Halstead from Millard have signed national letters of intent to attend Nebraska, Husker wrestling coach Orval Borgialli announced Thursday.

Kling is a two-time Class B champion and Halstead is a two-time Class A champ.

'Donnybrook' Hurdle Race On Tap?

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

The dictionary definition of donnybrook is "an annual Irish event known for its brawls."

Lincoln Southeast track coach Roy Churchill supplies a more contemporary definition — the expected heated hurdle battle between Southeast's Rich Brandfas and North Platte's Dave Weiss.

The two will compete Friday in the 11th annual Trans-Nebraska Conference track meet at East's Stuart Stadium. The meet will be run in conjunction with the first Eastern I-80 Conference girls championships.

"I expect the hurdles to be a real donnybrook," offers Southeast's Churchill. "They're really up for grabs. Whoever grabs with the greatest amount of authority and the greatest amount of desire will win."

Rich Brandfas
Southeast Standout

Weiss and Brandfas were record-setting Trans-Nebraska hurdlers last year as juniors. Weiss whisked the 180 lows in :20.0 while Brandfas tied the 120 highs mark of :14.5.

Each ranks among the state's best in both hurdle events this spring. Brandfas is tied for third with teammate Scott Tallman at :14.6 in the highs and Weiss is tied for fifth with three others at :14.7.

Weiss is the state leader in the lows with a season's best of :19.3. His brother, Dan, is second at :19.5. Brandfas is tied for fifth at :20.0.

Although the hurdle standouts could provide the best rivalry, Hastings' Doug Phelps should be the prime individual drawing card for Capital City track fans.

The twice state high jump champion and state record-holder had April jumps of 6-9, 6-8½, 6-8 and 6-8.

Competition Friday starts at noon with preliminaries scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. With the exception of a couple events, running finals in both the boys and girls meets start at 5 p.m.

Morning Briefing

A Roundup of Sports News

FOOTBALL

Christain Adolf Jurgensen? Yep, that's right. Sonny Jurgensen, slightly cheerful and somewhat bitter, became a business executive after being forced into retirement against his will by Washington Redskin coach George Allen.

The 40-year-old quarterback who was tops as a passer among NFL active players declared at a press conference he thought he could still have played football and make a contribution, but pointed out that Allen said he wasn't wanted and was "a luxury they couldn't afford at his $120,000 a year salary." Said Jurgenson: "I would have liked to have made the decision myself to get out of the game."

Herman Arbuthnot, a 6-4, 333-pound guard from Missouri Valley, was among four free agents signed by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Green Bay Packer fourth round choice Steve Luke, a defensive back from Ohio State, signed his contract.

All it takes is money. That's what L.C. Greenwood said when questioned about his status with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"I want to stay in Pittsburgh if I get paid," Greenwood said. "I haven't made any money my first six years. I want to make some my last six. It bothers me to see a rookie making more than me."

Running backs Bill Brown, Oscar Reed and wide receiver John Gilliam and defensive tackle Gary Larsen are now free agents from the Minnesota Vikings.

Ron Wolf, director of player personnel for the Oakland Raiders for the past 12 years, was named vice president of operations of the new Tampa Bay Buccaneers football team.

BASKETBALL

The next ABA commissioner? Dave DeBusschere, general manager of the New York Nets, said he was opposed to taking that post.

Roy Danforth, who led Syracuse University to a fourth-place finish this year in the NCAA basketball tournament has signed a new three-year contract.

The Buffalo Braves sued former general manager Eddie Donovan for $500,000 and asked for a court order barring him from working for any other National Basketball Association team. Donovan resigned as Braves General Manager shortly before the NBA playoffs and was named general manager of the New York Knicks.

It's now official. After several stops and starts, Bob Bass agreed to terms with the San Antonio Spurs as coach. Last year, Bass led the Spurs to a record-setting 51-33 mark and into the ABA postseason playoffs.

TRACK AND FIELD

Dwight Stones the world record holder in the high jump, said he will ignore an Amateur Athletic Union edict and will compete in Sunday's Long Beach Invitational.

Stones is not a member of the AAU — a fact that brought about the AAU ruling which said the AAU would withdraw its officials from the meet if Stones competes.

Hammer throwing champion George Frenn, who was left off the U.S. track and field team the AAU selected for a trip to China, has taken the AAU to court in an attempt to be placed on the team.

Hayward Field, Oregon, has been chosen as the site of the men's trials for the 1975 Pan Am Games in Mexico City in October.

DERBY NOTES

Not everyone who places a winning bet on the Kentucky Derby cashes in his or her parimutuel ticket. No indeedy!

About $30,000 worth of win tickets on Cannonade in last year's 100th Derby remain uncashed and nearly $12,000 worth of win tickets on Secretariat in the 1973 Run for the Roses are still out.

What is going on? Well, the tickets could increase in value in years to come just as comic books have. Still, the breakdown from last year's Derby of 4,552 $2 tickets, 613 $5 tickets, 215 $10 tickets and one $50 ticket and 1,581 $2 tickets on Secretariat, 161 $5 tickets, 64 $10 tickets and five $50 tickets amount to a heck of a lot of keepsakes.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker was given a five-day suspension by Hollywood Park stewards for careless riding and interference while on Tavia Country in the sixth race Wednesday.

The suspension, announced Thursday, will run May 4 through May 9, allowing Shoemaker to ride Avatar in the Kentucky Derby.

OTHER SPORTS

It cost $5 more than last year, but that was no deterrent to a record 4,299 golfers who filed entries for the U.S. Open championship scheduled June 19-22 at Medinah, Ill. That's 20 more than the 1971 record for the championship at Merion, Pa.

Dave Hill, one of 29 golfers granted automatic qualification for the United States Open Tournament turned the bid down because: "It makes me too up tight."

State Charts Rewritten

Syracuse — Laurel Biffar of Blair and the Syracuse mile relay team rewrote the girls' state track times during the Twin Rivers Conference meet here Thursday night.

Biffar set the second fastest time recorded in the state by winning the 880 in record time of 2:27.7. She trails only Deb Arter of Norfolk by three-tenths of a second.

In addition, Biffar also tied the best Class B time of 1:02.6 held by Deb Hughes of Ainsworth in the 440. That also smashed a conference mark.

Ourada Breaks Kearney Mark

Kearney — Bill Ourada, Elm Creek's multi-sport standout, recorded the season's third best prep long jump here Thursday in the Kearney State Invitational Track Meet.

Ourada, a Sunday Journal and Star Class C all-state basketball selection, stretched 22-9 to break the meet record of 22-8 held for 39 years by Arapahoe's James Mather.

Only Norfolk's Jeff Burrus (23-6½) and Lincoln High's Gary Tarrence (22-11) have longer jumps than Ourada this spring.

Ourada, named the meet's outstanding athlete, won four events in Class C.

Dear Mrs. Boosalis:

One of your primary issues is that you will provide strong leadership. Nowhere in your campaign has your plan of leadership been spelled out... it continues to remain vague and indefinite. Is this an example of your version of strong leadership?

Morning Briefing

FOOTBALL

Christain Adolf Jurgensen? Yep, that's right. Sonny Jurgensen, slightly cheerful and somewhat bitter, became a business executive after being forced into retirement against his will by Washington Redskin coach George Allen.

The 40-year-old quarterback who was tops as a passer among NFL active players declared at a press conference he thought he could still have played football and make a contribution, but pointed out that Allen said he wasn't wanted and was "a luxury they couldn't afford at his $120,000 a year salary." Said Jurgenson: "I would have liked to have made the decision myself to get out of the game."

Herman Arbuthnot, a 6-4, 333-pound guard from Missouri Valley, was among four free agents signed by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Green Bay Packer fourth round choice Steve Luke, a defensive back from Ohio State, signed his contract.

All it takes is money. That's what L.C. Greenwood said when questioned about his status with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"I want to stay in Pittsburgh if I get paid," Greenwood said. "I haven't made any money my first six years. I want to make some my last six. It bothers me to see a rookie making more than me."

Running backs Bill Brown, Oscar Reed and wide receiver John Gilliam and defensive tackle Gary Larsen are now free agents from the Minnesota Vikings.

Ron Wolf, director of player personnel for the Oakland Raiders for the past 12 years, was named vice president of operations of the new Tampa Bay Buccaneers football team.

BASKETBALL

The next ABA commissioner? Dave DeBusschere, general manager of the New York Nets, said he was opposed to taking that post.

Roy Danforth, who led Syracuse University to a fourth-place finish this year in the NCAA basketball tournament has signed a new three-year contract.

The Buffalo Braves sued former general manager Eddie Donovan for $500,000 and asked for a court order barring him from working for any other National Basketball Association team. Donovan resigned as Braves General Manager shortly before the NBA playoffs and was named general manager of the New York Knicks.

It's now official. After several stops and starts, Bob Bass agreed to terms with the San Antonio Spurs as coach. Last year, Bass led the Spurs to a record-setting 51-33 mark and into the ABA postseason playoffs.

TRACK AND FIELD

Dwight Stones the world record holder in the high jump, said he will ignore an Amateur Athletic Union edict and will compete in Sunday's Long Beach Invitational.

Stones is not a member of the AAU — a fact that brought about the AAU ruling which said the AAU would withdraw its officials from the meet if Stones competes.

Hammer throwing champion George Frenn, who was left off the U.S. track and field team the AAU selected for a trip to China, has taken the AAU to court in an attempt to be placed on the team.

Hayward Field, Oregon, has been chosen as the site of the men's trials for the 1975 Pan Am Games in Mexico City in October.

DERBY NOTES

Not everyone who places a winning bet on the Kentucky Derby cashes in his or her parimutuel ticket. No indeedy!

About $30,000 worth of win tickets on Cannonade in last year's 100th Derby remain uncashed and nearly $12,000 worth of win tickets on Secretariat in the 1973 Run for the Roses are still out.

What is going on? Well, the tickets could increase in value in years to come just as comic books have. Still, the breakdown from last year's Derby of 4,552 $2 tickets, 613 $5 tickets, 215 $10 tickets and one $50 ticket and 1,581 $2 tickets on Secretariat, 161 $5 tickets, 64 $10 tickets and five $50 tickets amount to a heck of a lot of keepsakes.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker was given a five-day suspension by Hollywood Park stewards for careless riding and interference while on Tavia Country in the sixth race Wednesday.

The suspension, announced Thursday, will run May 4 through May 9, allowing Shoemaker to ride Avatar in the Kentucky Derby.

OTHER SPORTS

It cost $5 more than last year, but that was no deterrent to a record 4,299 golfers who filed entries for the U.S. Open championship scheduled June 19-22 at Medinah, Ill. That's 20 more than the 1971 record for the championship at Merion, Pa.

Dave Hill, one of 29 golfers granted automatic qualification for the United States Open Tournament turned the bid down because: "It makes me too up tight."

Ourada Breaks Kearney Mark

Kearney — Bill Ourada, Elm Creek's multi-sport standout, recorded the season's third best prep long jump here Thursday in the Kearney State Invitational Track Meet.

Ourada, a Sunday Journal and Star Class C all-state basketball selection, stretched 22-9 to break the meet record of 22-8 held for 39 years by Arapahoe's James Mather.

Only Norfolk's Jeff Burrus (23-6½) and Lincoln High's Gary Tarrence (22-11) have longer jumps than Ourada this spring.

Ourada, named the meet's outstanding athlete, won four events in Class C.

On Comprehensive Plan:

Voters To Decide City Amendment

Election Report

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln voters will have a chance Tuesday to make their city lawmakers responsible for adopting the Comprehensive Plan and all subsequent amendments to that plan.

A vote in favor of the only city charter amendment on the ballot would put city law into conformance with a recently enacted state law.

The Legislature's passage of LB111 directs the City Council and County Board to approve the Comprehensive Plan document, regarded as the blueprint for growth and land use development in the community.

The amendment deals only with the city, however, not the county.

Currently, the advisory City-County Planning Commission has been responsible for rewriting and adopting the plan.

Last fall when the commissioners began to update the plan, for the first time since 1959-60, Councilman Max Denney objected to the present practice. He argued that the council, not the commission, should have the final word. Eventually Denney's colleagues and the advisory Charter Revision Commission agreed that the question should be placed before the voters.

In the meantime, state senators got into the act, passed LB111 and said they believed the elected officials should oversee the Comprehensive Plan.

If the city amendment passes by a simple majority vote May 6, there would be no conflict between city and state laws and consequently, no legal problems.

If, however, voters defeat the amendment, a determination would have to be made whether the issue of the Comprehensive Plan's approval is a matter of statewide or local concern. Obviously, state senators felt they should be involved.

City Atty. Charles Humble said if the amendment is rejected, he would issue a legal opinion on which law would apply — the state's or the old City Charter provision. Regardless of which way he rules, Humble predicts the issue will end up in the courts.

If the courts rule the question is a matter of statewide concern, the new state law would apply making the council the adopting body. If the courts rule it is a matter of local concern, the charter would apply and the planning commission would retain the authority.

Obviously, a vote in favor of the amendment would result in a less complicated outcome by avoiding the legal hassles, Humble admitted. But if the "yes" vote prevails, voters would have side-stepped the underlying issue — is comprehensive planning the city's or the state's domain.

Denney, members of the Charter Revision Commission and the League of Women Voters have argued that the City Council should be held accountable for the plan. They claim elected officials are more responsive to the public than is an advisory body.

And, they argue, the council would be more likely to follow a plan they adopted than one they didn't adopt.

Others have argued, including several members of the planning commission, the commission should stay in charge of the comprehensive planning process. They say the council has the job of implementing the plan and can do so in its weekly decisions on zoning, land subdivisions, utility expansion and capital expenditures.

Opponents of the amendment argue that the council may be unwilling to take a stand on some controversial issue. Or, they say, the plan will be thrown into the political arena of council debate and as a result, the plan may be subject to numerous changes by the lawmakers.

They also say that unless council members spend the time commissioners do in rewriting the plan, the lawmakers may be more likely to amend the document after it's completion.

The planning commission has been meeting several days each month working on the new plan, which is expected to be finished by this November.

Poll: Ford's Standing Is Slightly Improved

By LOUIS HARRIS

President Ford's overall standing with Americans has improved slightly from his low rating a month ago; he rates a 57-40% negative on the "job he is doing," compared to the 60-37% negative a month ago.

This is Ford's best rating since he suffered a severe loss in public confidence last January.

Ironically, Ford has won public confidence at the time he has experienced numerous setbacks on the economy and foreign policy, ranging from the Middle East to Indochina.

Between April 16 and 18, the Harris Survey asked a cross section of 1,568 adults in 200 locations nationally:

"How would you rate the job President Ford is doing — excellent, pretty good, only fair or poor?"

For the first time in seven years, a President has received negative ratings on "working for peace in the world." Yet, on domestic issues, particularly those dealing with the economy, Ford shows some signs of gaining public confidence.

For City Council:

Close Race Seen For 2 Of 4 Seats

Election Report

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Two incumbent City Councilmen are considered to be shoe-ins in Tuesday's city election.

But, it looks like Lincolnites will be treated to a horse-race finish as six other hopefuls try to win the other two seats at stake this year.

Councilmen Steve Cook and Bob Sikyta seem certain to again win four-year terms in a race which has centered mainly on issues, with only sporadic mudslinging attacks aimed at several council candidates.

Cook, an architect, and Sikyta, owner of a heating and air conditioning firm, finished 1-2 in April's primary and have led several opinion surveys.

The third councilman seeking reelection, pharmacist Richard Baker, is considered vulnerable.

Two Strong

Two strong contenders are minister Robert Jeambey and health planner Steve Tiwald, a newcomer to the political scene.

Jeambey polled a strong third place in the primary, even though he did little active campaigning. Baker held on to the elusive fourth spot, while Tiwald came in fifth.

Political observers believe that three other council challengers will be eliminated in the race.

They are attorney Bill Thierstein, realtor Jim Carson and part-time pharmacist Mary Rogge.

Carson and Mrs. Rogge are political greenhorns, having never run for office before, but Thierstein almost won a seat on the council in 1973. He came in fourth when only three lawmakers were elected.

One New Face

There will be at least one new face on the council since Helen Boosalis is vacating her post in an attempt to win the mayor's job.

Of the five challengers, Jeambey is probably the best known in the community. A Presbyterian minister who was once a radio newsman in Lincoln, he chaired the Goals and Policies Committee and has been active in other civic affairs.

Thierstein also has been active in community organizations, but along with Jeambey, Carson and Mrs. Rogge, hasn't done any flamboyant media advertising.

Tiwald, with a grass roots organization behind him, has put on the most active campaign. He has outlined his views in a series of position papers covering a wide range of topics from the bus system to housing.

Name Problems

Tiwald, although known in campus circles because he served as student body president at the University of Nebraska, has been trying to overcome name recognition problems.

He's gotten some outside help from others, which he may not have wanted.

Several Chamber of Commerce directors labeled him "dangerous" during the primary, while Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's campaigners have apparently tried to tarnish Tiwald's image by implying he was a campus radical.

Yet, Tiwald worked to keep the campus quiet at a time when other universities were in disruption. Schwartzkopf even wrote Tiwald a thank you letter at that time.

Jeambey and Tiwald were attacked this week in advertising bought by the "Committee for Concerned Government" as activists and liberals. Except for that, the campaign has been filled with the usual slogans, rhetoric and speeches.

Incumbents Praise Records

Incumbents say they want to finish the work they've begun during the past four years. Although completion of the Comprehensive Plan, downtown development and neighborhood renovation projects have been supported by the entire council and city administration, the incumbents have tended to take personal credit.

Challengers generally have been saying that they'd be more responsive to peoples' wishes than the present lawmakers.

If any issue divides the candidates it is the issue of growth — where they want the city to develop in the next 25 years.

The three land use plans originally considered by the City-County Planning Commission, which is updating the Comprehensive Plan, called for growth to the north, south and west concentrically around the downtown core, full-scale eastern expansion into the Stevens Creek watershed, and a compact city growth pattern within present geographic limits and the building up of older neighborhoods.

Four Types Of Views

Council candidates' views fall into four categories:

—Jeambey alone wants to stick to the "pure" concentric growth plan, since that most closely follows the wishes outlined in the Goals and Policies report.

—Cook, Mrs. Rogge and Tiwald favor the concentric growth pattern with a bit of the third thrown in which calls for higher densities in the central area of the city, redevelopment of older areas and more mass transit.

—Sikyta, Baker and Thierstein want a smattering of all three plans, the "sort of like we're growing now" theory. They also want a mini-plan drawn up for the Stevens Creek area whose development they say is inevitable.

—Carson thinks the city should let people live where they want, which he says, happens to be to the east and southeast.

Division Over Helper

Candidates also have divided over whether the council should hire a helper, a proposal considered several times by the lawmakers during the year and finally dropped.

Carson, Sikyta, Tiwald would hire an assistant. Jeambey, Mrs. Rogge, Cook and Thierstein would not. Baker's vote would depend on what job the person would be hired to do.

Council hopefuls also agree that merger of city and county government is desirable, as is the creation of a department of corrections to oversee the city-council jail.

One thing all eight of them want is for voters to turn out in greater numbers Tuesday than in the April primary election when only a third of those registered bothered to show up at the polls.

For as Carson said, city government affects everyone at some time.

"Government is people," he said. "It's business, it's education, it's cultural enhancement. It's life."

Wall Urges Evaluation Of Teaching Of 'Basics'

Lincoln School Board candidate Milan Wall said Thursday the public schools should conduct a major evaluation of academic offerings to determine whether "basic" skills have been given too little attention in recent years.

Wall said while he is aware that a nationwide cry for a return to basics has led other candidates to assume Lincoln schools have not paid close attention to basic skills, he wants to see the results of good evaluation to enable him to make informed judgments.

"My conversations with school personnel have indicated that in one area — language skills — Lincoln students have scored below our community's expectations. This must be corrected, and I'm pleased that the schools are paying special attention to this area," Wall said.

"If we find that there are problems in other areas, then we should also correct them," he said. "But we should not assume that simply because there are concerns in other parts of the country, those problems are evident in Lincoln.

"The job of the school board is to make informed judgments, not to rush into decisions based on what is happening to the east or west coasts." Wall added.

Wall, of 1260 So. 22nd, is a former newspaper education reporter who now is information director of an adult education program.

Groups Forced To Pull Cutback

New York (UPI) — Current economic conditions have forced many youth-related groups and public school systems across the country to curtail or eliminate activities in athletics, science and recreation.

According to information for business of New York City, the recession has affected the Girl Scouts of America, Camp Fire Girls, Science Clubs of America and public school athletic programs in New York City, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Kansas City, Mo., Cincinnati and Savannah.

Head Start Will Celebrate 9th Birthday On May 14

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

At this special birthday party, the presents will be people and what they've done for 1,440 children since 1966.

The City of Lincoln is invited to share in the Head Start birthday celebration May 14. At age 9, it's only a year younger than Head Start nationally.

"We've been around so long, we tend to get forgotten," said Shirlie Hutcherson, director of the Lincoln Public Schools and Malone Head Start-Day Care program, designed to provide comprehensive developmental services to low-income preschool children.

Honor Program

If the federal program based at Elliott School gets forgotten, the staff remembers those who worked for its success and will honor them in a half-hour program beginning at 10 a.m., Mrs. Hutcherson said.

Head Start classrooms at Elliott, 225 S. 25th, will be open from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., with children demonstrating what they've learned in the program. Head Start graduates will be ushers and serve refreshments, with help from their parents.

Federal guidelines for Head Start require a parent "policy committee." Mrs. Hutcherson said the 25 members have "been extremely active this year," especially in suggesting learning experiences "important for their children."

As it goes on 10 years old, Lincoln Head Start is seeking $173,347 from the U.S. Office of Child Development for its 1975-76 budget. The aim is to expand the education program, medical, dental, nutrition, psychological and social services and enhance parent involvement.

Operating out of Elliott, Clinton and Park Schools, Head Start also has a "home start" program, offering home learning for 40 to 50 three-year-olds. That number would be doubled under next year's budget.

"We do think we have a (national) model for home-based service" to preschool-age children in Lincoln, Mrs. Hutcherson said. Teachers make home visits once a week and plan with parents for the child's needs — from academic to health. "We have had good parent acceptance" and self-referrals are increasing, she said.

"Throughout the nation, gains for children" in home learning programs "are as great as in a center-based program" and cost less, Mrs. Hutcherson said. Teachers assess the gains of the children, the parents and their interaction.

Instead of burning down, the candles on the Head Start birthday cake are flickering brighter. The federal programs staff has proposed to the public schools superintendent's cabinet an extension of the combined home-based/center concept on a school district-wide basis.

That means offering the same services to specified families who do not meet current federal guidelines.

The 1975-76 formal Head Start program will serve 120 students in two three-hour sessions daily, with teachers and aides working with families in their homes on days the center is not operating. The center will be either at Elliott, Clinton or Park, instead of all three as during this school year.

Transportation will be provided to Head Start programs.

Zorinsky: Omaha Broke Law On Liquor Licenses

Omaha (AP) — Mayor Edward Zorinsky has admitted that city government has violated the law on liquor licenses, but said the vice squad would begin enforcing the law more closely.

Zorinsky noted Wednesday that LB528 had been signed by the governor, allowing one-day liquor licenses for the first time.

Religious and fraternal nonprofit corporations are eligible to purchase the licenses for $20. An organization may have a liquor license three times a year.

Application is made to the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission.

"There have been many violations in the past in our own community where free liquor or champagne is given at grand openings," he said.

The law says liquor, including beer, can't be given away or sold without a liquor license.

Zorinsky said he objects, too, that no city council hearings have been held on requests for the one-day licenses.

NU Faculty To Hear Leave Program Plans

A proposed "Faculty Development Leave Program" will come before the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Faculty Senate during its regular meeting at 4 p.m. Tuesday, in the Sheldon Art Gallery auditorium.

Senate action will be requested on the sabbatical leaves ad hoc committee recommendation to establish the program starting in the 1975-76 school year. Authority for periodical leaves with pay for professional growth and improved competence of the academic staff is provided in NU Regents bylaws.

"As student enrollment stabilizes and changes occur in demand for university programs, the development and retraining of present faculty becomes more significant as a mechanism for building excellence in classroom teaching, research, extension work and public service," says the proposal by the committee, chaired by Prof. Everett E. Peterson, ag engineering.

Full-time academic and administrative staff members would be eligible for faculty development leave, provided they have completed six full appointment periods without such a leave, are at least assistant professors or the equivalent in administrative positions, and have not passed their 59th birthday.

Peers would judge the merit of a leave proposal, subject to approval through channels to the regents. The number of leaves granted in any one year would be determined by the availability of funds, and would not be restricted to faculty from departments able to absorb a budget overload.

The committee proposal assumes that one-seventh of the eligible faculty members would be on leave at any given time. The current eligible pool is 649. If one-seventh, or 46 faculty members were granted leaves on half pay, the fund required including fringe benefits would be $298,080, the report says.

Some regents, notably James H. Moylan of Omaha, have spoken critically of paid faculty development leaves, on the basis they necessitate double funding to hire temporary replacements.

The Faculty Senate liaison committee, chaired by Associate Prof. Jerry L. Petr, economics, will present two resolutions for approval.

One urges that campus autonomy in planning and administering academic programs be given high priority, and that (NU) system office administration of local campus activities be minimized."

The second senate resolution recommends that any money appropriated to deliver multimedia or TV courses produced by the State University of Nebraska or its regional outgrowth, the University of Mid-America, should be part of the UNL budget.

The resolution further recommends that such appropriations should be allowed only if the total cost of delivering the courses to Nebraskans appears to be competitive with the cost of current course delivery systems.

Other Faculty Senate business includes reports by the research council, human rights committee, honors convocation committee and scholastic appeals committee.

Bellevue Businessmen Oppose State Road Plan

Bellevue (AP) — A state design for improving the approach to the Bellevue business district drew plenty of opposition from persons attending a public hearing on the issue Wednesday night.

The plan would widen Neb. 370 from Betz Road to Galvin Road and Galvin Road south to the Wherry Gate of Offutt Air Force Base.

Basically, the roads would be increased in width from 45 feet to 75 feet, with left and right turns. Two automotive businesses, a laundromat and two exits away from a car lot would be eliminated.

Objectors also learned there would be a 16-foot median on both streets. Businesses complained that this would seriously curtail operations. There also were protests to plans to produce a six-lane street funneling into two lanes at Offutt AFB.

Objectors were told by State Roads Dept. officials that the median was needed to qualify for federal aid. The two projects would cost $2.6 million with 70% coming from federal aid.

Head Start Will Celebrate 9th Birthday On May 14

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

At this special birthday party, the presents will be people and what they've done for 1,440 children since 1966.

The City of Lincoln is invited to share in the Head Start birthday celebration May 14. At age 9, it's only a year younger than Head Start nationally.

"We've been around so long, we tend to get forgotten," said Shirlie Hutcherson, director of the Lincoln Public Schools and Malone Head Start-Day Care program, designed to provide comprehensive developmental services to low-income preschool children.

Honor Program

If the federal program based at Elliott School gets forgotten, the staff remembers those who worked for its success and will honor them in a half-hour program beginning at 10 a.m., Mrs. Hutcherson said.

Head Start classrooms at Elliott, 225 S. 25th, will be open from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., with children demonstrating what they've learned in the program. Head Start graduates will be ushers and serve refreshments, with help from their parents.

Federal guidelines for Head Start require a parent "policy committee." Mrs. Hutcherson said the 25 members have "been extremely active this year," especially in suggesting learning experiences "important for their children."

As it goes on 10 years old, Lincoln Head Start is seeking $173,347 from the U.S. Office of Child Development for its 1975-76 budget. The aim is to expand the education program, medical, dental, nutrition, psychological and social services and enhance parent involvement.

Operating out of Elliott, Clinton and Park Schools, Head Start also has a "home start" program, offering home learning for 40 to 50 three-year-olds. That number would be doubled under next year's budget.

"We do think we have a (national) model for home-based service" to preschool-age children in Lincoln, Mrs. Hutcherson said. Teachers make home visits once a week and plan with parents for the child's needs — from academic to health. "We have had good parent acceptance" and self-referrals are increasing, she said.

"Throughout the nation, gains for children" in home learning programs "are as great as in a center-based program" and cost less, Mrs. Hutcherson said. Teachers assess the gains of the children, the parents and their interaction.

Instead of burning down, the candles on the Head Start birthday cake are flickering brighter. The federal programs staff has proposed to the public schools superintendent's cabinet an extension of the combined home-based/center concept on a school district-wide basis.

That means offering the same services to specified families who do not meet current federal guidelines.

The 1975-76 formal Head Start program will serve 120 students in two three-hour sessions daily, with teachers and aides working with families in their homes on days the center is not operating. The center will be either at Elliott, Clinton or Park, instead of all three as during this school year.

Transportation will be provided to Head Start programs.

Lincoln Authorized To Seek New Rent Subsidy

The Lincoln Housing Authority has been authorized to apply for a 100 new units to put into the city's rent subsidy program.

Don Darling, an economist in the Omaha area office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), said Thursday that the Lincoln Housing Authority has been invited to participate in both existing and new construction programs authorized by the 1974 federal housing act.

Under the existing program, lower income families may qualify for rent assistance in privately owned dwellings where they live.

HUD also approved programs for Omaha, Hastings and Kearney.

About 2,300 units of new, existing and rehabilitated assisted housing should be available in the state under the 1974 law, Darling said.

Cyclone Victim A Bit Surprised

Darwin, Australia (AP) — Mrs. Merle Gill, one of the Darwin cyclone victims, was not prepared for royal visitors Thursday.

Dressed in bright green shorts and top and sandals, Mrs. Gill was a bit surprised when Britain's Princess Anne and Capt. Mark Phillips dropped in to look over her battered home.

ATTENTION LINCOLN VOTERS

Is This the Kind of City-County Government You Want?

Take a close look at the people who could be making your decisions and spending your tax dollars. We need a balanced group to represent everyone... but we are dangerously close to the exact opposite.

Is this the majority you want to govern Lincoln and Lancaster County?

- Three wives of University professors
  (candidate Boosalis, councilwoman Bailey, commissioner Gauger)
- Two activist lawyers aligned with liberal causes
  (councilman Robinson, commissioner Hamilton...these men are law partners)
- An activist minister
  (candidate Jeambey)
- A former campus activist
  (candidate Tiwald)

Control of both city and county government could be handed over to these seven liberally-oriented people. And with it could go your chance for local government that is responsible to all the people. Election of these seven could result in a power bloc that could sidetrack Lincoln's growth plans, undermine the effectiveness of our police force and turn an acknowledged good city administration into a giveaway government.

Lincoln doesn't need this kind of "progress". Nor does our good city need to be made "better" by coming under the control of people who for the most part are already being supported by our tax dollars.

These Tax-Supported Salaries Won't Guarantee You a Voice in Local Government.

"mayor" Boosalis	$28,000.00
(husband) U. of N. Professor Michael Boosalis	$27,830.00
Councilwoman Sue Bailey	$ 4,000.00
(husband) U. of N. Professor Dudley Bailey	$28,018.00
Commissioner Jan Gauger	$10,500.00
(husband) U. of N. Professor Wendell Gauger	$22,500.00
"councilman" Steve Tiwald	$ 4,000.00
(salary as a State health planner)	$ 9,528.00
Commissioner Hamilton	$10,500.00

Your vote on May 6 could be the most important you've ever cast. Vote to keep Lincoln under the guidance and leadership of responsible moderate citizens who have helped our city earn national acclaim as a good place to live.

BE SURE YOU VOTE!

Lincoln Authorized To Seek New Rent Subsidy

The Lincoln Housing Authority has been authorized to apply for a 100 new units to put into the city's rent subsidy program.

Don Darling, an economist in the Omaha area office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), said Thursday that the Lincoln Housing Authority has been invited to participate in both existing and new construction programs authorized by the 1974 federal housing act.

Under the existing program, lower income families may qualify for rent assistance in privately owned dwellings where they live.

HUD also approved programs for Omaha, Hastings and Kearney.

About 2,300 units of new, existing and rehabilitated assisted housing should be available in the state under the 1974 law, Darling said.

Cyclone Victim A Bit Surprised

Darwin, Australia (AP) — Mrs. Merle Gill, one of the Darwin cyclone victims, was not prepared for royal visitors Thursday.

Dressed in bright green shorts and top and sandals, Mrs. Gill was a bit surprised when Britain's Princess Anne and Capt. Mark Phillips dropped in to look over her battered home.

Petroleum Price Rollbacks Told

Kansas City (AP) — Fifteen petroleum distribution firms in Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas have agreed to roll back prices to make up for overcharges totaling nearly $50,000, the Federal Energy Administration said Thursday.

The biggest refunds will be made by two firms in rural areas of Missouri and Kansas, the FEA said.

Nebraska firms agreeing to the refunds, the FEA said, were: Farmers Coop. Association, Pilger, $3,353, propane; Platte Valley Propane, Wood River, $4,406.76, propane; Zentner Oil Co., Falls City, $1,091.16, propane; Farmer's Cooperative Co., Beaver Crossing, $2,494.78, propane, and Freeman Oil Co., Herman, $1,684, propane.

Ex-Prosecutor More Confident Since Watergate

LONDON (AP) — Archibald Cox, former special Watergate prosecutor, said that "Watergate proved the conscience of the American system."

"The evidence of Watergate seems to me to give more reason for confidence in our system than despair," Cox told a U.S. Chamber of Commerce luncheon here.

Cox, a visiting professor of American history at Cambridge University, said: "Except for the pardoning of former President Nixon, the country learned that public figures were not above the law."

Nixon had Cox removed as special prosecutor.

Morton House Tells Temporary Production Halt

Nebraska City (AP) — Employes at the Morton House Kitchens, Inc. plant here have been told the plant will temporarily halt production at the end of the work shift Friday.

Plant Manager Ray Ott said workers were notified of the three-week shutdown Wednesday afternoon. About 40 workers are affected by the shutdown.

A notice posted on the plant bulletin board indicated that the shutdown was because of unfavorable economic conditions and high inventory levels.

Ott said maintenance, shipping and office personnel would continue to work during the production halt.

He said production will resume during the last week in May.

The shutdown is the second of the year for Morton House. The first occurred in March and was also for three weeks.

Prostitutes Are Forming Unions, Giving Trading Stamps

(EDITOR'S NOTE: There may not be anything new under the sun, but there's always a fresh wrinkle. Ana Honig reports for McGraw-Hill World News on a development among members of the world's oldest profession that could produce some startling changes.)

By ANA HONIG

New York, N.Y. — A couple of years ago, a German brothel tycoon came to Wall Street to offer a piece of his lucrative business to investors.

He had a string of sex hotels in Europe, rented out at fancy prices to ladies of joy. His prospectus promised a nine per cent return on investment in what he pointed out was a recession-proof industry. He got several million dollars to expand his empire. And among those who inquired about investing, he said, were universities, banks and stock brokers.

Obviously, the world's oldest profession had moved into the world of big business. After centuries of very private enterprise, it had gone public.

So what's new now in the prostitute business?

Unions, that's what. And a public relations effort to change the image of the hooker. Even trading stamps to encourage repeat business.

The union was formed in California about a year ago by 35-year-old Marg St. James.

It already has a national membership of eight to nine thousand, and two associate chapters — the Prostitutes Organization of New York, known as PONY; and the Association of Seattle Prostitutes, known as ASP.

The parent organization is called Coyote (because the American Indians considered the coyote tricky, daring and clever) and what it wants most is removal of criminal penalties for prostitution. Whores, it maintains, are professionals rendering a wanted service.

With help from the American Civil Liberties Union, Coyote is challenging the constitutionality of a California law against soliciting and-or prostitution. Coyote charges the law is an invasion of privacy and restricts freedom of expression.

Curiously, both the California State Bar Association and the National Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals also want such laws repealed — but for a different reason.

They want police to concentrate on the alarming rise in violent crimes such as robbery and rape instead of hustling after hustlers, something that now takes up a lot of police time.

St. James is a very publicity-minded union leader, too. To enhance the image of the whore, she appears often on radio and TV talk shows and lectures to college and community groups.

And, just like any other union, Coyote had its convention — the First National Hookers Convention, held in a San Francisco church, featuring song and dance and a panel discussion on decriminalization.

But, writer Maurica Anderson reported in HUMAN BEHAVIOR, some of the 500 women who showed up at the convention were shy — they "wore balck long-ranger-type masks that were offered at the door to hide their identities.

"For the same reason, union members do not use their own names when they join Coyote, but are asked to choose an animal name instead," she noted. "The membership roster includes Tiger Baby, Great Horned Owl and Roaring Lioness. Marge St. James' animal name is, of course, Coyote Trickster.

As for the trading stamp incentive, the idea comes from a madam who has her house and home in New York City.

In this promotion, a customer gets one trading stamp per visit to her establishment. For five stamps, he gets a pornographic picture. For 10 stamps, a magazine. For 15 stamps, a free visit with one of her hookers.

"Now instead of going to another madam," she explained. "He'll" see me because he's getting a little something extra. Same as any other business"

Prostitutes Are Forming Unions, Giving Trading Stamps

(EDITOR'S NOTE: There may not be anything new under the sun, but there's always a fresh wrinkle. Ana Honig reports for McGraw-Hill World News on a development among members of the world's oldest profession that could produce some startling changes.)

By ANA HONIG

New York, N.Y. — A couple of years ago, a German brothel tycoon came to Wall Street to offer a piece of his lucrative business to investors.

He had a string of sex hotels in Europe, rented out at fancy prices to ladies of joy. His prospectus promised a nine per cent return on investment in what he pointed out was a recession-proof industry. He got several million dollars to expand his empire. And among those who inquired about investing, he said, were universities, banks and stock brokers.

Obviously, the world's oldest profession had moved into the world of big business. After centuries of very private enterprise, it had gone public.

So what's new now in the prostitute business?

Unions, that's what. And a public relations effort to change the image of the hooker. Even trading stamps to encourage repeat business.

The union was formed in California about a year ago by 35-year-old Marg St. James.

It already has a national membership of eight to nine thousand, and two associate chapters — the Prostitutes Organization of New York, known as PONY; and the Association of Seattle Prostitutes, known as ASP.

The parent organization is called Coyote (because the American Indians considered the coyote tricky, daring and clever) and what it wants most is removal of criminal penalties for prostitution. Whores, it maintains, are professionals rendering a wanted service.

With help from the American Civil Liberties Union, Coyote is challenging the constitutionality of a California law against soliciting and-or prostitution. Coyote charges the law is an invasion of privacy and restricts freedom of expression.

Curiously, both the California State Bar Association and the National Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals also want such laws repealed — but for a different reason.

They want police to concentrate on the alarming rise in violent crimes such as robbery and rape instead of hustling after hustlers, something that now takes up a lot of police time.

St. James is a very publicity-minded union leader, too. To enhance the image of the whore, she appears often on radio and TV talk shows and lectures to college and community groups.

And, just like any other union, Coyote had its convention — the First National Hookers Convention, held in a San Francisco church, featuring song and dance and a panel discussion on decriminalization.

But, writer Maurica Anderson reported in HUMAN BEHAVIOR, some of the 500 women who showed up at the convention were shy — they "wore balck long-ranger-type masks that were offered at the door to hide their identities.

"For the same reason, union members do not use their own names when they join Coyote, but are asked to choose an animal name instead," she noted. "The membership roster includes Tiger Baby, Great Horned Owl and Roaring Lioness. Marge St. James' animal name is, of course, Coyote Trickster.

As for the trading stamp incentive, the idea comes from a madam who has her house and home in New York City.

In this promotion, a customer gets one trading stamp per visit to her establishment. For five stamps, he gets a pornographic picture. For 10 stamps, a magazine. For 15 stamps, a free visit with one of her hookers.

"Now instead of going to another madam," she explained. "He'll" see me because he's getting a little something extra. Same as any other business"

Variable Mortgage Rates Could Hike House Costs

By JANE BRYANT QUINN

New York — A variable rate mortgage is something only a banker could love. It hitches the interest rate you pay on your mortgage to the general level of interest rates. When they rise, your monthly payments go up. When they fall, payments fall. That sounds fair, except that when you consider the trend in interest rates in recent years, you'll see that the bias is upward. With a variable rate mortgage you could end up paying more for your house than you would have otherwise.

Jane Bryant Quinn

Most business loans are made today at variable rates, and bankers have long wanted to extend the concept to home mortgages. Although some state-chartered institutions have adopted VRMs (as they're called in the trade), vigorous consumer and congressional objection has held back the tide at the national level. Until now, that is.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board announced recently that it would permit federally chartered S&Ls to offer VRMs, unless Congress rises up in wrath. And if the S&Ls get them, the banks won't be far behind.

Stormed Capitol Hill

Consumer groups stormed Capitol Hill recently to get a little wrath stirred up. And they may have succeeded. At hearings held by the Senate and then the House, they complained bitterly that VRMs will worsen the homeowner's inflation burden.

A variable rate mortgage looks interesting now, because rates are falling and consumers might believe they're building lower house payments into their budgets. That is probably the reason the big state-chartered California S&Ls chose this time to announce their switch to VRMs. Also, an institution might sweeten its VRM contract by pricing the original cost of a mortgage below that of a fixed rate mortgage, or offering you extra borrowing rights on the side.

But what will you do when rates rise again? Under those economic conditions, you'll be suffering from renewed inflation on other fronts, and perhaps joblessness as well. Your mortgage payments will be going up at the very moment you can least afford the increase.

The present mortgage contract already favors borrowers on the downside of the interest-rate cycle. Assuming you don't have a stiff restriction on pre-payment, you can refinance your mortgage at lower rates when they're available. But you're protected against increases on the upside — a protection that will vanish if VRMs become generally accepted.

Lenders argue that the fixed-rate mortgage helps one group of consumers at the expense of others. It's because the thrift institutions have so many low-interest loans on the books that they have to charge new homebuyers such high rates. Furthermore, if they earned more money from mortgages, they could pay higher rates to savers — which would theoretically assure a steady flow of funds into S&Ls and out again to the homebuilding industry, even in tight-money times.

One person who raises an eyebrow over this argument is Henry Schechter, Director of the Urban Affairs Department of the AFL-CIO. He points out that even the VRM leaves a lid on mortgage rates, in hopes of making it more palatable to consumers.

According to the proposal, your mortgage rate couldn't rise more than 2½% above the original rate, nor move any faster than ½% every six months.

Because this limits the income S&Ls could get from their VRMs, they still could not afford to raise savings rates rapidly enough to compete with other investment vehicles, such as Treasury bills. Result: Consumers would pay more, and mortgage money would still dry up.

Schecter also says that the housing industry doesn't live by mortgage availability alone. In 1974, the government set up some mortgage assistance programs to help families buy homes at one or two points below prevailing, high market rates. Because of inflated house prices, low job confidence, and the perception that even the subsidized rate was pretty high, there was no stampede to take advantage of the deal.

Markets...Business

Dow Ind.: +9.62

Sharp Gain Is Posted By Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, seemingly unruffled by the transition to full price competition on Wall Street, made another sharp advance Thursday in fairly active trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials posted a 9.62 gain to 830.96 to go with its 18.30 jump Wednesday. It was the highest close for the Dow since it finished at 833.23 on June 17 of last year.

In the space of less than five months—since Dec. 6—the average now has risen 253 points.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up .80 at 88.10, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index added .40 to 46.59.

For the second day in a row, however, the over-all NYSE tally was less impressive than the Dow, with gainers outnumbering losers 880 to 502 among the 1,791 issues traded.

It was, as expected, a busy day at trading desks in the financial community while brokers and investing institutions jockeyed for position in the new setting of competitive commission rates.

But stock prices and the flow of market activity showed few visible disruptive effects from the changeover.

Big Board volume reached its highest total in more than a week at 20.66 million shares, compared with 18.06 million on Wednesday.

Some analysts, in fact, said they believed prices were benefitting from hopes that the new competitive environment would turn out to be a stimulus to investment in stocks.

There was also talk on Wall Street that the Treasury would keep its long term borrowing limited in order to avoid putting renewed pressure on the bond market as it continued its financing of the federal budget.

Halliburton, which reported sharply higher first quarter earnings, rose 4¼ to 164½ to lead a general advance in oil drilling and service issues.

Oils were mixed with Getty dropping 2 to 168½ on the company's statement that its second quarter and full-year profits would fall short of last year's comparable figures.

Schering-Plough, the volume leader on the Big Board, slipped ¼ to 57¾ in trading that included a 221,200-share block at 58.

Southern Pacific fell 2½ to 27¼. The railroad reported a $21.1 million first quarter loss.

Pittston gained 2⅛ to 64½ in active trading, touching a record high of 65½ along the way. The issue has been strong lately since the company's issuance of a strong first quarter report and a bright earnings forecast for the rest of the year on Tuesday.

The American Stock Exchange's market value index failed to share in the general uptrend, slipping .08 to 84.16.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market rose .73 to 79.27.

After the close the Treasury said $750 million in 30-year bonds would be included in $5 billion worth of debt securities it will sell next week. Analysts said the $750 million figure was within the range of Wall Street's expectations.

Corn And Oats Futures Decline

Chicago (AP) — Corn and oats futures declined the allowable limits on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday and strongly influenced lower prices for other farm commodity futures on the exchange.

The loss amounted to 10 cents a bushel in the corn pit and 6 cents in oats.

After the limits had been touched in corn and oats a vigorous selling move got under way in wheat and soybeans and both commodities fell around 18 cents a bushel. Soybeans recovered about halfway at the close as shorts took profits but wheat was down 18 cents a bushel.

Hog Prices Turn Higher

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Hogs turned sharply higher on the Omaha livestock market Thursday as demand outstripped the small supply.

Cattle also turned a bit higher, but there were not enough sales to afford good market test, and top-graded better-feds were absent.

In both instances, the dressed trade also dealt an upward pressure on the market.

The hog run totaled just 4,000 head, with barrows and gilts seeing active trade. The butcher trend was 75-cents to as much as $1.25 higher, with topgraded handyweights earning from $44.00-$44.50.

Sows turned 50-cents to 1.00 higher on sales generally from $38.50-$39.50.

There were only 500 head on the cattle line, and the scattered steer and heifer sales were called 50-cents higher, instances $1.00 on the upside.

Cows traded on a firm note.

Sheep receipts totaled 100 head. The limited supply of slaughter ewes was about steady, and slaughter lambs were scarce. Cull to good ewes brought $7.00-$9.00.

Variable Mortgage Rates Could Hike House Costs

By JANE BRYANT QUINN

Jane Bryant Quinn

New York — A variable rate mortgage is something only a banker could love. It hitches the interest rate you pay on your mortgage to the general level of interest rates. When they rise, your monthly payments go up. When they fall, payments fall. That sounds fair, except that when you consider the trend in interest rates in recent years, you'll see that the bias is upward. With a variable rate mortgage you could end up paying more for your house than you would have otherwise

Most business loans are made today at variable rates, and bankers have long wanted to extend the concept to home mortgages Although some state-chartered institutions have adopted VRMs (as they're called in the trade), vigorous consumer and congressional objection has held back the tide at the national level. Until now, that is.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board announced recently that it would permit federally chartered S&Ls to offer VRMs, unless Congress rises up in wrath And if the S&Ls get them, the banks won't be far behind.

Stormed Capitol Hill

Consumer groups stormed Capitol Hill recently to get a little wrath stirred up And they may have succeeded. At hearings held by the Senate and then the House, they complained bitterly that VRMs will worsen the homeowner's inflation burden

A variable rate mortgage looks interesting now, because rates are falling and consumers might believe they're building lower house payments into their budgets. That is probably the reason the big state-chartered California S&Ls chose this time to announce their switch to VRMs. Also, an institution might sweeten its VRM contract by pricing the original cost of a mortgage below that of a fixed rate mortgage, or offering you extra borrowing rights on the side

But what will you do when rates rise again? Under those economic conditions, you'll be suffering from renewed inflation on other fronts, and perhaps joblessness as well. Your mortgage payments will be going up at the very moment you can least afford the increase

The present mortgage contract already favors borrowers on the downside of the interest-rate cycle Assuming you don't have a stiff restriction on pre-payment, you can refinance your mortgage at lower rates when they're available But you're protected against increases on the upside —a protection that will vanish if VRMs become generally accepted

Lenders argue that the fixed-rate mortgage helps one group of consumers at the expense of others It's because the thrift institutions have so many low-interest loans on the books that they have to charge new homebuyers such high rates Furthermore, if they earned more money from mortgages, they could pay higher rates to savers — which would theoretically assure a steady flow of funds into S&Ls and out again to the homebuilding industry, even in tight-money times.

One person who raises an eyebrow over this argument is Henry Schechter, Director of the Urban Affairs Department of the AFL-CIO. He points out that even the VRM leaves a lid on mortgage rates, in hopes of making it more palatable to consumers.

According to the proposal, your mortgage rate couldn't rise more than 2½% above the original rate, nor move any faster than ½% every six months

Because this limits the income S&Ls could get from their VRMs, they still could not afford to raise savings rates rapidly enough to compete with other investment vehicles, such as Treasury bills. Result: Consumers would pay more, and mortgage money would still dry up

Schecter also says that the housing industry doesn't live by mortgage availability alone In 1974, the government set up some mortgage assistance programs to help families buy homes at one or two points below prevailing, high market rates. Because of inflated house prices, low job confidence, and the perception that even the subsidized rate was pretty high, there was no stampede to take advantage of the deal.

Sharp Gain Is Posted By Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, seemingly unruffled by the transition to full price competition on Wall Street, made another sharp advance Thursday in fairly active trading

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials posted a 9.62 gain to 830.96 to go with its 18.30 jump Wednesday. It was the highest close for the Dow since it finished at 833.23 on June 17 of last year.

In the space of less than five months—since Dec. 6—the average now has risen 253 points.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was up .80 at 88.10, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index added .40 to 46.59.

For the second day in a row, however, the over-all NYSE tally was less impressive than the Dow, with gainers outnumbering losers 880 to 502 among the 1,791 issues traded.

It was, as expected, a busy day at trading desks in the financial community while brokers and investing institutions jockeyed for position in the new setting of competitive commission rates.

But stock prices and the flow of market activity showed few visible disruptive effects from the changeover.

Big Board volume reached its highest total in more than a week at 20.66 million shares, compared with 18.06 million on Wednesday

Some analysts, in fact, said they believed prices were benefitting from hopes that the new competitive environment would turn out to be a stimulus to investment in stocks

There was also talk on Wall Street that the Treasury would keep its long term borrowing limited in order to avoid putting renewed pressure on the bond market as it continued its financing of the federal budget.

Halliburton, which reported sharply higher first quarter earnings, rose 4¼ to 164½ to lead a general advance in oil drilling and service issues.

Oils were mixed with Getty dropping 2 to 168½ on the company's statement that its second quarter and full-year profits would fall short of last year's comparable figures

Schering-Plough, the volume leader on the Big Board, slipped ¼ to 57¾ in trading that included a 221,200-share block at 58

Southern Pacific fell 2½ to 27¼ The railroad reported a $21 1 million first quarter loss.

Pittston gained 2⅛ to 64½ in active trading, touching a record high of 65½ along the way. The issue has been strong lately since the company's issuance of a strong first quarter report and a bright earnings forecast for the rest of the year on Tuesday.

The American Stock Exchange's market value index failed to share in the general uptrend, slipping .08 to 84.16.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market rose .73 to 79.27.

After the close the Treasury said $750 million in 30-year bonds would be included in $5 billion worth of debt securities it will sell next week. Analysts said the $750 million figure was within the range of Wall Street's expectations.

Corn And Oats Futures Decline

Chicago (AP) — Corn and oats futures declined the allowable limits on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday and strongly influenced lower prices for other farm commodity futures on the exchange

The loss amounted to 10 cents a bushel in the corn pit and 6 cents in oats.

After the limits had been touched in corn and oats a vigorous selling move got under way in wheat and soybeans and both commodities fell around 18 cents a bushel Soybeans recovered about halfway at the close as shorts took profits but wheat was down 18 cents a bushel.

Hog Prices Turn Higher

OMAHA, Neb (AP)—Hogs turned sharply higher on the Omaha livestock market Thursday as demand outstripped the small supply.

Cattle also turned a bit higher, but there were not enough sales to afford good market test, and top-graded better-feds were absent.

In both instances, the dressed trade also dealt an upward pressure on the market.

The hog run totaled just 4,000 head, with barrows and gilts seeing active trade. The butcher trend was 75-cents to as much as $1 25 higher, with topgraded handyweights earning from $44.00-$44 50.

Sows turned 50-cents to 1 00 higher on sales generally from $38.50-$39 50

There were only 500 head on the cattle line, and the scattered steer and heifer sales were called 50-cents higher, instances $1.00 on the upside.

Cows traded on a firm note.

Sheep receipts totaled 100 head The limited supply of slaughter ewes was about steady, and slaughter lambs were scarce. Cull to good ewes brought $7.00-$9.00.

Pioneer Insurance Co. To Fight

Pioneer Insurance Co. has filed a suit in Lancaster County District Court to fight Insurance Director James Jackson's attempts to take control of the company.

The State Insurance Department began supervising the company in late March under a state law which allows the insurance director to take charge of an insurance company and its property if he believes the company is insolvent or financially impaired.

Jackson based his takeover move on a decline in the land values of a California land development project called Lake California. The insurance department said Pioneer invested heavily in the project.

The company contends that the state law authorizing the takeover is unconstitutional under both federal and state constitutions because it does not provide for a notice or hearing before the supervision begins, according to the suit.

The statute denies the company due process and deprives it of property rights and equal protection, the suit contends.

The company is also asking the court to restrain Jackson from interfering in the conducting of the plaintiff's business and particularly from enforcing subpoenas issued for appraisals done on the value of the California property.

The suit claims that Jackson has prohibited payment for the appraisals, but has demanded copies of it through the subpoenas.

Before Jackson declared the company under the control of the Insurance Department and appointed Guy R. Smith as supervisor, Pioneer was voluntarily under Jackson's control in a voting trust.

The petition filed in District Court Thursday claims that Jackson now intends to divide up the company assets.

Withdrawal Urged

Washington (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the United States should withdraw its military forces from Korea on a gradual basis.

Pioneer Insurance Co. To Fight

Pioneer Insurance Co. has filed a suit in Lancaster County District Court to fight Insurance Director James Jackson's attempts to take control of the company.

The State Insurance Department began supervising the company in late March under a state law which allows the insurance director to take charge of an insurance company and its property if he believes the company is insolvent or financially impaired.

Jackson based his takeover move on a decline in the land values of a California land development project called Lake California. The insurance department said Pioneer invested heavily in the project.

The company contends that the state law authorizing the takeover is unconstitutional under both federal and state constitutions because it does not provide for a notice or hearing before the supervision begins, according to the suit.

The statute denies the company due process and deprives it of property rights and equal protection, the suit contends.

The company is also asking the court to restrain Jackson from interfering in the conducting of the plaintiff's business and particularly from enforcing subpoenas issued for appraisals done on the value of the California property.

The suit claims that Jackson has prohibited payment for the appraisals, but has demanded copies of it through the subpoenas.

Before Jackson declared the company under the control of the Insurance Department and appointed Guy R. Smith as supervisor, Pioneer was voluntarily under Jackson's control in a voting trust.

The petition filed in District Court Thursday claims that Jackson now intends to divide up the company assets.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Friday

Libra can be pleasant and sunny, until pushed to the wall. This native, man or woman, reveres balance, dignity and beauty. When encountering "unsavory characters," Libra pulls out the stops and a battle royal could ensue. Don't choose Libra for a scapegoat. It won' work. The native has allies in various quarters — and once the fight has started will give no quarter. June could be a money month for Libra.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Friend may express unusual idea about money and how it gets that way. Be flexible without scattering forces. Activities are due to expand. Get time and motion study. Be aware of costs. Don't depend on those who give you flattery and little else.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Partnership prospects are apt to be unstable. Accent is on achievement, convincing professional superior of your unique abilities. Outline goals. Be specific. State requirements. Be frank. Your views, programs are being seriously considered.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be ready for change, variety, possible move which stimulates. Your natural abilities surge to forefront. Questions are answered. Communications flow. You are able to get across major points.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Money, love, creativity are featured. You feel more vital, alive. Home conditions improve. If diplomatic, you gain valuable ally. Taurus, Libra persons are apt to be in picture. Investment plan deserves your attention.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Lie low. If you don't know what to do, do nothing. Legal matters could delay direct action. Refuse to be pushed into premature move. Avoid self-deception. Perceive what is occurring behind the scenes.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Build on solid base. Realize your own worth. Throw off any tendency toward false modesty. Accent basic issues. Relative has information of value. Ask. Don't permit pride to block progress. You'll see!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You gain sense of direction where emotional responses are concerned. Member of opposite sex plays key role. You see in persepctive; distortions are corrected.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Logjam is removed. Study Libra message. Accept progress when it stares you in the face. Realize that challenge is not rejection. Regain vim, verve and vigor. You're going places! Know it and act like you are aware of it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Short trip could be on agenda, connected with relatives, job security. Follow through on hunch. Someone has something to say, but wants assurances of your discretion. Be receptive but be wary of promises that cannot be sustained.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Friends, social activities dominate. There is relaxation of tensions. You gain better perspective of where you're going and what are ultimate goals. Study Libra, Scorpio messages. Enlarge emotional horizons.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Lunar cycle is such that you welcome challenge, overcome obstacles and handle details with dispatch, aplomb. Is this really you? Yes, you might be asking that question! Career boost indicated following "good press."

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Light touch brings about needed change. Avoid trying to force your way — be eager rather than anxious. Gemini, Virgo individuals figure prominently. You could be visiting one temporarily confined to home, hospital.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are sensitive, emotional, loyal to family, have fetish for security, often limit yourself for no good reason, will be happier beginning with October — June will be a "power month" for you this year. Cancer, Capricorn persons play important roles in your life. Be wary, in May, of trusting persons who sweet-talk and want to sell you proverbial Brooklyn Bridge.
